TAXES GROWING UP LIKE TOPSY, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Tells Mayors No One Will Starve.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today expressed concern over mounting taxes to a group of 100 mayors of the United States who called upon him in the White House.

To the mayors who have been conferring here on the work relief program Mr. Roosevelt announced that he planned to call a conference of city and state officials late this winter for the purpose of studying the whole system of taxes—state, municipal and federal.

He coined a phrase which may well become historic.

"Taxes," he announced, "have grown up like Topsy in this country."

"We all have learned more in the last three years," he told the mayors. "We have tried many experiments, some of which have been successful, others not so successful. But we are building a new relationship between the branches of government—state, municipal and national."

Seeks Simplified Taxation.

The President continued with the assertion that efforts should be made to simplify the tax situation.

"There should be lines of demarcation between the different types of taxation," he remarked.

"We are stepping on each other's toes, especially in the past five, ten, or fifteen years. In fact, virtually since the beginning of the world war the general tax situation in the United States has become not only more complicated but has called for revision. We haven't had a revision and I think the time is coming—not this coming session of congress, because we hope that it will be a very short session—but by the following year, when all of us can get together and sit around a table and work out a better system of taxation—state, municipal and federal.

"Late this winter we are going to ask you to come down and talk about that subject around the table. I suppose this meeting will be dignified by the name of a tax conference, but I would rather keep it informal and have it become a continuing study which will bring forth an intelligent report before the close of the year 1936."

Reiterates "Nobody to Starve."

"Such a study should be brought in after the elections," he added, reflectively.

At his press conference before meeting the mayors the President had been asked if relief would end by next July 1. His answer to the reporters was: "Of course nobody is going to starve, as I have said many times before." To the mayors he amplified this answer.

"It is a question that you have to combat," he observed. "My answer, and I am sure yours will be the same for city governments, is that we do not propose to let people starve.

"Some people will be surprised to find that the gigantic works program will be substantially carried out by the end of November, just as it was planned last spring," he continued.

President Chafes at Red Tape.

Mr. Roosevelt complained about the red tape which forced him to sign "hundreds and thousands of allotment papers for various projects."

"They ought never to come to my desk," he remarked, "but we have to go through what is called red tape because of the law."

He added a defense of Controler General McCarl, who, he said, had been blamed for holding up projects.

"After all, he is limited in the staf he has," he declared; "his people are worn to the bone."

Nov. 1 had been set as the deadline when the Works Progress program was announced last spring. This date was set back a month some time ago. Mr. Roosevelt explained that "substantially carried out" did not mean that all 48 states would be off the dole by Dec. 1, or that 3½ million men would be employed "100 per cent."

La Guardia Angers Colleagues.

At their meeting today the mayors became embroiled in bitter arguments over the works program. Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York, fiery radical, became furious when Mayor W. F. Carr of Durham,

TEACHER GETS 25 YEARS FOR KILLING FATHER

Jury Debates Fate Only Half Hour.

Wise, Va., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A jury of mountaineers tonight convicted Edith Maxwell, 21 year old school teacher, of the first degree murder of her father and fixed her punishment at 25 years in the state penitentiary.

The jury deliberated only 30 minutes in deciding the fate of the girl accused of fatally beating her father, Trigg Maxwell, Wise blacksmith, when he attempted to punish her for staying out late.

When the verdict was returned the girl looked incredulously at her brother Earl, who stood beside her as she rose to hear the verdict.

Girl's Mother Faints.

Her mother, Mrs. Anne Maxwell, who will be tried in March on a charge of murder in her husband's death, fainted when news of the verdict was brought to her in a witness room.

When she saw her mother being carried from the building Miss Maxwell burst into tears and screamed hysterically. She tried to break away and reach her mother, but was restrained. She had partly regained her composure when led back to her cell.

W. W. Dotson, the girl's uncle and counsel, announced he [illegible] if his motion to set aside the verdict were refused. Judge H. A. W. Skeen said he would give the defense several days to put such a motion in writing.

Taking the witness stand in her own defense today Miss Maxwell said she accidentally inflicted her father's fatal injuries while defending herself when he attempted to whip her while he was in a "drunken frenzy."

Denies State Testimony.

Denying testimony of numerous state witnesses, who said they frequently had heard her say she was going to kill her father, Miss Maxwell said she "loved and respected" him.

"I was frightened; I didn't know what to do," she said, testifying of the struggle. "I began to strike. I tried to get away. I didn't even know I hit him. It was dark in there."

Her father was angered, she said, when she returned home shortly after 1 a. m. from an evening spent with her cousin, Vernon Maxwell, in Wise.

Tells of Struggle.

There was an argument, she said, and her father picked up a knife from a kitchen table and advanced toward her.

"Pappy, don't stab me," she said she cried. "He then dropped the knife and grabbed me by the hair. We struggled from the darkened kitchen into the darkened bedroom, stumbling over various pieces of furniture. Finally I fell over a chair and picked up an old shoe I felt on the floor.

"I jerked away, but pappy grabbed me by the shoulders again. Then I began to strike with the heel of the slipper. Pappy was saying, 'Edith, I'm going to punish you.' Mother was saying, 'Trigg, don't do that. You ought to be ashamed of yourself.'"

Quizzed on Testimony.

At this point the girl was questioned about the testimony of Miss Ruth Baker, formerly her roommate at Radford State Teachers' college, who had said she frequently heard Miss Maxwell say she was going to kill her father.

"It's not true," Miss Maxwell said. "Pappy was good when he was sober, but mean when he was drunk."

Fencing with Prosecutor F. B. Greear on cross-examination she replied with an emphatic "No!" when asked if she had ever called her father a dog.

Earlier her 12 year old sister, Mary Catherine, brought tears to the eyes of spectators, mountain men and women, all neighbors and friends of the Maxwell family, by her story of the fatal evening last July 20.

The child said she saw her father about 5 o'clock that afternoon drinking beer at the Lonesome Pine café and added that he was intoxicated an hour later when he saw her playing on the sidewalk and told her to go home.

"I said I would," she told the jury, breaking into tears at the recollection, "but I told him he better come with me. He wouldn't, though."

POST LIST OF SOME 25 'HABITUAL DRUNKARDS' IN WARSAW, INDIANA

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Several Warsaw residents described in police records as habitual drinkers of whisky and beer to excess, found their names posted on a public "black list" today.

Chief of Police Frank Lucas ordered copies of the list, which included about twenty-five names, sent to every liquor dealer in the city. He told the dealers, "Don't sell these fellows any more."

Chief Lucas announced other names would go on the list when necessary.

Rejects Youth's Attentions in Tavern; Shot in Big Toe

Miss Phyllis Carroll, 20 years old, of the Earl hotel, Argo, was shot in the great toe of the left foot early today in the Russian Village, a tavern at 2116 West Division street. The shooting, according to the girl, was done by a man whom she met in the saloon. He became angry, she said, because she refused an invitation to go with him to another saloon. After the shooting he fled and the police were unable to learn his identity.

County Relief 'Clients' Paid in Cash Today

Cook county will go on cash relief today with the disbursement of $52,562 in checks to 4,753 relief clients. Other groups will receive notification to appear at their district stations and get their checks on succeeding days until the entire relief load in the county is under the new system Nov. 27.

Leo J. Lyons, county administrator for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said that clients could use the checks as they saw fit for rent, clothing, food and other needs while the IERC would continue to supply them with fuel and shoes under the old disbursing oder. The commission had let contracts for these before the new plan was adopted.

Should it be found that relief checks are squandered on liquor or gambling the family will be placed under disbursing orders again, Lyons declared.

Future Course in Doubt.

What the IERC will do to meet its needs after Dec. 1 when the federal emergency relief administration will quit handing out cash to the states, according to Washington dispatches, is still a question mark. Wilfred S. Reynolds, IERC executive secretary, said that the commission would make application to Washington for funds anyway. He said the state sales tax would provide $2,000,000 next month for relief purposes, but that this sum would not be adequate to finance relief operations.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy WPA administrator for the state, said that more than 100,000 had been employed on projects so far, and the program was steaming ahead at the employment rate of 5,000 or 6,000 a day. The federal government has set the total number to be employed by WPA in the state at 183,500 and demanded that the peak be reached by Nov. 25.

Figures on Boondoggling.

Recapitulation figures on the employment to be furnished on government dramatic and musical projects were given out during the day.

There will be jobs for 370 vaudevillians, including stage hands and other employés, fifty-two Negro dramatists, 237 in the "American Art Theater" for young people with modern plays, and 157 "old timers" for the classics preceding 1910, with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" heading the repertoire.

Projects have been written for 336 musicians. The plans call for a symphony orchestra of 75, two bands of 50 and 40 pieces, seven pit orchestras to go along with vaudeville, and four Negro projects, including a 28 piece concert band, 16 piece jazz band, 25 piece concert orchestra, and a chorus of 42 voices.

SAFETY AND FAULTY GRAMMAR CLASH; IT BECOMES A PROBLEM

Chicago's school teachers have a problem.

Should they [1] distribute to their pupils cards issued by the state of Illinois warning the young against automobile dangers, or [2] withhold the cards because the state of Illinois uses bad grammar?

One of the gems of ineptitude on the card reads: "Do you know that some boy or girl is killed in an automobile accident every day in the state of Illinois because they walked on a highway with their back to trafic."

Note: No question mark after the question.

In a list of fifteen "Do you knows" several other errors were noted, principally due to confusion of the singular and plural forms.

August Pritzlaff, head of the department of physical education in the Chicago schools, said that the cards were received last week, and were accompanied by a request that a supply be placed in every one of the city's school rooms.

Since then, he added, teachers have been complaining. They like to teach safety, but they have a preference also for reasonably good English.

At Springfield a trafic engineer of the state highway department disclosed that he had written copy for the card with the aid of "some of the fellows," and that the final draft had been approved by Ernst Lieberman, chief engineer, before the edition of 100,000 was printed.

This informant said that the advice of several teachers of English would be sought before a second edition is sent to the presses and that doubtless the grammar would be improved.

Morgan Fears Tax Spending of All Fortunes

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Attacking the administration's taxation program, J. P. Morgan, the financier, predicted tonight upon his arrival from Europe that all private fortunes would be wiped out in the United States within thirty years unless taxes and governmental expenditures were cut.

"Why, even now anybody who makes any money in the United States actually is working eight months of the year for the government," he said, "and who is going to be able to or will do that indefinitly?"

The financier emphasized that this condition could not continue. He said no one would take a partner in his business who insisted on having two-thirds of the money earned for his share.

Can't Spend Income Twice.

Asked if he thought there would be a return to private banking and investment brokerage by one firm, now banned by the government, he replied:

"It may be very possible at some future date, for everything is a possibility, except that neither the United States nor anybody else can go on spending twice as much as is earned for an indefinite period."

Morgan added that present governmental taxation would stop initiative as well as new and old enterprises. Insurance companies and savings banks would be the only holders of savings within a period of thirty years, he asserted.

All private fortunes, colleges, many schools, and all libraries would disappear, he added.

Bull Market No Barometer.

After a glance at the financial page of a late paper, his first request, he was asked his opinion of the bullish market trend in relation to prosperity.

"I don't think a bullish market makes for prosperity," he answered. "It didn't a few years ago—at least, it didn't for me, and it didn't for a lot of people."

Inquiries as to what he thought of President Roosevelt's chances for reelection brought from Morgan:

"It is not time to worry about that. Really, you know more about it than I do."

SAN FRANCISCO WARNED; BAKING SODA FATAL TO 3

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A warning the lives of hundreds of San Franciscans are threatened by poisoned baking soda, already blamed for three deaths, was broadcast tonight by Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health director.

Nine hundred pounds of the soda, Dr. Geiger said, have been sold in bulk by a San Francisco department store since Oct. 23. Eight hundred pounds unsold were confiscated.

"Deadly poison has contaminated a large quantity of baking soda sold in bulk form and widely distributed in San Francisco," Dr. Geiger warned in a signed statement. "Use of that soda will endanger the lives of untold numbers of residents of the city.

Dr. Geiger said the soda had been placed in barrels which formerly contained poison. He said only the soda sold through the one store was dangerous.

Nine other San Franciscans were reported to have been made violently ill when they ate food in which the soda was used or partook of it for medical purposes.

C. G. Davis, health department chemist, declared a half teaspoonful of the soda might cause death.

FIRST SUNNY DAY SINCE NOV. 8 IS FORECAST TODAY

Sunshine, almost a total stranger to Chicago for the last 11 days, is to return today, according to the official forecast. Temperatures will be lower today, it was indicated, than in the long sunless period, but a slight warming up is anticipated tomorrow.

Last Friday there were 12 minutes of sunshine. That's all there was in the 11 days since sunny Nov. 8, but it was enough to prevent the establishment of a new record for extended lack of the sun's rays. The old one was set when there was total cloudiness from Dec. 16 through Dec. 25, 1895.

A remarkable feature of the cloudy spell was the slight range of temperature. The low was 38 and the high 45 for 11 days. Lake winds and cloudiness contributed to this consistency.

20 Planes Bomb and Shoot Ethiopians.

BULLETIN.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

HARRAR, Ethiopia, Nov. 20 (Wednesday).—Ethiopian tribesmen ambushed a convoy of Italian trucks on the southern front, unofficial reports said today, resulting in a sharp battle in which more than 450 casualties were suffered on both sides. The fighting was most bloody, Ethiopian reports said, with quarter neither asked nor given by either side. Ethiopian casualties were estimated at more than 300 and 150 native Somali troops of Italy's army were killed or wounded. Some Italian officers were wounded, but escaped.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 19.—A fierce battle between Italian pilots and Ethiopian land forces was described today by jubilant Fascists, who estimated the enemy dead at about 2,000.

Military experts said it was the greatest air engagement since the world war, the most important battle of the current campaign, and one of the strangest of modern times.

A force of more than 15,000 Ethiopians concentrated in a narrow valley south of Makale was routed, it was officially announced. After the fighting, bodies of hundreds of tribesmen were scattered on the field, pilots reported.

Hail Duce's Sons as Heroes.

The Ethiopians, employing rifles and anti-aircraft guns, fought desperately. When some of the Italian bombers dived as low as 100 feet, the Ethiopian gunners, perched on crags, actually shot down on the planes.

Hailed as among the heroes of the engagement were Premier Mussolini's two sons, Bruno and Vittorio, and his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

"Attention is called to the heroism and disdain of danger demonstrated by all the personnel," an official communique said. "Particular mention must be made of Vittorio and Bruno Mussolini, who, when their machine gun ammunition was exhausted, continued to shoot with rifles."

Ciano Forced Down.

Ciano had to return to Makale when his oil tank was hit by a bullet. Bruno's plane was struck seven times and Vittorio's nine. One Italian mechanic was seriously wounded. More than 200 bullet holes in the twenty Italian planes in the squadron were encircled tonight with tricolored "wound stripes."

The planes attacked the huge encampment of Ethiopians yesterday, just beyond the farthest Italian southern outpost. The odd battle, believed almost unprecedented, between air and land forces, lasted for two hours.

Count Ciano said that when the enemy was sighted "I gave the signal for the ground attack."

"We dove in Indian file to within 100 feet of the ground and dropped incendiary bombs on the camp," he said. "At the same time we machine gunned them. We saw the Ethiopians scatter fast, but we got hundreds of them before they could take shelter. Incendiary bombs set fire to the encampment.

Oil Tank Hit by Bullet.

"At the same time, however, we noticed concentrations of machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, and riflemen on the heights overlooking the valley. They were firing on us, their bullets going through our planes. We swept clear through the valley, and then I gave the signal to come down again on the camp.

"We dove again and again and let them have bombs and machine gun bullets. Just then one of their bullets hit our oil tank. I had to give the word to return and land at Makale. I found anti-aircraft shells had hit my mudguard, oil tank, and rudder. Thirty-six bullets riddled the plane.

"We were flying so low in the valley that the Ethiopians on the mountain tops actually were firing down on us. One of my wings bears the small marks of shots from a shotgun.

One Italian Wounded.

"The other plane which had to make a forced landing near Hauzien had its landing gear broken in coming down, but none of the crew was injured."

A mechanic, Sergt. Birago, although shot in the leg while working a machine gun, which became jammed, climbed to the upper machine gun post and continued firing until Baron Ostini, the pilot, ordered him to descend. He will be proposed for a medal of valor. Of this incident Ciano said:

"The mechanic, although suffering from a fractured leg, scribbled notes to me on bloody cards, such as they got me, but we got a huge number of them,' and 'long live the disperata [desperate] squadron,' which he asked Ostini to give to me.

"Throughout the return flight Ostini's relief pilot held a finger in a bullet hole in the gas tank."

Claim Surrender of Biru.

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The government said tonight the sultanate of Biru, in northeastern Ethiopia, had surrendered to the Italian northern army, which also resumed operations on the western end of its front.

The Biru region, said an official communique, extends from the plateau southeast of Makale to the Italo-French border near Daddato. It is slightly smaller than the state of New Hampshire.

Chiefs of Biru submitted to Italy, the government said, and "asked to participate in the operations against the Addis Ababa government."

Italy held a protectorate over the region in 1904, but was pushed out by Ethiopia.

The government said an Eritrean corps was "cleaning up" in the eastern Tembien region, west of Makale, while natives occupied the Nadir region northwest of Gheralta and Fascist Black Shirts seized Tzahama.

Emperor Leaves for Front.

[Special to the London Daily Telegraph and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Nov. 19.—Emperor Haile Selassie left Addis Ababa by airplane at dawn today for an unannounced destination, believed to be one of the war fronts. Some believe he will land at Dessye, to the north. His plane was escorted by two smaller planes. The empress and their two daughters sat in an automobile outside the airdrome and silently watched the departure.

Before his departure the emperor was asked to give his views on the possibility of peace. He replied:

"Any discussions of peace with Italy at the present moment would be futile. No one seeks it more urgently than I, but at this moment it is perfectly useless to start peace negotiations on any basis, under any conditions whatsoever. This subject cannot be discussed so long as the invaders stand on our soil."

The emperor insisted his troops have not yet suffered defeat, for they "have not yet arrived at the front in their full strength. Until they do, claims of victories can only be empty boasts."

Of Italy's protest against sanctions he said:

"I can merely point out that Italy, at the same time it asserts it is accomplishing a civilizing mission, is carrying out death spreading measures against a civil population, especially against women and children.

"I can only say that victory still is possible for Ethiopia, and that all chances still exist for the eventual triumph of our country."

SHIP CREW DELAYS SAILING FOR WAR ZONE WITH FUEL

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Heeding, temporarily at least, what they regarded as the implied suggestion of Secretary Hull against movement of aviation gasoline to the Italian Somaliland war zone, the crew of the freighter Oregon tonight decided not to accept war time bonuses offered by owners of the vessel.

The decision, reached at a meeting of the southern California council of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific Coast, delayed the scheduled sailing of the Oregon tonight.

The council announced another meeting would be held tomorrow to reconsider the issue.

Harry Norman, acting head of the council, said the crew believed the issue involved a possible serious situation, and for that reason and because of the announcement by Secretary Hull that the United States would give no guarantee for the safety of the men decided to defer final decision.

Plan Commerce Whip.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Pressure may be exerted on American companies to reduce raw material shipments to Italy through the commerce department, if it is found that admonitions against sales of war products to belligerents is not sufficiently observed.

BRITISH COLONY RAIDED; BLAME ITALIAN NATIVES

Tribesmen Protest Theft of Hundreds of Camels.

BY SIR PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.

[Special Correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph and Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Nov. 19.—Two caravan traders who arrived here today from British Somaliland said bands of native irregulars behind the Italian lines have been raiding tribesmen in British territory and carrying off livestock.

One force, which evaded the camel corps patrols and succeeded in penetrating some miles inside the boundary, seized 800 camels and wounded several of their Somali owners.

Owners Demand Compensation.

These forays have been made at points remote from the usual caravan tracks, where it is impossible for British troops to maintain constant surveillance. The informants said the owners made strong protests to the British authorities and demanded compensation for their losses.

It is not considered likely that the raids were countenanced by the Italians, who find it difficult to keep a tight hold on the native bands, but it is well known that the Italian military commanders want more camels. They pay well for all that are offered them by the Somalis.

The Italian threat to Harrar, which tends to bring the right flank of the Italians close to the British frontier, has caused the British authorities to strengthen their border patrols near Buramo, where the greatest influx of refugees is anticipated if the Ethiopians suddenly retreat from Harrar.

Italians Have Tank Trouble.

It is understood the Italians are experiencing difficulties in operating their tanks, owing to the intense heat inside, which has caused many of the occupants to collapse. Apparently no provision was made in their construction for use in the tropics.

The French military force at Djibouti has armored cars of the latest type for this kind of work. They are air cooled and ventilated by fans to insure an even temperature on the hottest day.

While the Ethiopians are fighting against invasion by Italy, that country continues to be their best customer for coffee, one of the principal sources of Ethiopian revenue. The majority of shipments arriving here are destined for Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, and Italian home ports. The Ethiopian traders insist upon cash payment.

ITALY TO ISSUE STAMP TO HELP PAY WAR COST

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Italy, which frequently issues elaborate stamps, will turn out one of its most expensive products next year in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Italian occupation of Eritrea.

The issue will be an air mail stamp worth 50 lire [14 cents]. If every inhabitant of Italy should buy one, the proceeds—totaling some 2,000,000,000 lire [$160,000,000], would pay the estimated cost of the Ethiopian war for six months.

At present Italy has only one stamp costing more than 50 lire—a 100 lire air mail stamp.

ITALY ACCUSED OF SACRIFICING TYROL SOLDIERS

Bare High Casualty Rate in Africa.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Suspicion that the Italian high command is deliberately sacrificing Italy's Tyrolese troops in the Ethiopian war is voiced in anti-Fascist circles here. This suspicion is based on reliable reports which revealed exceptionally high casualties in Italian regiments recruited in the German speaking parts of the Tyrol—now Trentino—which formerly belonged to Austria.

While Premier Mussolini's military authorities continue to minimize the losses in the Ethiopian campaign, uncensored letters received via Austria by relatives of Tyrolese soldiers here and communicated to THE TRIBUNE state that the mountain villages of the Tyrol are mourning thousands of dead.

Thirty Dead from One Village.

Though this is doubtless an exaggeration, the importance of the losses is shown by the fact that a single small village of 600 inhabitants near Bolzano reported the deaths of thirty of its young men. They were either killed in fighting or died of disease.

The news of these heavy casualties is causing consternation in the Tyrol. The villagers are convinced that the Fascist government, which has been trying in vain to Italianize its German speaking population, now is striving to exterminate them and make room for Italian immigrants.

Seek to Evade Service.

Upon arrival at the African front the Tyrolese troops are brigaded with the Askaris, Italy's black soldiers who are doing nearly all the real fighting, and ruthlessly exposed to the enemy's fire and the deadly climate, it is alleged.

The hardy Tyrolese peasants, mostly Alpine guides, shepherds, and chamois hunters, make élite soldiers. They constituted a crack corps of the Austrian army in the world war. But they are now deserting whenever they get a chance, disheartened and angered by the Italian discrimination. Hundreds of young villagers are fleeing over the mountain passes into Austria to escape being drafted for the African campaign, from which they believe they will never return.

COMMITTEE DECIDES TO AWARD NO NOBEL PEACE PRIZE THIS YEAR

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 19.—(AP)—No Noble peace prize will be awarded this year, the committee announced today. Presumably, the committee decided no individual merited the honor, a stand it has taken on previous occasions.

Among those suggested for the award was Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, but members of the committee explained recently his name had not been sent in prior to the deadline for nominations.

The Dominican republic proposed its dictator-president, Gen. Rafael Trujillo, as a recipient. The prize was won last year by Arthur Henderson of England, who was president of the world disarmament conference. It was last awarded to the United States in 1931, shared by the late Jane Addams, founder of Hull house, Chicago, and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

All Paper and Cellulose Firms in Italy Combine

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP)—All paper and cellulose firms in Italy were gathered into one large association today to coordinate and accelerate production. Since paper is one of the most costly imports and comes largely from countries applying sanctions against Italy, many economies are being practiced. These include reduction in the size of newspapers to six pages, and an attempt to eliminate wrappings of parcels.

DUCE DECLARES A MONOPOLY ON ALL GOLD IN ITALY

Bans Deals as a Part of War on Sanctions.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ROME, Nov. 20 (Wednesday.)—Premier Mussolini today personally led Fascist Italy in the launching of a vast, intensive campaign of increased national production to defeat league of nations sanctions.

He summoned the heads of the kingdom's fruit and vegetable growers' syndicate to his office in the historic Palazzo di Venezia to discuss the program for heightened home production as it applied to their vital fields.

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini declared a monopoly on all of Italy's gold tonight as the nation stood firm on a program of no compromise with countries applying sanctions against it because of the invasion of Ethiopia.

Il Duce authorized the National Institute for Foreign Exchange—with the coöperation of the ministry of finance and the supreme finance commission—to control all gold transactions of Italians at home and abroad.

Italians will not be allowed to sell gold without first offering it to the government monopoly, which agrees to return "in not more than one year" the same amount of gold of the same fineness.

Offers 5 Per Cent Interest.

The government offered 5 per cent interest on gold turned over to the monopoly.

All sellers of gold must declare all their holdings and must record every transaction. Importation of gold will be licensed. The ministry of finance was authorized to investigate past sales of the metal.

The program, seen as making possible the future requisition of private gold holdings, came after Fascism's highest authority, the grand council, was understood to have decided on continued resistance to penalties levied against it by the league of nations and to have planned further moves in the Ethiopian invasion.

Although a communique said only that the council heard and commented on Premier Mussolini's report on the political and military situation, informed foreign circles expressed the opinion Italy would "listen" for peace proposals, although not offering them.

These quarters said Italy would stand on a program of "watchful waiting" concerning nonsanctionist countries such as the United States and Germany.

An official spokesman said the United States will not receive special consideration if it adopts further restrictive measures as part of its neutrality program.

Asserting he could not say what specific measures Italy would take if the American government embargoed oil and other commodities, this spokesman said Italy would decide on any counter measures as the occasion arises.

Fascists began developing a boycott of sanctionist countries as the sanctions sector of Il Duce's corporative state system began to function.

A boycott of goods from those countries was voted by 130,000 grocers in 94 provincial syndicates. Meetings with similar programs were being held throughout the country.

Mussolini will consult the central "corporations" of some key industries concerning reprisals to be taken. New decrees and regulations will be issued rapidly as each branch of business presents its plan. The oil industry was already heavily restricted and had been notified that its reserve stocks must be kept at 70 per cent of storage capacity.

Posters were pasted on various store windows throughout Italy saying, "We sell nothing from sanctionist countries." Slogans attacking sanctions were shown in motion picture theaters. Black Shirts and police at Genoa ferreted out and verbally assailed merchants who overcharged customers or hoarded merchandise.

BRITAIN REJECTS PROTEST.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The British foreign office has drafted a reply to the Italian note of protest against sanctions and communicated its terms to the fifty-one other countries which are enforcing sanctions against Italy prior to its delivery to Premier Mussolini.

The reply rejects Mussolini's contention that each individual state applying sanctions, and not the coördination committee at Geneva, could be held responsible. The note has been communicated to the other participating sanctions states in response to a request that they should be informed of the lines France and Great Britain propose to take before they sent their own individual notes.

Downing street said tonight that it had already received France's note. The British note apparently has been drafted on identical lines with the French.

Mussolini Is Restrained.

Of greater interest is the fact that for the last twenty-four hours the British admit they thought Mussolini might respond to sanctions by withdrawing diplomatic representatives from those states applying them. It was announced tonight, with relief apparently, that Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador, would return to London.

The idea was conveyed here that Gen. Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, and Ambassador Grandi kept Il Duce from going too far in countermeasures at the sessions of the Fascist grand council over the week-end. British papers intimated that Mussolini wanted to take drastic action.

British sources tonight said Mussolini was irritated by the sanctions and wanted to take retaliatory steps, the outcome of which would have been highly dangerous to the peace of Europe. Balbo and Grandi, both of whom have been associated with Mussolini since the beginning of Fascism, made lengthy speeches.

It is expected that the British note to Italy will be delivered to Mussolini tomorrow or Thursday.

Czechs Cut Off Coal.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Coal shipments from Czechoslovakia to Italy were suspended today because the application of sanctions against Italy made payments through a clearing system impossible. The Italian coal monopoly was reluctant to pay cash.

CITY CHRISTMAS FUND TO BENEFIT 85,000 CHILDREN

Hodes Explains Method of Raising Money.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The machinery of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit, which is expected this year to raise $300,000 to provide clothing for some 85,000 poor children, was explained yesterday by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes. He has been secretary of the fund since Mayor Kelly established it in 1933.

The Chicago Christmas fund, like similar enterprises in other cities, has the backing of a powerful local political organization, donation of talent by theatrical, stage, and radio entertainers, and good promotional showmanship. But it is an almost unique experiment in practical political benevolence, Mr. Hodes maintained, in that it is operated on principles of business efficiency and common business honesty.

Mayor Warns of Rackets.

The strict financial control which Mr. Hodes described applies only to the central organization of the fund. Mayor Kelly has issued a statement warning the public that the fund gets its income from two enterprises, the Chicago high school championship football game and the "Night of Stars" entertainment in the Chicago Stadium.

The mayor recommended that charitably inclined citizens keep this in mind and investigate other solicitations. The warning was occasioned by the prevalence of charity rackets in previous Christmas seasons.

Last year the fund raised $213,238. Of this 86 per cent went to the purchase of clothing, the remainder for expenses. The expenses were $2,704 for office rent and help, $6,209 for the football game between the public and Catholic high school football champions, and $17,874 for the Stadium show, a six hour program of vaudeville.

All of Accounts Audited.

All of the receipts and expenditures were audited by George Rossetter & Co., public accountants. Col. A. A. Sprague received the money. He turned it over to a purchasing committee made up of executives of State street department stores and mail order houses. They bought the clothing at wholesale and supervised the distribution.

Democratic precinct workers collect the names of the children who receive the clothing. Their lists are approved by the Democratic ward committeemen.

In 1933 organized charities were asked to investigate the cases to see that they were worthy. They did so and gave the distribution a clean bill of health, Mr. Hodes said. Since then there has been no such supervision because of the expense it involves.

Benefits but No Graft.

Mr. Hodes was asked if distribution wasn't likely to be confined to children of Democratic voters.

"Not at all," he asserted. "As a matter of fact, a smart political organizer would be more likely to favor Republican families in the hope of winning their support. Many of the children who get outfits are in alien families which don't vote.

"Nobody will deny that the Democratic party gets valuable, if indirect, political benefits from the fund. If they do a good job why shouldn't they? But there isn't a penny of graft, and that is where the fund differs from a lot of political Christmas benefits in the past."

Disposal of the Tickets.

Policemen, firemen, and other public employés have been given tickets to the Stadium show which they are expected to dispose of. James B. McCahey, president of the school board, said recently that principals have been notified that tickets to the football game are available at the board offices and have been instructed to send requisitions for as many as are wanted in their schools.

Last year blocks of tickets were sent to each school, a practice which led to charges that they were being forced down the throats of teachers and pupils. It was not repeated this year.

The fund receives about a third of its income, in the form of ticket and program advertising purchases, from Democratic ward committeemen. These committeemen, in turn, stage their own ward benefits. The ward benefits are not subject to the supervision of the central organization. Any excess of funds over the ward pledge to the general fund is used for ward charities, usually for the Christmas baskets which have been a political tradition for many years.

Public Employés Contribute.

Public employés also contribute to the ward funds. The usual practice is to give each employé a bunch of tickets. He can, if he is able, pass them on to the public. If he can't he is frequently expected to "eat" them—pay for them from his own pocket. At least one instance of misrepresentation in telephone solicitation for the sale of such tickets has come to the attention of THE TRIBUNE.

Sometimes contributions of cash are levied from employés. A few days ago park police received a letter setting a scale of contributions from $25 for captains down to $8 for clerks. A reporter made an inquiry about the letter on Monday. Later the same day an order was issued recalling the letters and a sergeant and patrolman went about the Lincoln park district in a police car, picking up letters from individual policemen.

ACTOR CHARGES ACTRESS LURED HIS WIFE AWAY

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Natalie Hays Hammond, artist daughter of John Hays Hammond, wealthy mining engineer, today was named as defendant in a $100,000 alienation suit brought by Leonard Doyle, Broadway actor.

In the complaint, filed in Manhattan Supreme court, Doyle charged that he married Leona Hogarth, an actress, in New Orleans in 1917 and that Miss Hammond lured her away from his home in July, 1934.

He asserted that Miss Hammond used her wealth and position in society to exercise a powerful influence over his wife and "has harbored Leona against my consent and in opposition to my utmost peaceable efforts to obtain her from Miss Hammond's control."

JEWEL BURGLAR SEIZED; ADMITS LOOTING HOMES

Carlyle Marlette, 23 years old, formerly of Danville, Ill., is under arrest at the Woodlawn police station and has confessed to breaking into several homes and stealing jewelry valued at more than $6,000.

Marlette was seized by Policeman Terry Loftus and Grover Mulvaney as he was prowling through the home of Edwin N. Ashcraft, 6046 Kimbark avenue. Jewelry found on his person and in his home at 1126 East 62d street was identified as having been stolen from the homes of R. V. Kelly, 5137 Dorchester avenue, and Walter F. Slocum, 5604 Kenwood avenue, principal of the Carl Schurz High school.

Jacob Betz, head of a jewelry concern at 6724 Stony Island avenue, was taken into custody for questioning after young Marlette told of selling loot to him. Betz said he had made the purchases, but that he did not know the jewelry was stolen.

Vote on $200,000 Evanston Street Repair Bonds Today

Residents of Evanston will vote today on a proposal to issue $200,000 of bonds for resurfacing of streets. A similar proposal was rejected three months ago by a vote of 1,216 to 934. Mayor Charles H. Bartlett has announced that if the bond issue is approved, the Public Works administration will be asked for $190,000 additional to make up the total of $390,000 estimated as the whole cost of needed street repairs.

PUPILS RAISING FUND TO CLOTHE NEEDY CHILDREN

Conduct Sales and Collect Junk; Goal $75,000.

BY KAY HALL.

To provide a fund for the purchase of clothing and shoes for needy schoolmates, Chicago pupils are amassing a "penny, nickel, and dime" fund as their annual Thanksgiving contribution to the School Children's Aid society. Collections at all the schools will be sent to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. He will write a check to the society on the day after Thanksgiving.

"And every penny given will go back to the school children in the form of new clothing and shoes," said Mrs. George A. McCorkle, president of the society. "Thousands of children this very week are out of school because they have no clothes to wear.

Truant Officers Investigate.

"Teachers note their absence and truant officers confirm the reason. The principal makes out an application for the necessary clothes. They are sent out and the pupil's identity is kept confidential. This is the way the fund operates."

Last year the children contributed $65,000. This year $75,000 is hoped for.

"The Illinois Emergency Relief commission is not furnishing clothes now," said Mrs. McCorkle. "This new idea of $65 a month for a family leaves nothing for shoes and suits and dresses. We have 200 to 300 applications a day and we completely outfit an average of 30,000 children a year. We have to renew shoes as a rule twice a year."

Pupils Show Deep Interest.

The Thanksgiving fund has a strong place in the hearts of the pupils, according to teachers. They create "self-denial" funds, give up candy, gum and non-necessities to drop a nickel in the box. They hold penny sales and collect things which can be sold to the junkman. According to Miss Harriet Winship, assistant principal of the Avalon Park school and a leading sponsor of the fund, the students at her school have collected 83 pounds of tooth paste, cold cream and glue tubes and expect to realize $40 or $50 when they have collected 100 pounds.

The society was started 48 years ago by a group from the Chicago Woman's club. It is still sponsored by that club and numerous other women's organizations. The clothing is cut to proper pattern and size on special machines by volunteer women workers at the Haven school, 1472 South Wabash avenue. It is sent out to various women's groups who do the sewing.

More Streamlining

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Opera audiences this winter will see a large number of small sopranos in men's pantaloons and knee boots.

A manager of opera stars said today that streamline figures are enabling women to look more convincing in male rôles than the men themselves when high notes are required.

He added that if slender sopranos keep on counting their calories, men who can sing falsetto may have to start looking about for women's rôles.

"Faust," "Fidelio," "Rosenkavalier" and "Mignon" are among the operas in which women are taking men's parts.

DAVIS TO DIRECT U. S. DELEGATION AT NAVY PARLEY

Phillips and Standley Are Other Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt announced at his press conference today the American delegation to the London naval conference to open Dec. 6 will be composed of Norman H. Davis, White House ambassador at large; Undersecretary of State William Phillips and Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations.

Phillips, it was explained, will remain in London only a few weeks and then will return to Washington. The President said it was felt that Phillips' presence in London during the early days of the conference will give him a knowledge which will aid in maintaining an effective liaison between the state and navy departments here and the delegation abroad.

Will Sail Soon.

The delegates are expected to sail in a few days with Davis chairman of the group. They will be accompanied by a corps of experts of both the navy and state departments.

Robert Worth Bingham, American ambassador to Great Britain, will play no part in the conference. It is felt here that the situation in Europe is such that he should be free to devote all his time to European problems.

The delegation will carry on the traditional American policy on naval limitation to oppose the Japanese demand for parity with the United States and Great Britain which resulted in abrogation by Japan of the existing treaties last January. The existing treaties expire Jan. 1, 1937. The United States accepted the invitation to attend the present conference, extended by England which took the initiative in calling the gathering, on Oct. 24.

The delegates, the President said, will tell the conference that the United States is opposed to navies costing the people of the various countries more than they cost today.

Late in the afternoon Davis, Phillips, and Standley were summoned to the White House to discuss the conference and receive instructions from the President. They refused to disclose the details of their meeting with Mr. Roosevelt.

Will Work on Budget.

Mr. Roosevelt said he hopes to clean up one of his major tasks—the 1937-'38 budget—during his annual visit to Warm Springs, Ga. He leaves for Warm Springs tomorrow night.

The President revealed that only three department estimates have not been scanned by him. Next Monday he will discuss the budget in the south with Acting Budget Director Bell and Chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee.

The President was asked whether he plans to visit Canada next year, as had been announced in the British press. He replied that he has hoped to make such a visit for three years and would like to do so some day. No dates have been set and no promises have been made, he added.

ROOSEVELT AIDS IN GEORGIA MAP PRIMARY FIGHT

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's supporters in Georgia have launched a movement to hold a presidential preference primary in defiance of the state Democratic committee, if the latter, dominated by Gov. Eugene Talmadge, decides to pick the delegation itself.

The committee has power to provide a primary or to name delegates to the national convention, and Roosevelt's friends foresee the possibility that Gov. Talmadge, critical of the President, may seek to have the committee name a delegation pledged to support him rather than hold a primary. In recent presidential campaigns a primary has been held in Georgia.

Newt Morris of Marietta, a member of the committee, today said there are indications "the governor may endeavor to have the state committee elect delegates to the national convention without a primary."

PRESIDENT RETICENT ON EMBARGO, CHINA, FARLEY RESIGNATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Subjects on which President Roosevelt declined to comment today at his press conference:

1. The China situation. Mr. Roosevelt explained that all he knew was what he had read in the papers.

2. A report that Italy planned reprisals if United States oil shipments were embargoed. Mr. Roosevelt said he hadn't heard of any representations being made to the state department.

3. The report that Postmaster General Farley would resign in January. Mr. Roosevelt said that was the same old story.

MUST CUT TAXES, MAYORS WARNED BY ROOSEVELT

Overlapping Arouses Executive's Concern.

N. C., suggested that the federal government had better seek to stimulate private business rather than hand out relief jobs.

"If the rest of the country paid the wages that the mills of North Carolina pay, then maybe we might sell to the world markets," La Guardia shouted. "We might lower our living standards the country over and pay coolie wages, but I don't think the country wants to."

This attack aroused some ill feeling among the mayors, and for a time La Guardia was employed in answering a number of his colleagues.

Leads Charge on Program.

Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston led the charge against the relief program, listing a number of shortcomings. When he remarked that Boston would be left with 12,000 employables uncared for La Guardia yelled:

"The mayor of Boston had better carry on his missionary work at home before the state legislature and the chamber of commerce rather than in Washington. Every statement of criticism here today should be against the states and the cities instead of against the federal government."

Secretary of the Interior Ickes today answered La Guardia's charge of yesterday that Ickes and his "semicolon boys" had slowed down the PWA program with red tape.

Ickes Shifts Blame.

"Well, some persons prefer exclamation points and question marks to semi-colons," remarked Ickes. "If my good friend, the mayor, had said PWA was a good thing his remarks wouldn't have been printed."

Other federal agencies were responsible for the program delay, he asserted.

The irascible note in evidence throughout the mayors' conference was deepened when Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administration, replied heatedly in an address to what he termed "malicious and false criticism."

"An effort is being made to discredit the WPA program through ignorance, willful maliciousness, and knowing misrepresentation," he declared. "There are those who would pick out of the more than 100,000 projects which have been approved small individual projects which seem to them absurd and wasteful."

Befriends Wounded Crow; Now It Stays with Him

Three weeks ago Walter J. De Lorrell found a crow, its wing disabled by a hunter's gun, in a prairie near Des Plaines. De Lorrell took the bird to his floral shop at 120 East Oak street and when the wing had mended a week ago released it. The crow flew away and was gone for five days, but on Monday it returned to De Lorrell's shop. Since then it has stayed in the top of a tree in the garden of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick's home, which adjoins the flower shop. De Lorrell has been feeding the crow since its return.

HOPE TO ADJOURN SPECIAL SESSION BY THANKSGIVING

Many Bills on Call Will Fail of Passage.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Final adjournment by Thanksgiving day, or in the week following, appeared probable to many legislators today as the house and senate entered the fourth week of the special session of the 59th Illinois general assembly.

In this event, the new old age pension act and companion measures would be the only social security legislation adopted. Unemployment insurance apparently would go down in the collapse of the session, along with the new insurance code and many other subjects covered in Gov. Horner's call.

Asks Study of Insurance Act.

Although unemployment insurance is scheduled for a public hearing in the senate tomorrow, many professed to see a prophecy of defeat in the bill introduced today by Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island]. The bill calls for the appointment of four representatives and three senators to study unemployment insurance and report to the next general assembly or a future special session of the 59th assembly. An appropriation of $5,000 is made to finance the study.

"Unpremeditated and ill considered action on so vital and important a phase of social insurance might well lead to financial chaos and industrial demoralization," the bill reads, "thereby hazarding the future wellbeing of hundreds of thousands of employés in the state."

Speaker Wants to Adjourn.

Speaker John Devine told the house this morning that the idea "uppermost in the speaker's mind is to bring this session to a conclusion."

"There are bills here affecting old age pensions," he continued, "on which there is a difference of opinion. I ask those with suggestions to meet in my office in an effort to iron out the conflict of opinions.

"But there are many things in the call which couldn't be passed no matter how long we stayed here. I think we should pass at this time legislation that is imperative and leave the controversial matter to the next regular session."

Agree on Local Setup.

The office conference called by the speaker was on the bill to set up local machinery for dispensing old age, blind, crippled, and dependent children pensions.

The bill would create commissions of public welfare in all counties outside Cook, which has its bureau of public welfare. The commissions would consist of five members each, no more than three of the same political party. They would appoint a county superintendent of public welfare, who would choose his assistants.

In amendments that found favor in the conference, power to appoint and remove the welfare commissioners is taken from the state department of public welfare and lodged with the county judges. Republicans had objected to the state having the power, fearing the formation of a huge political machine, but are agreeable to the county judge plan, as about 50 per cent of the judges are Republicans.

The Republicans also sponsored amendments striking out the powers of the state department to set up qualifications for the welfare commission employés, on the theory that the employés would try to perpetuate themselves in the jobs.

Plan Passage Tomorrow.

The amendments, in which the Republicans believe they gained important concessions for betterment of the bill, were adopted later by the house without any dissension. The bill as amended then was put on third reading, and the program is to call it for passage tomorrow.

The old age pension act has been adopted by the house and quick passage is predicted in the senate, where the Democrats number 36, two votes more than are required for its adoption as emergency legislation. Earl B. Searcy, Republican minority leader in the senate, is prepared, however, to deliver a slashing attack on the measure.

Possibility of a special session before next fall to discuss school legislation, now being considered by a state commission, also is in the offing, members say.

Republicans Hold Attack.

The senate tonight sent the bill to second reading—the amendment stage—without reference to commitee, Searcy and the other Republicans holding their fire until tomorrow when the Democrats will seek to advance it to the passage stage.

In the same manner Sen. Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] got the proposed insurance code on second reading. Sent to the same position also was the rate section, which was separated from the insurance code last week and introduced as a separate bill tonight by Senator Thomas E. Keane [Dem., Chicago]. The fight on the code probably will be made tomorrow or the next day.

MAYOR KELLY PAYS TRIBUTE TO HOPKINS AS 'HONEST THINKER'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, presiding at today's session of the national conference of mayors, paid tribute to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, as "one in whom we have confidence."

In introducing Hopkins, Mayor Kelly said:

"We have confidence in you, Mr. Hopkins. We know you are an honest thinker, a man of action. We come, not with demands, but with requests for aid."

Previously the mayor had said, "No one is closer to the people than the mayors.

"It is an easy job," he said, "if all are working. But in hard times we get more grief than the average public official."

Mayor Kelly said he believed it would be some time before all persons in the United States were off relief, even though "normal conditions return."

NATION'S RETURN TO CONSTITUTION URGED BY HADLEY

A return to the constitution and the American form of government is today's great issue, declared Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, former head of the state commerce commission, at a luncheon of the Carl Schurz Round table yesterday at Old Heidelberg inn.

"The American people today stand at Armageddon," he said, "their temples ravaged, their teachings disregarded and their traditions violated.

"Three years ago the country believed that as soon as Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated, the tax eaters would be curbed and the monster of burocracy in the federal government brought under control. But we all know what has happened. There is no community not burdened nearly to the point of financial death by people drawing governmental salaries for activities never before dreamed in a people's government."

PLAN SUBSTITUTE TO KILL LICENSE FOR CAR DRIVERS

Downstate Foes Unite Against Bill.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—An attempt to sidetrack the drivers' license bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee will be made in the house tomorrow, it was learned tonight, in favor of another measure which does not carry its stringent provisions.

The "ditching" will be tried in behalf of the bill introduced by Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], and Charles H. Weber [Dem., Chicago], which, instead of licensing, would provide that the secretary of state could suspend registration cards and withdraw license plates upon convictions of serious motor violations.

Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], and Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], who presented the licensing bill at the request of the mayor, and George W. Fleming, chairman of the safety committee, learned today that proponents of the Sinnett-Weber bill are hoping to have their measure called in advance of the mayor's bill.

Devine Opposes License.

Speaker John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon] indicated that he would follow that course. Devine opposed passage of O'Grady's licensing bill in the regular session last spring and has been regarded as the leader of a downstate bloc which never has favored licensing of drivers.

Floor Leader Adamowski said tonight that he would fight the Sinnett-Weber bill on second reading tomorrow. He will attempt either to strike the enacting clause or to amend it by substituting the mayor's bill for it. The battle is expected to be a hot one considering the size of the Chicago Democratic bloc, which usually stands united behind the mayor.

Provisions of Substitute.

Under the Sinnett-Weber bill registration certificates and plates would be suspended upon conviction of leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, or failure to pay, with 30 days, a final judgment of damages caused by a motor vehicle. Clerks of courts would send to the secretary of state a record of auto convictions.

The above offenses are similar to those which, under Mayor Kelly's bill, would result, upon conviction, in license revocation or suspension. However, Chairman Fleming of the mayor's committee was quick to point out that the Sinnett-Weber bill would control only owners of automobiles and not all persons who drive cars.

"Ours is a real licensing bill and the other is not," Fleming said. "A man whose registration certificate has been revoked, under the Sinnett-Weber bill, could use another's car and there is no method of detection.

Lists Violations on License.

"The mayor's Keep Chicago Safe committee saw that a sure way must be found of keeping track of violations, so our bill provides that violations shall be listed upon the back of the licenses. There is no such method for handy records in the other bill.

"There might be 'cheaters" under our bill, but a man who drives without a license when one is mandatory would be pretty careful because if he were caught it would go hard with him. The psychology of the thing is important. A man with a license in his pocket knows that it will be taken from him if he does not drive carefully."

MOLEY IS UNCERTAIN THAT ROOSEVELT CAN BE ELECTED IN 1936

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Indicating that he did not regard the reëlection of President Roosevelt as certain, Prof. Raymond Moley, former assistant secretary of state, and an original member of the Roosevelt "brain trust," tonight proposed a four point program which he said the Democratic party should adopt as a matter of strategy in the 1936 election.

The program follows:

"1. Make as many concessions as it can to the business sentiment of the country; that is, extend the 'breathing spell.'

"2. Pursue the agricultural policy as it is now doing.

"3. Be very careful about tarif reduction; not to move too far in the direction of free trade, but to retain the American system of a protective tarif.

"4. Continue the neutrality resolution and keep us out of foreign entanglements."

Prof. Moley declared "It looks as though the Republicans have a good chance to carry New England next year, and a fair chance to carry New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and possibly Illinois and Indiana."

Ellsworth Plans to Start Hop Over South Pole Today

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth, polar explorer, told the New York Times and the North American Newspaper alliance today that he would start his trans-Atlantic flight early tomorrow morning "if the weather is good and the snow surface favorable." Ellsworth, who is based at Dundee island in the antarctic archipelago, described an abortive attempt yesterday to start the flight over the south pole.

SHERIF ISSUES CARDS SHOWING 'I GOTTA DRAG'

Only Nice People Get 'Em; Beside, They're No Good

Sherif John Toman, it was disclosed yesterday, is distributing neat gilt and white cards signed by himself as sherif and entitling the bearers to all the "courtesies of the sherif's office."

"No hoodlums are getting these cards—only a lot of high class people," said the sherif.

In order to qualify for such a card, he explained, a person must be recommended by "some one high who can vouch for him." In the past, it is recalled, courtesy cards had a habit of bobbing up in the hands of hoodlums.

Denies Efficacy of Pasteboard.

What value the card carries was not made clear.

"They don't mean a thing," Sherif Toman declared. "If a man violates the law his card won't help him a bit. Most of the cards are asked for by prominent persons who collect them for a hobby."

It was suggested that motorists who carry such cards would not be bothered by county highway police. This was denied by the sherif.

"I have issued orders to my men not to pay any attention to the cards," he said.

Victim of the System.

The sherif asserted that the names of persons to whom cards have been issued are kept in his "personal book." He refused to make public any of the listings.

"I have always been against issuing courtesy cards," he explained, "but the system has been in vogue year after year. After all, what can I do? I'm in politics."

GETZ SUGGESTS U. S. PAY CAMPAIGN COSTS OF ALL CANDIDATES

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A federal financed "kitty" for presidential electioneering expenses of all parties was proposed here today by George F. Getz of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican national executive committee.

"Place the presidential election under control of the United States treasury," said Getz. "Allot each party a certain amount to conduct their campaign in the various states. Give each candidate the same chance of election.

"The funds? Why, they would be paid from taxes."

FLEES ACCIDENT SCENE; POLICE GET THEIR MAN

On Sept. 19 two automobiles collided at North avenue and River road, near Melrose Park. After the drivers had stepped into the road and engaged in a fist fight one of them fled.

The other, A. G. Bartells of Elmhurst, complained to the county highway police and turned over to them a license plate which had dropped from his opponent's car. This was traced to Walter Walker, 36 years old, 1015 South 17th avenue, Melrose Park, and Bartells swore to a warant charging him with leaving the scene of an accident.

Lieut. George Le Grue of the highway forces went to the Walker home and attempted to serve the warant. Walker was not in, but the lieutenant heard that he boasted "it would take better men than the highway cops to get me." Yesterday the lieutenant saw Walkers' other license plate on a car, pursued him for a half mile, and forced him to surrender. The police said that Walker has been arrested several times for auto larceny.

POWER TO MAKE TARIF TREATIES A NEW DEAL PET

Jammed Through House in One Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The reciprocal trade treaty act, under which President Roosevelt was given the unprecedented power to juggle tarif rates on all imports—a power which he employed in concluding the pact with Canada—was steam rollered through congress in 1934 by the Democratic majority.

Republicans put up a stiff battle against surrender of the hitherto jealously guarded right of congress to regulate the national tarif structure, but were overwhelmed by the Democratic machine. The vote in the house was 274 for the proposal and 111 against, and in the senate, where opposition was more intense, the New Deal won by a vote of 57 to 33—less than the two-thirds vote required for the ratification of treaties.

Votes from Chicago Area.

In the Chicago area 43 representatives voted for the act, 19 against, 8 did not vote and 2 were paired against the President. The vote in general followed party lines with the exception of one Republican vote for the act and two Democratic votes against it. Seven Chicagoland senators, including two Republicans, voted for the act, 2 voted against and one was paired against the measure.

The vote on March 28, 1934, of representatives from Illinois was as follows:

DEMOCRATS—For: Kelly, Sabath, Schuetz, Kocialkowski, Thompson, Adair, Arnold, Brennan, Meeks, Dobbins, Schaefer, Keller, Parsons, *Rainey, *Nesbit, *Gillespie.

NOT VOTING: Beam, O'Brien.

REPUBLICANS—Against: *Moynihan, *Britten, *Simpson, and Dirksen.

NOT VOTING: *De Priest, Allen.

PAIRED AGAINST: *Reid, Buckbee.

---

*Means no longer member of congress.

Vandenberg Vigorous Foe.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan was one of the most vigorous foes of the act. When he was charged with attempting to shackle an effort to increase foreign trade, he retorted that there was need of shackling the dictatorial power being granted Roosevelt. Another opponent of the measure was Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.]. Former Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.], was paired against the bill.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] cast his vote for Roosevelt, as did Robert M. La Follette Jr., then claiming affiliation with the Republican party and now a frank radical. Senators Lewis and Dieterich of Illinois, F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin, and Louis Murphy of Iowa, and Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana, all Democrats, voted for Roosevelt.

Coolidge Given Part Power.

During the Coolidge administration, congress voted the President the power to raise or lower existing tarif rates by as much as 50 per cent, but only upon the recommendation of the tarif commission, a semi-judicial body. This limitation provided for public hearings before that body. None are necessary under the power granted President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt sent his message asking for power to negotiate the treaties March 3, 1934. The administration mustered cabinet officers and brain trusters in an assault on congressional committees with assertions that the program would reopen the channels of American foreign trade.

Though the measure was described as the broadest tarif bill ever put through congress its passage through the house of representatives consumed but a day—a record, it was said, in the light of heated controversies that traditionally impeded speedy passage of tarif legislation in the past. Only 11 Democrats and two Republicans deserted party ranks in the vote 26 days after the submission of the message.

In the senate, Republican opposition balked passage through prolonged debate. On June 5 the senate passed the bill with five Republicans and five Democrats bolting party lines.

Hoover Sees Treaty as 'More Abundant Life—for Canada'

Herbert Hoover interpreted the new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada yesterday as "more of the abundant life—for Canadians." In Chicago for an overnight stop, the former President issued a brief statement commenting on the treaty as a "hardship" on American agriculture.

"The Canadian treaty," he said, "is just another instance of this hasty economic planning without full consideration of consequences. There has been no opportunity given for public debate, no opportunity for adequate hearing of the groups affected.

"The treaty means still larger imports of foreign food. It thus means further decreases in the home market of American agriculture. It brings hardships to hundreds of thousands of dairy and other farmers."

Mr. Hoover then referred to the more abundant life for Canadians.

The former President arrived on a morning train, traveling from New York to his home in Palo Alto, Cal. On the train he discussed farming affairs with Ben S. Allen, a representative of several California farm coöperatives and farm debt conciliation referee in San Francisco.

Mr. Hoover spent the day meeting friends and last night he was the guest of Arch W. Shaw, magazine publisher, who is usually Mr. Hoover's Chicago host. He is to leave late today, to arrive in California in time for a football game Saturday.

Headquarters were opened yesterday in the Hotel La Salle for Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, who is among the possible Republican presidential candidates.

In charge is Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion, who said yesterday that the offices are necessary to handle the growing volume of correspondence and visitors. Aiding Mr. Hayes will be Philip W. Collins, former state commerce commissioner.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. PICKS TOWNSEND PLAN BACKER

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Verner W. Main, Battle Creek attorney, and outspoken advocate of the Townsend old age pension plan, today was selected as the Republican nominee for congress in the Third Michigan district.

Main will oppose Howard W. Cavanagh, also a Battle Creek attorney, the Democratic nominee, in a special election Dec. 10 to fill the congressional seat left vacant by the death of Representative Henry M. Kimball [Rep].

A former state representative, Main ran far ahead of his four opponents in the primary election. The seat has been held by a Republican since 1898.

BUSINESS RAPS NEW DEALERS IN WISCONSIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Members of the Wisconsin state chamber of commerce, representing all parts of this state and almost all lines of industry and commerce, voted today to oppose vigorously the substitution of Socialist doctrin under whatever name, for the principles of individual initiative.

Resolutions were adopted defining the slogan "production for use" as a euphemism for the Socialist principle of public ownership. The chamber pledged itself to attack the "constant efforts to change the American system of production for profit to an alien system of production for use." The same resolution denounced advancing governmental expenditures and demanded that they be halted.

The business session of the chamber was held late this afternoon following a meeting at which Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Supreme court of Illinois, spoke.

"Burocracy pretends to have authority over everybody," Thompson said, "and denies responsibility to anybody. Unless it is constantly resisted it will usurp the power of the people and break down representative government."

How to Win Prize Money Without the Lucky Ticket

John Brdecka, owner of a store at 4187 Archer avenue, pinned $125 to a board and placed it in a front window with the explanation that the money would be given away before Christmas to the holder of a lucky ticket. Two men drove up to the store yesterday. They didn't have the ticket. Instead they smashed the window with a plank, seized the money, and fled.

BOMB CONVICTION UNFAIR, ASSERTS MOONEY'S JUDGE

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Thomas J. Mooney heard the judge who sentenced him to death testify today the internationally known prisoner had been unfairly convicted. It was their first meeting since the sentence was pronounced in 1917 after Mooney's trial for the 1916 preparedness day bombing here.

Mooney followed Superior Judge Franklin A. Griffin to the stand to identify certain correspondence presented at his habeas corpus hearing.

Judge Griffin, who since the trial has repeatedly stated he believed Mooney was unfairly—"even criminally"—convicted, supported his contention under cross-examination by Assistant Attorney General William Cleary.

It was the suspicion of perjury cast on the trial testimony of Frank Oxman, prosecution witness, that caused him to reach his conclusion about the conviction, Judge Griffin said.

Indiana Man Sent to Prison for Firing Brother's Home

WIDOW OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT IMPROVES; HOLD RECOVERY HOPE

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The condition of Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of President Theodore Roosevelt, was reported to be improved today by her son-in-law, Dr. Richard Derby, at the North County Community hospital in Glen Cove, Long Island. Dr. Derby issued the following bulletins:

"Mrs. Roosevelt's heart action is stronger and her general condition somewhat improved."

Mrs. Roosevelt is 74 years old. Last Wednesday she fell and broke her left hip at her Sagamore Hill home and was removed to the hospital. Yesterday a relapse set in, accompanied by a heart attack. She is being attended by her several physicians, including Dr. Derby, who is chief surgeon of the hospital. Hope was expressed tonight for her recovery if no further heart involvement occurs.

Members of the family spent the night at her bedside.

Today was the thirty-eighth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Roosevelt's son Quentin, who was killed in action during the war when his plane was shot down in France on his twentieth birthday.

POSTAL WORKERS PLEDGE $23,500 TO COMMUNITY FUND

Employés of the Chicago postoffice turned in pledges for $23,500 to the Community fund yesterday. Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen forwarded the gift, which represented almost all of the 11,000 regular employés and 1,000 temporary workers. It was announced as the first large pledge from any employés of the various governmental bodies in Chicago with the exception of some of the smaller federal offices for whom R. T. Miles, general chairman of the campaign among employés, turned in some results.

Other large pledges listed yesterday at fund headquarters included $10,500 from the National Tea company and its employés and $3,500 from Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. The drive is within $600,000 of its $3,200,000 goal.

YOU CAN'T "Go Wrong" WITH AN ANTI-FREEZE LIKE THIS!

2½ Million Motorists Used SUPER PYRO Last Year to Protect their Cars Against Freeze-ups and Rust.

THERE must be a mighty good reason why SUPER PYRO Anti-Freeze was used to protect more automobiles last year than any other "premium" product. Briefly, the facts are these:

SUPER PYRO is full-strength . . . concentrated . . . and protects to lower temperatures! SUPER PYRO stops rust and corrosion of all six of the important metals in the cooling system . . . not just one or two! And, because of a secret ingredient which retards evaporation, SUPER PYRO lasts longer!

WHY SUPER PYRO GIVES YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY:

FULL STRENGTH—Ordinary anti-freeze alcohol contains a certain amount of water. SUPER PYRO is made from 200-proof denatured alcohol—contains no water—is 100% anti-freeze—and protects to lower temperatures.

STOPS RUST AND CORROSION—In recent laboratory and road tests, SUPER PYRO was the only anti-freeze out of 8 popular brands that did not rust or corrode any of the 6 metals in the cooling system.

LASTS LONGER—A secret ingredient in SUPER PYRO keeps the engine running cooler and thus retards evaporation.

HEALTHY ODOR—SUPER PYRO gives off no poisonous fumes to affect your health.

One of the big advantages in using SUPER PYRO is the instant service you get. It can be put in the radiator at a moment's notice without any overhauling or tightening of the cooling system.

Furthermore, by keeping the water passages of the radiator, engine and thermostat free from rust and corrosion, SUPER PYRO minimizes clogging and overheating. A car, protected all season long with SUPER PYRO, means a clean cooling system and a cooler-running motor in the spring.

Right now, drive to the dealer in your neighborhood displaying the "Old Man Winter" symbol and have him give your car complete anti-freeze protection. With SUPER PYRO you get all these extra features—for only a few cents more than you pay for ordinary denatured alcohol.

SECOND FACTORY OWNER SLAIN IN MACARONI WAR

Killing Climaxes 2 Years of Racketeer Violence.

Samuel Incandela, 31 years old, was shot to death last evening by a gunman who invaded the first floor office of a macaroni factory at 3825 West Chicago avenue, which he and members of his family owned. His murder climaxes acts of terrorism during the last two years which police were told resulted from Incandela's refusal to contribute to a racketeering trade association levying tribute on the macaroni industry. Last year the owner of another macaroni plant was similarly slain.

Incandela was alone in the office, which is in the front of the factory, when the gunman entered. He conversed with the intruder in low tones for a few moments, then the killer drew a .38 caliber revolver, shot Incandela through the heart, tossed the gun out the front door, and fled.

Descriptions of Slayer Vary.

The revolver struck Albert Tomchaney, 537 North Springfield avenue, who was passing. Tomchaney said the assassin was about 35 years old and wore a dark hat and tan overcoat. This description was at variance with that given by employés in the workrooms behind the office who glimpsed the slayer as he fled. One of these, Joseph Marsella, 18 years old, 3652 West Grand avenue, a nephew of the slain man, said the killer was young and swarthy and wore a green felt hat and a dark overcoat.

The story of attacks on members of the Incandela family was told to Capt. Willard Malone of the Austin police by the victim's brother-in-law, Frank Cataldo. Cataldo, Incandela and the latter's father, Joseph, owned the factory, above which all the family lived. They owned also a large wholesale and retail grocery and spaghetti store at 3833 West Chicago avenue.

Bricks and Bomb Hurled.

On July 26, 1933, the factory was bombed. This outrage followed a series of window breakings there and at another store which the Incandelas formerly operated at 3657 Division street. Representatives of the racketeer trade association threatened further violence, Cataldo said, unless they paid a quarter of a cent a pound tribute on all macaroni sold. A police guard was maintained at the factory for several months.

In October, 1933, the Incandelas opened another store at 1032 Grand avenue. A year later, after threats by the gang, Cataldo was slugged. He complained to the police, who questioned members of the "trade association" and ordered them to disband.

Another Manufacturer Slain.

Nunzio Russo, wealthy food importer and manufacturer of macaroni at 466 West Chicago avenue, protested to the police in June, 1933, about the activities of the racketeers. His home in Wilmette had been bombed in 1931, he had been slugged and shot at, and his trucks had been set on fire. On June 7, 1934, Russo was slain as he sat in a barber shop next to his office.

Capt. Malone was considering last night the possibility that the macaroni racketeers may also be engaged in reviving the illicit trafic in alcohol. Three men were slain less than a week ago in what is supposed to have been gang rivalry over control of the alcohol racket.

A report that Incandela may have been furnishing some gang with sugar for distilling alcohol could not be verified, Capt. Malone said. The captain was studying also the possibility that illegal distillers, pressed for heavy supplies of sugar, slew Incandela for not fulfiling their requirements.

AUTO SHOW NOTES

Charles W. Nash, with a reputation for conservatism that is widely known in the automobile industry, yesterday forecast that the 1936 motor market will compare well with the boom market of 1929. As chairman of the board of the company bearing his name, he was the main speaker before a luncheon of 500 Nash and LaFayette representatives. Others who spoke were E. H. McCarty, president; C. H. Bliss, vice president, and Courtney Johnson, general sales manager.

A. Van Der Zee, general sales manager for Dodge, arrived in Chicago from Detroit last night carrying messages of heavy sales telegraphed from the company's nation-wide dealer organization. He was much impressed by reports from his assistants on the heavy attendance and sales at the Chicago show. He declared that these annual events have been reliable weather vanes of the market for thirty-six years.

On display at the Packard exhibit is a stock eight cylinder car that was driven 15,432 miles in 177 hours at the company's proving grounds a few weeks ago. Average speed during the elapsed time was 87.35 miles an hour. Average speed for running time was 88.85 miles an hour. The fastest two and a half mile lap was made at a rate of 91.58 miles an hour.

N. Dreystadt, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company, yesterday announced the resignation of J. C. Chick as general sales manager. The new sales manager is Don E. Ahrens, who spent two years in the Chicago branch, but recently has been in the New York branch.

A jury was completed yesterday in Judge Russell Whitman's Criminal court to try William Schaaf and William Harcharick, former officials of a local of the painters' union, on charges of unlawfully possessing and transporting a loaded machine gun. The men were arrested Aug. 15 when the Stockyards police found the gun in Harcharick's automobile, which was parked outside 5436 Wentworth avenue where a union meeting was in progress. The defendants charge the gun was planted in their automobile.

Young Man Breaks Legs in Elevator Shaft Fall

James C. Mann, 21 years old, 2728 Harrison street, Evanston, son of Attorney Donald H. Records at the Evanston hospital, where he was taken, stated that Mann was carrying an arm full of parcels and failed to see the open elevator door.

SPEED UP AUTO OUTPUT AS SHOW DRAWS THRONGS

Executives Act to Meet Brisk Demand.

BY HAL FOUST.

Telephone and telegraph wires from Chicago carried orders yesterday stepping up automobile production, America's largest manufacturing industry. Automobile executives, assembled in loop hotel headquarters, were convinced after the first four days of Chicago's 36th annual motor show that there is a ready market for gasoline vehicles this fall and winter. They were notifying plant superintendents to schedule assembly lines accordingly.

Ah Faeh, manager of the show, announced last night that 189,000 persons had passed through the doors of the International amphitheater since the opening on Saturday afternoon. Last winter, the total for the eight days of the annual event was placed at 200,000. The exhibition will continue daily, from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., through next Saturday night.

Sales 25 Per Cent Above Last Year.

Retail sales in Chicago dealerships and on the floor of the exhibition were said to be 25 per cent ahead of last year. Similar reports are being received by factory officials from other parts of the country. A majority of the companies now have enough orders on hand to keep the plants busy through January.

It appeared evident that the advance of new model announcements and of the annual motor show dates from midwinter to autumn will be successful in its purpose of stimulating employment through heretofore dull winter months. This is of significance to the country's general economic situation because the production of automobiles and its allied activities form the nation's leading consumer of raw materials.

Stress Safety Today.

Today has been designated by the show management as "Safety day." Exhibitors will emphasize safety factors that have been built into the new automobiles—improved brakes, lowered centers of gravity, sturdy car bodies, shatterproof glass, and generally improved operating control.

For the convenience of the large crowds—accommodated in the big, new exhibition hall without unpleasant congestion—the hours of the fur style shows have been advanced to 4 p. m. and to 9 p. m.

JuryHears $10,000 Damage Suit Against a Naprapath

Trial of a $10,000 damage suit against Dr. Perley W. Johnson, 69 years old, of Barrington, who described himself as a naprapath, began yesterday before Superior Judge James J. Fardy and a jury. The suit was brought by Miss Marjorie Grace Baumann, 17 years old, of Mount Prospect, who charged that she suffered a displaced vertebra in her neck after Johnson treated her three years ago.

WIFE, 17, KNIFED IN FARM ATTACK; PAROLEE SEIZED

Martinsville, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Reinhart Gallmeyer, 18, recently paroled from the Indiana Boy's school, was held in jail here tonight on a charge of attacking Mrs. Franklin Carter, 17 year old Adams township farmwife. She is a critical condition with a score of knife wounds.

A youth, police say was Gallmeyer, attempted to rape Mrs. Carter at her farm home today. She seized a butcher knife and he wrested it from her and stabbed until she promised "not to tell," she said. When he fled to a barn nearby, she staggered into the highway and summoned neighbors. A posse from Eminence soon captured Gallmeyer, who has been working on a nearby farm. Neighborhood antagonism toward the youth resulted in his being brought here.

BOB AND JOE AGREE TO PLAY ONLY ONE ROLE

Master Is Exasperated by Constant Tumult.

Even the appreciative audience could not tell at any given moment yesterday the exact status of Robert E. Crowe and Joseph P. Savage. It was clear, however, that each was outdoing by 50 per cent the professional performer who merely plays two parts in the drama of stage or screen.

Master in Chancery Samuel B. Epstein was perplexed, not to say exasperated. He had been assigned by Circuit Judge John R. Caverly to hear all the evidence in the accounting suit in which these two astute lawyers who had many times appeared before the court side by side, friend and friend, state's attorney and assistant state's attorney, partner and partner, were now enemies and opponents.

Was the author of the last heated remark the plaintif, lawyer, or witness? When Crowe addressed himself to the master, he was all three. When Savage gave utterances to words that came off the chest, from the heart, or just rolled off the tongue, was he to be considered as defendant, attorney for the defendant, or witness, or all three? Master Epstein declined to assume the rôle of mind reader.

Epstein Draws the Line.

"I am not interested in anything except the debits and credits," Master Epstein reminded all interested parties. In a library of his law offices he was conducting a hearing on the suit involving the division of nearly $1,500,000 that had accrued to the law firm of Crowe, Gorman, and Savage in the six years of that firm's existence. George E. Gorman, formerly an assistant state's attorney under Crowe and later a master in chancery, was the other partner and his death last Jan. 13 dissolved the firm.

The suit had reached a point where Attorney John Mulder, at present a partner of Crowe and formerly an employé of the firm of Crowe, Gorman, and Savage, was testifying regarding the status of the firm's assets at the time of the breakup of the partnership and the friendship.

Another Wordy Clash.

At that time, Mulder asserted, Savage said he always made a lot of money and had enough on which to live in luxury the rest of his life, to travel the world over and take life easy. He said later Savage tried to effect a reconciliation and that Savage's brother-in-law, Cyrus F. Campe, tried to do the same.

Words were coming fast and furiously when Attorney Burrell J. Cramer, legal spokesman for Savage, said, "We'll agree that Savage was always willing to patch things up."

"No, you won't agree to any such thing," Savage shouted, and his attorney withdrew the proposed agreement.

"All we want to show is that at that time Savage wasn't hollering so loudly as he is now," said Crowe.

The Master Takes a Hand.

"That's as damnable a lie as any he ever uttered," Savage stormed at Crowe. "You're trying to make good your boast that you would plaster me."

"You plastered yourself," Crowe retorted.

"If you men wish to dismiss your lawyers and conduct this law suit yourselves you may do so," said Master Epstein, turning to Crowe, who sat at his left, and to Savage, who sat at his right. "Otherwise you will allow your counsel to try the case."

"I'll let my counsel do my talking from now on," promised Crowe.

"Same here," replied Savage.

"Continued until tomorrow at 2 o'clock," said the pacificator.

ONE DEFENDANT LEFT IN TRIAL OF FIVE FOR SWINDLING OF WIDOW

Assistant United States Attorney Martin Ward late yesterday rested the government's case against two men accused of swindling Mrs. Lydia Welker, 78 year old widow of Wyaconda, Mo., out of her life savings of $7,000.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who is hearing the trial without a jury, then sustained a motion of not guilty in behalf of one of the defendants, Samuel Caplow of Chicago. The judge overruled an identical motion for Edward B. Gable of Chicago, who will begin his defense this morning with the testimony of character witnesses.

Three other defendants in the case, Harry M. Kassmir, alias Andrew Ritter; Curtis W. Coats, and George M. Lindsay Jr., all of Chicago, pleaded guilty on Monday, following the testimony of Mrs. Welker, and took the witness stand for the prosecution. Their fate will be determined after the conclusion of Gable's trial.

SANTA FE DIESEL TRAIN SPEEDING TO WEST COAST

BY HARRY LAIRD.

Traffic Manager of The Tribune.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20 [Wednesday].—The new Super-Chief train of the Santa Fe railway reached Kansas City at 2 a. m. today, covering 451 miles in 420 minutes, three hours faster than the regular Chief schedule.

Passengers aboard remarked they were struck by the smooth pickup of the locomotive and the easy riding qualities of the standard coaches used. It is expected that the train will reach Los Angeles in about forty hours, the trip being designed to demonstrate the feasibility of that speed as a regular feature of transcontinental travel.

DRAWN BY HUGE ENGINE.

Drawn by a 3,600 horsepower Diesel electric locomotive the new Super-Chief train of the Santa Fe railroad left Chicago at 7 o'clock last night on a fast run to Los Angeles.

The trip is in the nature of a dress rehersal for the giant locomotive which eventually is to be placed in faster passenger service to the Pacific coast.

A number of well known business and industrial leaders are making the trip, including Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President of the United States; George W. Young, president Chicago Association of Commerce; G. S. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation; S. T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe, and G. W. Codrington, president Winton Engine corporation.

AUTHOR JAILED IN ROW STARTED BY AUTO HORN

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Victor Thaddeus, author, is in New Castle county workhouse for an indefinite stay because he refused to pay a $1 fine and sign a peace bond.

"I'll not pay a penny of it," Thaddeus insisted when fined last night by Magistrate E. B. Griffenberg after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct in a dispute with a neighbor.

The neighbor, Charles W. Pettit, said he drove down his driveway last night and found the exit blocked by the car of a guest of Thaddeus. So he blew his horn.

"When I heard that horn," Thaddeus told the magistrate, "it just did something to me."

He came from his house. Hot words followed and all the principals were taken to the magistrate's bedroom for the hearing, because Griffenberg is ill.

Thaddeus is best known for his books "Julius Cæsar—And the Grandeur That Was Rome," "Voltaire—Genius of Mockery," "Frederick the Great—the Philosopher King," and "Benvenuto Cellino and His Florentine Dagger."

MRS. MURPHY'S HATS ON PARADE IN ESTATE FIGHT

Queen Mary's Headgear Cited by Defense.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The hats that Mrs. Marie Louise Murphy wore occupied the attention of lawyers, court and jury for more than an hour yesterday in the hearing of the suit to set aside her will before Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein. Mrs. Murphy, widow of Charles W. Murphy, millionaire former owner of the Cubs baseball team, died in 1933.

Her brother, George Krumdick of Oak Park, is contesting the will. A similar suit filed by a sister, Mrs. Millie Fry, 1851 West Adams street, is pending. Both were omitted from her will. The suit charges unsoundness of mind, and alleges that "undue influence and fraudulent practices" obtained, and that the last name on the signature of the will was forged or written by her without being witnessed.

Highly Decorated Hats.

Before resting the contestants' case Attorney C. Helmer Johnson placed Mrs. Otto J. Schach, 2515 Farragut street, on the witness stand. A friend of Mrs. Murphy since 1921, Mrs. Schach said that in that year Mrs. Murphy wore long skirts and that from then until her death she wore the same type of hats. They were large brimmed and laden with flowers, feathers and a veil "all at the same time," she said. At dinner parties she wore a suit and talked little, occasionally humming. She considered her of "unsound mind," she said.

Mrs. Schach, who wore a hat of youthful, off the face lines, and a squirrel collared coat, was then cross-examined by Attorney John S. Hummer for the proponents who are defending the will.

Q.—What do you mean by "unsound mind?" A.—She didn't act normal—not like the rest of us at the Edgewater Beach hotel dinner party, for instance.

About These Hats, Now.

Q.—How do you know they weren't abnormal and she the only sane one in the crowd? A.—She didn't act or dress as we did.

Q.—Because she wore hats that were different was she of unsound mind? A.—Yes, I think so.

Q.—But Queen Mary of England hasn't changed her style of hats in 40 years. Is she of unsound mind?

ATTORNEY JOHNSON—Objection, your honor. That's not in the record.

ATTORNEY HUMMER—But it's a known fact about Queen Mary.

JUDGE EPSTEIN—Even if it is, the court can't take judicial notice of it. [A pause, after which he added gloomily]: If it is a fact, though, I'm going to ask my wife to take notice of it.

Shown photographs of Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Schach said that the dress in one was "of the 1910 period," and that the other was "earlier, before my time." Asked what was the period of her own "blooming," she replied primly that she was 39 years old, and that Mrs. Murphy was 62 years old when she died.

Patrick L. McArdle of Wilmette, attorney for the Northern Trust company, executor of the estate, was the first witness for the proponents. He explained that Mrs. Murphy, for whom he made three wills, declared that she wished to ignore a sister and brother in her will. The sister "has been a source of trouble to me and humiliation to my husband."

Plaint Against Brother.

Mrs. Murphy told him, he testified, that the brother "hasn't called on me in 20 years until the death of my husband, and he changed his name to Davis." She was proud of their "good old German name of Krumdick," she said.

The brother was in the courtroom, and many of the relatives mentioned in the will, including Mrs. Murphy's grandnephews, Robert and Victor Krumdick, 7 year old twins, of 9210 South Ada street, who will receive $25,000 each under the terms of the will, and Dorothy Zeller, 12, of 2433 Greenleaf avenue, who will receive that sum plus a share in the estate. She is a grandniece.

GOES ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF U. S. INFORMER

Before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph Burke that is qualified for the death penalty, Joseph Rappaport, 30 years old, 3430 Douglas boulevard, went on trial yesterday for the murder of Max Dent, 34, of 1859 South Lawndale avenue. Dent, a government informer who was to have testified against Rappaport in a federal court hearing on a charge of violating the Harrison anti-narcotics act, was shot to death near his home on Oct. 8. Mrs. Anna Dent, mother of the victim, identified Rappaport as the slayer.

FIFI D'ORSAY DISMISSED IN VANITIES CLASH

Comedian Fired After Row in Show Troupe.

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Diminutive Fifi D'Orsay had "two weeks' notice" tonight to quit as the star of Earl Carroll's touring Vanities and Sam Leibert, Equity deputy, had been fired outright as a comedian. The show meanwhile carried on here against a backdrop splashed with charges of face slappings and unpaid salaries.

Carroll, saying Miss D'Orsay was "swell," asserted nevertheless that she "wants too much salary." He charged Leibert with fomenting trouble in the troupe by his "communistic activities."

Tells of Slap to Star.

Leibert declared Miss D'Orsay was slapped by the company manager, J. M. McKechnie, while the group was in Raleigh, because she protested after McKechnie assertedly hauled Paul McCullough—comedy star—from his berth on a Pullman.

Leibert said the manager then turned on him and struck and cursed him. Some members of the cast denied the fisticuffs had occurred.

That trouble, the Equity deputy said, arose over his protests that Carroll had not paid salaries due under Equity's scale.

Today, as the company came here to play its eleventh road engagement, Miss D'Orsay had little to say.

'He Knows What He Wants,' She Says

Mr. Carroll is a producer and he knows what he wants," she said. "He said he was replacing me in the show. That's all I can say."

Leibert said he was discharged at Charlotte, N. C., last night because Carroll "did not want me in the show as a deputy agent standing up for Equity rights."

He said the reason Carroll advanced for firing him was that "The Print Shop" [a skit in which Leibert played] was not "clicking."

"But I was playing five other parts in the show," said Leibert. "He did not pay me my two weeks' salary. My discharge had nothing to do with my act—and I am not a communist."

LAWYERS TELL BOTH SIDES OF DRAKE SWINDLE

Defendants' Intent Made Chief Issue of Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The Sir Francis Drake estate mail fraud case, which promises to expose a unique and persistent social phenomenon in the United States, got under way in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court yesterday.

Forty-one defendants from six states, including farmers, barbers, doctors, and bookkeepers, also a banker, a butcher, and an engineer—most of them persons in business for themselves and possessing devout faith in the reality of the Drake estate and their claims—sat beside the chief defendant, Oscar M. Hartzell, and heard the opening statements to the jury, selection of which was completed early in the afternoon.

Two Views of the Case.

The government prosecutor, Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall, branded the whole scheme to collect billions from the Drake estate as a deliberate fraud and said the proof would be that there was no such estate. The defense attorney, Edward J. Hess, said that this was far from a mere swindle and that distinctions would have to be made between the various defendants and their motives in the final judgment.

Mr. Hess, who is a former assistant United States attorney and an expert in postal laws, did not claim that the Drake estate was a reality. He said he did not know. He made the chief defense one of intent. In this the government agreed. Intent to defraud, it was stated to the jury, was the chief element in the case.

"Almost a Holy Cause."

"Whatever may be the truth about the Drake estate," said Mr. Hess, pointing to the solemn rows of defendants, which include three women, "these people not only believed in it, almost as in a holy cause, but they put their own money in it.

"Take the case of Charlie Jones. He put in from $3,000 to $5,000 which he inherited from his father. Can he be guilty of fraud?

"Take the case of an engineer in Wenatchee, Wash., and a barber in Texas. The Drake estate was a matter of social interest in their communities. It was talked of at picnics, church socials, bridge parties.

"People were convinced it was the way to wealth. They wanted to send in their money. They got these people to pool the money and ship it by railway express to Chicago. That is all these particular defendants did. They did not convert any money to their own use.

An Estate? He Doesn't Know.

"This Drake case has been drummed up and down the United States since as early as 1911. Even as late as 1930 a respectable magazine with a circulation of 3,000,000 talked of the availability of this estate. Whether such an estate is available I do not know.

"The fact that Oscar Hartzell was tried and convicted at Sioux City, Ia. [last November], only confirmed these people in their beliefs, convinced them that it was all true. Even last summer the United States government issued licenses to hold meetings of the Drake Estate association in Iowa and took a tax from the fund. Many of these indicted here were indicted merely because they shipped money into Chicago. The evidence will show a vast distinction between the defendants here."

Statement of Prosecution.

Prosecutor Hall told the jury that in 1918 Hartzell [a former Missouri farmer] went to England with two others to make inquiries about this alleged estate. Hall referred to Sir Francis Drake as "an historical character."

"In 1922," he said, "Hartzell separated from the others and made it known in this country that he himself had found a direct lineal descendant of a son of Drake, that this had been a son by a former wife, not Lady Drake.

"This forgotten son, Hartzell represented, had been deprived of his just inheritance, which had gone to a brother of Sir Francis. Hartzell got agents in the United States to obtain money for him to prosecute this claim.

"In 1928 agents here were obtaining money from donors. Hartzell had represented that he had established the validity of the claim in the ecclesiastical court of England. Since 1873 no such court has had a right to determine claims of this sort.

"In 1931 certain of these defendants were called to the postoffice department in Washington and forbidden to use the mails in furtherance of this scheme. Three of them promised that they would not use the mails. Hartzell continued his representations, adding that the turnover of the estate would occur within a few months. His agents estimated that it would be many billions, from 5 to 27 billions. For every dollar invested these donors were to receive from $100 to $1,000.

"In 1933 Hartzell came to America [he had been deported by England]. At that time Hartzell had collected $800,000. He was indicted in Sioux City and was convicted." [He was sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth prison and the sentence was affirmed by the United States Supreme court. Hartzell was brought from prison for the trial here.]

Otto Yant Enters Case.

"In June, 1933, after the indictment," Prosecutor Hall went on, "Hartzell executed power of attorney to Otto G. Yant [former Iowa banker]. The same representations were continued. Yant signed a note for each contributor. Six of these defendants testified at Sioux City.

"Still the old contributors were approached for more funds. They were told the estate settlement was a few months off. They were told they would get so much money that they could not believe it.

"It would have come sooner, they were told, if Hoover had not been defeated. Now, they were informed, it was necessary to explain it all to the Roosevelt administration. They were told the case was in the English chancellor's secret court, that Hartzell was bound to secrecy. There is no such secret court in England.

"It was represented that Joseph Hauber, one of the defendants, was supervising the case here for the United States department of justice and Scotland Yard, that the government of England had appointed five trustees for the estate. All these things were false and the defendants knew they were false.

Several Arrests in Chicago.

"On May 8, 1935, several of these defendants were arrested in Chicago. Defendant Yant said at that time that $270,000 had come in since 1933.

"The Drake will shows that Sir Francis had no son. A claim of that nature is barred by the laws of England. Hartzell never presented any such claim. The United States has had no interest in it. The entire scheme was fraudulent, and $1,350,000 was obtained in the United States under it. Those defendants received it and converted it to their own use. Every representation of the defendants is false and they knew it."

The jury will not be locked up in this case. They had a special injunction not to discuss it with any one. The twelve jurors and two alternates were selected with little trouble. One venireman was dismissed, however, because he lived at the Drake hotel.

PASTOR'S SON BEATEN IN COUNCIL CHAMBER FOR ASSAILING POLICE

Mishawaka, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Blood was spilled for the first time in the history of the Mishawaka city council tonight when William Nitsche, Sunday school teacher and son of a minister, was dragged by four men, two of them policemen, from the council chambers when he arose to present a grievance against a city official. Mayor Edward C. Went had promised Nitsche a hearing at the meeting, but called an officer when Nitsche demanded his rights.

Armed with a lantern to find "an honest man," Nitsche went to the council meeting with evidence against several members of the city police department and also against the city controler.

In the midst of his speech a policeman dove for him, but Nitsche was too elusive. He jumped into a chair and held to it. When two policemen tore him loose he grabbed a table.

After ten minutes of scuffling, four men were able to tear him loose and carry him from the chamber. He was handcuffed with "screw-on" cuffs, which were tightened until they tore Nitsche's wrist. Dragged down four flights of stairs, he was thrown into jail.

PLANS DRAFTED FOR SIMPLIFYING STREET NAMES

Council to Hear Latest Proposal Today.

A completed plan for simplifying Chicago's system of street names by eliminating duplications and "broken link" designations affecting 300 streets will be presented to a special committee of the city council today by Howard C. Brodman, superintendent of maps. The program will carry out the committee's suggestion that all east and west thoroughfares be called "streets" and those running north and south be called "avenues."

The plan will complete a simplification program launched by the city council in 1913 and urged since by the City club and the map department, Mr. Brodman said. "The changes are not extensive when you consider that Chicago has 1,991 streets," Mr. Brodman said.

Eighty Cases of Duplications.

Mr. Brodman's program, drafted in coöperation with Edward P. Brennan of the City club, would affect eighty streets with duplicated or partially duplicated names, and 220 streets which are uninterrupted, but now have several names.

For example, Buena Park terrace [4350 north] will be renamed West Pensacola avenue in order to end duplication of Buena avenue [4200 north]. Aldine avenue [3300 north], on a line with School street, will become School street to end duplication of Aldine square [3775 south].

Broken Link Streets.

The greatest changes will affect broken link streets—uninterrupted streets on a single line now known by several names. For example, Green street [833 west] is known as Green street and Lime street, Newberry avenue, Dayton street, Florence and Reta avenues, and Craft street as it progresses through the city.

Similarly, Elizabeth street [1233 west] is known as Elizabeth street, Richard avenue, Allport, Lytle, Ayers, [illegible], Fleetwood, and Lewis street; Magnolia avenue, and Maple Square avenue.

Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th] is chairman of the committee which will receive the plan today.

MEDICAL CLINIC SEEKS A WRIT AGAINST RIVAL

Suit for an injunction to restrain directors of the Civic Medical Center of Chicago, 220 South State street, from "unfairly and unjustly" competing with the United Medical Service, Inc., 23 East Jackson boulevard, was filed yesterday in Superior court. Both groups are low price medical clinics.

The suit is based on a controversy which developed among the directors of the United group last spring, at which time several of the directors resigned and formed the new clinic. The suit was filed in behalf of Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, head of the United group. It charges the defendants with conspiracy "to wreck the business of the clinic."

The petition also alleges that the defendants carried away customer lists and medical records when they formed the new clinic. The suit asks that "such records and other equipment" be returned to the United Medical Service" and that "proper damages" be assessed against the defendants.

ALCOHOL CAUSES PULL ON NERVES, SCIENTISTS TOLD

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A discovery that alcohol causes nerves to retract, or shorten up slightly, was reported today to the National Academy of Sciences here.

This nerve creeping, it was explained, appears to offer a new insight on the effects of alcohol on man, although so far the retraction actually has been seen only in tadpoles.

The thing seen, in transparent tails of tadpoles, was nerve endings retreating slightly from the skin in the presence of 2 or 3 per cent alcohol.

The implication of the intoxication mechanism for man was that alcohol by causing similar retraction both at nerve endings and at nerve joints, or "synapses," put resistance into the nerve lines, dulling their control over mind and body.

Dr. Carl C. Speidel of the University of Virginia reported on his discovery of the nerve ending retreat in the tadpoles.

CONSULTATIONS IMPERIL RICH, DOCTOR WARNS

"Over Consultation" by surgeons before they operate is a peril to well-to-do people, Dr. Guy M. Cushing, who has practiced surgery in Chicago for 36 years, said in a talk before the Rotary club at the Hotel Sherman.

"A political leader dies when he gets shot by an assassin," said Dr. Cushing, "but on the same day any number of ordinary hospital cases of similar nature will be saved because only one surgeon in these cases is master of the ship. Much valuable time is lost and sometimes too many opinions are given in extensive consultation."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Good Fiber Outlook.

November 19, 1935.

LITTLE patches of fiber crops grown this year in various parts of the United States, including Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Kentucky, may be the beginning of a new and profitable industry for American agriculture. Mechanical and chemical developments in the processing of fiber crops, particularly hemp, are likely to encourage more and more farmers to grow them in the future.

There is a great field ahead if technicians are able to continue progress in their work of handling fiber crops from the plant to cloth. The United States uses great quantities of fibers. Importations of fibers are increasing—$102,156,999 of cotton, jute, flax, hemp, ramie, and other vegetable fibers were imported into this country during the first nine months of this year. This is more than 12 million dollars' worth in excess of the fibers brought in during the same period last year. Nearly 12 million dollars' worth of these fibers were brought in during September, or more than 3 million dollars in excess of importations during September, 1934, according to federal reports.

Almost 20 million dollars' worth of hemp, flax and ramie and manufactured products from these fibers were imported into this country from the first of January until the first of September this year. This gives growers of hemp, flax, and similar crops an idea of the demand. Many of these fibers can be used to take the place of jute and other fibers now grown in foreign countries and brought into the United States.

Great progress has been made in the last two years, since the first patch of "Chington" hemp was planted at the Tribune Experimental farm near Yorkville in the spring of 1934. This year the same variety of Kentucky hemp was grown at the Wheaton farm. Several thousand acres of the crop were grown this summer near Danville and Ottawa, Ill. Minnesota farmers grew several thousand acres this year. One county around Blue Earth, Minn., produced 3,500 acres this season. A small acreage of hemp was raised in Kentucky this year.

"If you look up the amount of jute and burlap and bagging imported into this country it will amaze you, and all of that business can be supplied here from hemp, if we can meet the price," says Banks Hudson, a hemp grower and hemp seed expert of Danville, Ky. "Our average yield of fiber per acre is 1,000 pounds and I have made a yield of 1,900 pounds per acre and many times 1,500 pounds per acre."

Hemp may be grown for seed or for fiber. The fiber is used for a great variety of purposes and the seeds are used in making paints and other products. Mr. Hudson says that in Kentucky farmers do not attempt to produce seeds on the stalks that are raised for fiber.

The old-fashioned method of retting hemp in the open field is practiced in Kentucky. Machines are used to decorticate the hemp grown around Mankato, Minn., and Ottawa, Ill. These machines are expected to do much to encourage an increase in the acreage of hemp.

It is the opinion of experienced growers that hemp is soon going to enter greatly into the farm cropping scheme of the United States, especially in the corn belt. Tests during the last two years on the Tribune farms have convinced the managers that this crop can be grown successfully in this section of the country. Plans are now being considered for the growing of hemp on a field test basis at the Wheaton place next summer.

'MERCY KILLING' 48 YEARS AGO IS TOLD BY DOCTOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mercy killing found a staunch defender today in Dr. M. A. Warriner, 79 years old, dean of Bridgeport's practicing physicians. Once he killed a man to end his pain—and he would do it again.

It was 48 years ago that Dr. Warriner laid the quieting hand on a patient. Never since, he said, has his conscience pricked him.

"I was practicing at North Brookfield, Mass.," D. Warriner recalled. "A husky Frenchman accidentally discharged his gun in his face at short range. His face from chin to eyes was torn away. Some of the bullets penetrated his brain. If he had lived he would have been a dangerous maniac."

"I talked with his wife, his brother and his brother's wife. They told me to do what I thought was right. So I gave him an extra dose of morphine. He was raving. Later he lapsed into coma and died."

Dr. Warriner believes in ending mortal agony for victims of incurable cancer, congenital idiocy, mangling automobile smashups, and such.

DOCTOR SCORES DIET FAD AS SIGN OF MORE MONEY THAN BRAINS

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—P. T. Barnum, the great showman, was a "piker" compared to food faddists who "prey upon the credulity of a gullible public," Dr. Seale Harris, Birmingham, today told the Southern Medical association convention.

Dr. Harris declared the Hollywood 18 day diet and similar systems for removing excess poundage had left in their wake "thousands of flabby, weakened victims, some of whom are dead, and some of the opulent ones, who have more money than brains, still are going from one faddist sanitarium to another."

In most cases, the speaker asserted, exercise without change of diet will reduce obese persons of sedentary habits.

NEW INOCULATION IN TREATMENT OF LEUKEMIA FOUND

Mice Are Immunized by Carnegie Scientist.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A new inoculation which may hold vast possibilities for the treatment of leukemia, a wild cell growth of cancerous nature, was announced tonight by the Carnegie institution of Washington.

Dr. E. C. MacDowell, geneticist of the Carnegie staf, told a group of scientists gathered for his special lecture that he had produced immunization to leukemia in mice. The methods used, he said, were similar to those in the prevention of such diseases as typhoid fever.

Leukemia Rare Disease.

Leukemia is a rare human disease, but is among the most dreaded because it is almost always fatal. The white corpuscles of the blood run wild, producing numbers far in excess of the individual's need and causing excessive enlargement of the spleen, liver, and lymphatic glands. It normally is classed as a malignant tumor.

Dr. MacDowell said his research of the last seven years has shown that leukemia arises spontaneously in mice and is similar in its activity in both mice and man. He was able to transfer leukemic cells which originated in one mouse and transplant them successively through a great number of generations of mice.

"In certain animals the transplanted cells will continue their wild growth," he said. "Since normal cells could not do this, it is clear that leukemic cells are different from normal cells and that a change in the cells, rather than in a change in the regulatory mechanism, leads to the disease."

Builds Up Resistance.

Resistance to the disease was built up in one way by administering such small numbers of diseased cells that they did not become established and the mouse survived. The dose was progressively increased until the animal could withstand enormous doses of the leukemic cells.

Experimenting further, Dr. MacDowell found that a more rapid method of building up resistance was obtained by treating his mice with normal tissues.

"A single treatment with embryo skin will enable a susceptible mouse to resist a dose of leukemic cells that would kill every untreated mouse," he said.

Depends on Interaction.

This resistance was not due merely to the introduction of normal cells, Dr. MacDowell added, but "depends upon an interaction determined by the genetic constitution of the mouse in relation to that of the normal tissue."

He said that if the treated mouse and the transplanted tissue have the same genetic constitution, a reversal may result, causing increased susceptibility instead of resistance.

Campaign for $25,000,000 Overdue Taxes Is Launched

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday the start of a campaign to collect more than $25,000,000 in delinquent real estate taxes on 3,200 properties which are being reorganized in the federal court under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy laws. Assistant State's Attorneys William J. Tuohy and Jerry Hornidge have been placed in charge of a special department in the prosecutor's office in the county building where the taxes due will be computed in coöperation with County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill.

Tuohy and Hornidge said that tax claims already have been filed in the federal court against more than a dozen properties which are being reorganized. The petitions accompanying the claims ask that the federal court order the trustees in bankruptcy of the properties to pay back taxes out of income.

Departure from Old Practice.

In the past the state's attorney's office has delayed filing tax liens against properties until the reorganization has been completed. The new procedure is expected to expedite collections of the back taxes.

Among the property owners against whose holdings tax claims already have been filed in federal court, and the amounts of taxes alleged to be due, are: the Kesner Realty Trust company of Chicago, $987,177 on 17 pieces of real estate; the Lott Hotels, Inc., $495,246 on three hotels; the Lake Shore Athletic club, $494,415; the Stevens hotel, $408,152; the Park Lane Building corporation, $101,149; the Commonwealth hotel corporation, $84,684; the Sutherland Hotel Building corporation, $74,513, and the Adams-Franklin Hotel Building corporation, $66,408.

Jarecki to Get Busy.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who returned to the bench Monday after a vacation in Europe, said yesterday that he would start hearings immediately on the 17,000 tax objections which are pending before him.

The accumulation of these objections and the failure of the objectors to pay during the pendency of the litigation have been two of the reasons for the delay in tax collections which has threatened the financial structure of local governments in Cook county.

TRANSFER POLICE CAPTAINS AFTER RAIDS ON GAMES

Because of open gambling conditions prevailing in the Gresham district Police Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered Capt. Thomas Duffy of that district transferred to headquarters. Capt. James J. Fleming was sent from headquarters to the Gresham station to replace Duffy.

The transfer order was issued after the gambling squad made raids in the district and arrested four men on charges of operating pin games. The men arrested are Peter Mattes, 8230 South Ashland avenue; James F. Rowley, 8051 South Halsted street; George Artner, 8684 Vincennes avenue, and Vito Varraco, 7958 South Halsted street. The machines were confiscated.

County highway policemen of the Morton Grove station raided three alleged handbook establishments yesterday. In Major's place, 8555 Grand avenue, River Grove, Louis Janicek was arrested as keeper and 100 patrons were driven out. In the Pow-Wow Gardens, Belmont avenue and River road, Franklin Park, the policemen seized George Jones, manager, and six of his employés. Raiders of a barber shop at 706 Vernon avenue, Glencoe, arrested Samuel M. Drew.

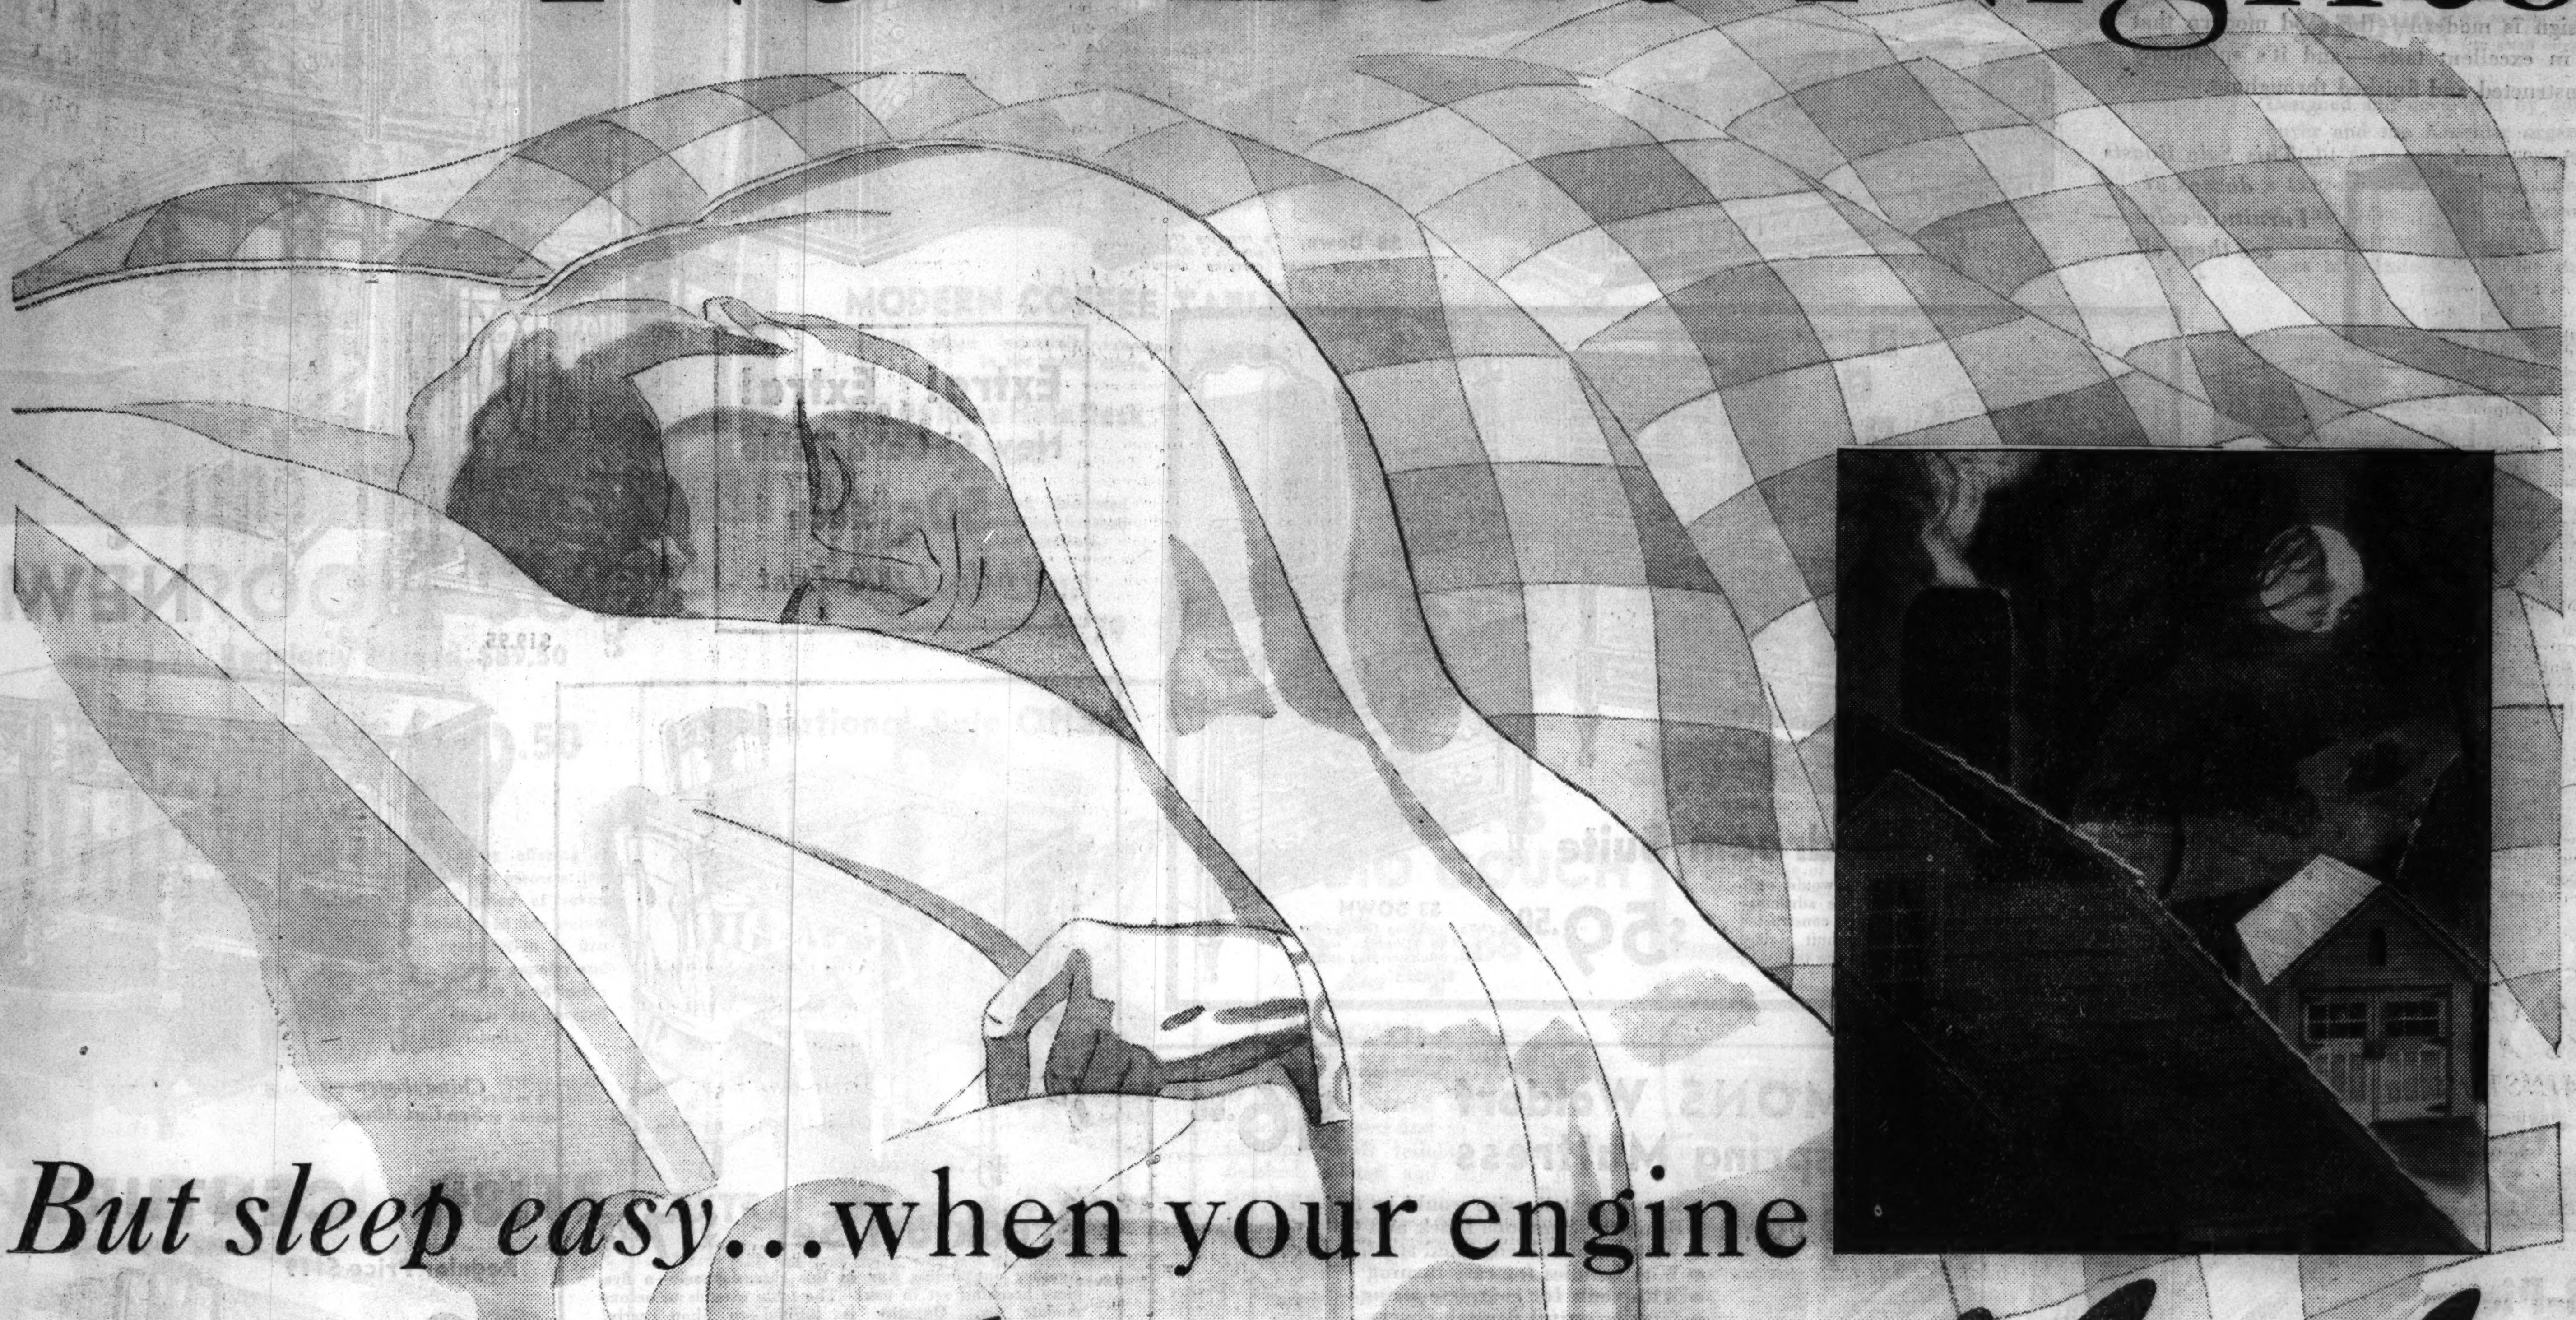
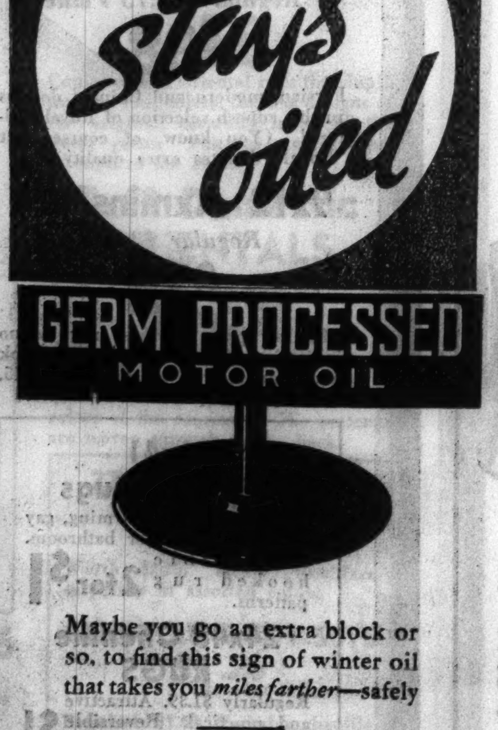
Near-Zero Nights



But sleep easy...when your engine

stays oiled



Maybe you go an extra block or so, to find this sign of winter oil that takes you miles farther—safely

Your correct grade always available—including 10W or 20W

Two things are certain . . . The thermometer is going down any night now . . . And Conoco Germ Processed Oil is not going down off your cylinder walls all night long! NOR ALL WINTER LONG.

Never this winter need you risk dry, unlubricated, ruinous warm-ups, caused by oil that loafs in the crankcase. Instead, the patented Conoco Germ Process puts your winter protection up on the job, all through the engine, before you ever toe the starter.

You can understand why . . . You know what a blotter does. The inside of your engine does something like that with Germ Processed Oil. This alloyed oil merges into the metal and stays . . . gives you the famous reserve Hidden Quart, that's actually been known to save many an engine with the crankcase all empty!

But you'll like your own proof best. 1st—dragless winter starts, easy on the battery. 2nd—an oil level that stays up and stays up. 3rd—the summer-like feel of your engine, kept from rubbing its life away by the Hidden Quart PLUS the extra high film durability of Germ Processed Oil.

Particularly if your car has the newest type bearings, remember that road tests show Germ Processed Oil far ahead of straight mineral oils in keeping the wear out of any type of bearing—copper-lead, high-lead, cadmium-alloy, or conventional babbitt bearings.

Only your helpful Conoco man's got ALL this winter protection for you. Come and get it today. Continental Oil Company, Established 1875.

THE FRIEND OF THE ARGENTINOS.

From Des Moines comes the news that the Hi-Bred Corn company has sent a representative to the Argentine to grow some of its high yield seed. The Hi-Bred company is the one founded by Secretary Wallace. He still retains a family interest in it, though the stock is held in his wife's name.

The dispatches leave one point in doubt. They do not say whether the seed grown in South America is to be sold to Argentine farmers or exported to the United States. Mr. Wallace's course as secretary of agriculture throws some light on this question. By inducing American farmers to grow less corn he brought about a shortage in this country. Heavy imports from the Argentine resulted. Naturally the profits of the corn farmers in the Argentine rose and have now reached a point where Argentine planters no doubt can afford to buy seed, even at the premium of $4 or $5 a bushel which Mr. Wallace's company charges.

The result of the corn-hog referendum in this country should have encouraged the Argentine farmers considerably. To them it must have appeared as a gift from heaven. As America retires from the export markets they get an increasing share of the world's business and they can even expect to break into the American market itself. They can thank Mr. Wallace for that, and their self-interest as well as their sense of gratitude should make them excellent customers for any seed he may have for sale to them.

Of course, if the Argentinos do not care to pay the premium asked for hybrid seed, Mr. Wallace's company can still dispose of it profitably in this country. The tarif on corn is a negligible item in relation to the price at which hybrid seed sells. If it is profitable to import feed corn from Buenos Aires it will certainly pay to import seed corn.

As long as Mr. Wallace as secretary of agriculture limits corn acreage in this country Mr. Wallace as seed merchant will have a particularly good thing.

RIDING WITH THE HORSE AND BUGGY.

President Roosevelt, replying to a letter from the head of the Knights of Columbus, says that the United States cannot interfere in Mexico's domestic affairs and consequently will not make representations in favor of religious freedom. Where the rights of American citizens are not involved, the government cannot properly take a step which would embroil it with the government of another country.

Mr. Roosevelt might have wished to add that the law of the United States, so long as upheld under the constitution of the United States, prevented such discriminations and suppressions as are complained of in other countries. Under the fundamental law of the United States, adopted in the horse and buggy days, repressions of a minority by a majority are forbidden. Religious worship and observances, along with other vital liberties, are protected even from the acts of congress and from whatever might be the intentions of an administration. Acts complained of in Mexico, Germany, and Russia are impossible of occurrence here so long as the courts are permitted to sustain the limitations placed on government by the wisest human document defining the powers of government.

Mr. Roosevelt may have felt the desire to strengthen his position, but may also have felt that the point could be made better by some one else.

THE FILIPINOS ARE OF AGE.

It is now President Manuel Quezon, first in whatever may be the line of the Philippine commonwealth, a long line or a short one, as a troubled world may later give the answer. The Filipinos have asked for it and they have it. They found allies in American farmers who saw that the free Philippines could not be excluded from the American farm market. The Filipino choice was exclusion. It's a bargain.

Liberty is worth its price. The Filipinos have not been charged much. They have been tutored and sustained and are given their freedom for the asking. The American side of the bargain is the exclusion of their products from free entry. The new commonwealth, despite the few conditions still attached, is a foreign nation and the imposition of the tarif for the protection of American farmers should be hastened and not delayed. The ten year period of adjustment is too long. The islands have not been thrown out inconsiderately. The United States is not in debt to them.

The inauguration of a Filipino president finds the Spanish war about liquidated. Cuba is its own man. The Filipinos have what they were fighting the Spanish to get when Dewey steamed in. The American recession cannot fail to present a strange picture in the world today. Elsewhere the rule is to have and to hold and to go after more. The Filipino birthday party had to squeeze space for itself between news of Italy in Africa and Japan in China.

Curiously enough, ever since the United States refused to enter the league of nations it has been receding from its farther outposts and, the moral which adorns the tale, the big countries which organized at Geneva to protect the weak have been overrunning them.

THE MASSACRE.

The two day annual convention of the American Automobile association, held at the Palmer House last week, produced an unusual volume of protest against—as well as plans for the remedying of—the rising number of accidents on the nation's highways. The spirit pervading the meeting demonstrated conclusively that the public is at last becoming conscious of the horror of the situation. President Henry demanded that "we must stop talking and thinking in terms of safety weeks, slogans, pledges, and other claptrap words. It is time for us to talk and think of adequate and consistent enforcement of trafic regulations."

But such plans as these entirely overlook the psychology of the average American citizen. He considers himself an expert driver and resents the circumscribing of the operation of his machine on what he considers his own thoroughfare. Policing efforts secure public lip service, but never individual coöperation.

The solution of the problem is in the hands of the engineers—to design "motor vehicle highways" to replace our present streets which were built for a smaller and slower trafic. Law enforcement may have some effect—we never know positively, but we do know that it produces truculent citizens. Segregation of trafic through the construction of grade separations, elevated highways and the like is a positive cure not associated with either restriction or paternalism.

EXPEDITING PURSUIT OF CRIMINALS.

The recent conference on interstate crime problems, to which we called the attention of TRIBUNE readers as a promising effort for interstate coöperation, did not exhaust itself on talk, as many a pretentious convention does, but produced some practical results. A permanent interstate crime commission was formed, with an executive committee of seven to organize the machinery required to carry out the findings of the conference, and this committee immediately went into action.

The first need was to survey the existing legal situation, make research into the various state constitutions and laws pertinent to the coöperation against crime, and to incorporate the proposals of the conference in actual drafts to be submitted later to the conference for final discussion and approval. These approved drafts will then be forwarded to the council of state governments, the central body, which will bring them before the legislatures of the respective states for enactment.

This preliminary work of research and drafting is now in the hands of twenty-six of the leading law schools of the country, east, west, north and south, under a plan of distribution of labor which will make possible rapid progress in a very large undertaking. Harvard, Columbia and Cornell are dealing with the extradition of criminals; Yale, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Georgetown with "hot pursuit"; John Marshall, Mercer Beasley, Minnesota and New Jersey Law school with removal of witnesses from one state to another in criminal trials; Louisiana, Michigan and New York university with enlarging court jurisdiction to avoid boundary line and other technical obstructions; Indiana, Northwestern and Oregon with out-of-state parolee supervision; California, Chicago, George Washington, Southern California and Tulane with joint interstate detection and apprehension bureaus; Fordham, North Carolina, Temple and Virginia with waiver of extradition statutes.

These assignments suggest the scope of the enterprise and the practical judgment which is guiding it. The program is in competent and disinterested hands and when put before legislators will leave little need or excuse for debate or procrastination. There is no question of the urgent need for clearance of existing legal obstructions to expeditious pursuit and prosecution of criminals who are profiting by modern conditions of rapid movement to place many hurdles of the law in the path of pursuit.

The enterprise, as we noted at its inception, is also noteworthy and encouraging as an effort to make use of coöperation among the states instead of seeking to dump novel and unnecessary responsibilities upon federal authority. The latter tendency, beloved of impatient and shortsighted reformers, has already gone a long way toward abolishing state initiative and loading the central government with duties it cannot efficiently perform and was never intended to assume.

WHOLE COUNTRY BENEFITS.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The extent to which the increasing prosperity of the motor industry is benefiting the entire country is illustrated by a list of the principal materials which go into the manufacture of automobiles and trucks.

The automotive industry uses:

75 per cent of rubber imports.
70 per cent of all plate glass manufactured.
57 per cent of all malleable iron.
40 per cent of the supply of upholstery lether.
40 per cent of all mohair made.
40 per cent of all lead.
30 per cent of all nickel consumed.
20 per cent of the American steel output.
15 per cent of all aluminum.
13 per cent of the nation's cast iron.
13 per cent of the country's tin.
12 per cent of the zinc output.

The automotive industry now purchases yearly:

500,000 bales of cotton.
10,000,000 gallons of paint.
30,000,000 pounds of hair and padding.
500,000,000 board feet of lumber.

American motorists also buy:

460,000,000 gallons of lubricating oil.
15,300,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

The millions of people all over the United States who are engaged in producing or processing or transporting those commodities are enjoying the automotive industry's comeback as truly as are those who build cars in the Detroit area or distribute them throughout the country.

"YULE Shopping Crowds Busy."—Headline. Oh, still long before Christmas and that awful "Yule" pops up again. And time and time again, every year until the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, I have repeatedly pointed out that the use of that detestable word is only warranted when one speaks of the songs "Yule Be Sorry That You Kicked Me" or "Yule Miss Me When I've Gone Away."

‡

THEY TELL US that this year fond parents are not buying toy iron soldiers for the children, but mechanical toys instead. I really can't decide which is preferable. The toy iron soldiers always wear sharp pointed helmets and stepping on them with bare feet when going out on a lone raid of the ice chest at night is like stepping on a package of tacks with the points up, but when you step on a railroad train that Junior has left in the hall the darn thing shoots out from under you and you come down with great force on the floor, thereby jolting the spinal column quite severely. So right now I am neutral on the question of what sort of toys to buy for the little ones. But on one thing I am inflexible—no woolly bears that say "Papa, papa." One thing I just can't stand is to step on a woolly bear at 1 o'clock in the morning and have him call me "papa." I don't care how much he cost—there's no woolly bear that can call me "papa" and get away with it.

DEDICATED TO ANY DICTATOR.

All pageants pass:
The little Caesars,
With their broken swords,
Ride into silence down the road of ruin;
The streets of strutting men,
Once scarlet with banners
And alight with triumph's torch,
Lie strangely still beneath a broken moon;
And the harlots—victory's ageless booty—
Call from the latticed windows
For the captains who will never come. . . .
All trophies of valor and vanity
Now rust upon the wall,
Or turn to dust in darkened crypts,
And yellow grows the written page
That told of mighty deeds. . . .
Alas, how frail is fame,
And how certain is that dark procession
Winding into eternity from time
Where those who rode in pomp
Slink, without voice or gesture,
Into line and there remain
Saluted only by the silent shadows
That fold like black wings

ABORIGINE.

‡

ABOUT THE ONLY GLEAM of sunshine I can see right now in the new Canadian reciprocal trade treaty with Mr. Roosevelt is that the U. S. tariff on Canadian whisky is cut from five dollars a gallon to two and a half, so after January we ought to be able to buy Canadian rye for just half what we pay now. But, says you, I don't drink whisky. Then you're just out of luck, that's all. But maybe the duty on buttermilk has been cut in two. People who don't drink whisky ought to get some kind of a break.

‡

TWO HEADLINES the other day—"One Sixth of Relief Population in United States Is Youths Between the Ages of 16 and 25." "Shirley Temple, Child Movie Actress, 7 Years Old, Receives Total Income of $5,000 Per Week." As the late Mr. Shakespeare has so well said, "'Tis a strange world, my masters." And whenever the youth in the United States between the ages of 16 and 25 get the price they hasten to a movie theater to see Shirley Temple. Which is one reason Shirley Temple, the child movie actress, seven years old, gets $5,000 a week. And likewise one reason why the youths between the ages of 16 and 25 stay on relief.

BUT UNDERSTAND, the Japanese are not stealing a large slice of China! Oh, no indeed; perish the thought. The Japanese are "freeing" the part of China that comes under their control. We can only hope that the benevolent Japs never decide to free California, Washington, Oregon, and Idaho. Setting other nations free has become a regular habit with the Japanese.

‡

TO LOVE.

I would lift my voice in a spirited tune
That would make the welkin ring,
In a twittering tenor would I croon
About the lovely thing,
I would hymn its pleasures and chant its bliss,
Dulcetly yodel the thrill of a kiss
In tones you couldn't afford to miss—
If I could only sing.

I would etch such drawings the world would rave
And critics fall in a faint;
They'd build mausoleums on my grave
And canonize me as a saint;
I would paint its beauties so wondrously,
In colors athrob with an ecstasy
It would knock you flat—alas, ah me,
If I could only paint.

I would do all this and much more, egad!
And continue without a pause
To sing and paint and suffer like mad
For Love's most glorious cause;
I would mock at the fools who pass it by,
Give rules for each various groan and sigh,
Exalt its worth to the topmost sky—
If I knew what it was.

TREATMENT OF SCABIES.

THE itch mite is with us the year round. She requires a warm, comfortable environment in which to thrive, hence the rather frequent appearance of mites that go into winter quarters, burrowing in the skin of human beings. Not only is the inflammation caused by mite infestation [scabies] annoying and unsightly, but it may lead to serious infection. Scratching is insistent and dirty finger nails may introduce bacteria.

Not long ago mention was made in this column of the time-honored prescription—said to have originated with the Roman, Galen—of sulphur ointment. Sulphur will cure the itch, said Galen, and since his time physicians in all lands have rubbed itching humanity with sulphur.

For ease of administration powdered sulphur was added to a fat and the whole material made into an ointment. The treatment consists first of thoroughly scrubbing the skin with soap and water to open up the burrows made by the parasites, followed by the application of sulphur.

Now and then itch mites appear to endure these sulphur baths with impunity. If one of these tiny, spiderlike creatures can be caught and permitted to disport herself on a layer of sulphur ointment she will apparently thrive without much discomfort for as long as 48 hours. Furthermore, mites will stand immersion in water for 24 hours or longer.

Some of the causes of the failure of treatment are apparently due to the fact that every mite has not been destroyed. Should a single female remain, eggs will be produced at the rate or two or three per day for as long a period as two weeks. These require 14 days to hatch, so that four weeks or more may elapse before the most recently laid eggs develop into mites. Many a victim assumes a cure just because symptoms have disappeared, only to waken some morning with a new crop of parasites.

Now comes the suggestion of F. F. Kingston that a mixture of sulphur and turpentine [which dissolves sulphur] will prove much more effective than the use of sulphur ointment. To a definite quantity of melted sulphur oil of turpentine is added until all the sulphur has been dissolved. It was found that approximately six ounces of turpentine were required to dissolve thirty grains of sulphur. Liquid paraffin was then added, the result being a perfectly clear, amber colored fluid. Treatment then proceeded with the usual routine of first scrubbing the body in the vicinity of the burrows, followed by the application of the sulphur-turpentine-paraffin solution. Not only were the results prompt in the relief of symptoms, but fewer instances of relapse occurred. Some patients appeared free from the parasites after one treatment; others required three or more. Experiment showed that the parasites themselves would live in the sulphur-turpentine mixture for only six or eight hours.

Further experiments showed that the eggs of the itch mites embedded in sulphur ointment would live for days; in fact, they would hatch if the temperature remained around 60 degrees F. So we see that despite the ancient adage that sulphur will cure the itch we must modify the dictum by the phrase, "if in proper form." In Kingston's experience treatment with sulphur ointment alone resulted in as many failures as successes.

The advantage of the sulphur-turpentine-paraffin mixture appears to lie in the fact that it will not prove unduly irritating to the skin, even though in certain cases it is not followed by complete eradication of the parasites. With persistence in its use, however, it is undoubtedly superior to sulphur ointment.

Too extensive application of turpentine to the skin is never advised, and for most cases of scabies sulphur ointment will probably provide a satisfactory remedy. In stubborn cases Kingston's plan may be followed.

HIRSCHSPRUNG'S DISEASE.

W. J. R. writes: My boy 12 years of age is troubled with what has been diagnosed as Hirschsprung's disease. Several eminent physicians and surgeons have given me such widely divergent opinions as to how to treat the case that I am totally at a loss as to what to do. I have been told that an immediate operation is necessary; that there are only two surgeons in the world capable of performing this operation; that no operation is necessary and by no means to consent. My family physician has been treating the boy for two years with the thought that, as he grows older, the ailing area will automatically be corrected and become normal. Under his direction we have been giving the boy some medicine for the purpose of keeping the stools soft. Can you explain exactly what this disease is, and give suggestions as to further treatment?

REPLY.

Hirschsprung's disease or megacolon is generally considered a disease of childhood only, but numerous cases occurring in adult life are reported. It is more common in males. Many reasons have been advanced concerning the cause of this condition, which may be summarized as follows:

1. Congenital defects.
2. Obstructive processes: elongation of the entire colon and multiplication of its loops: mechanical obstruction.
3. Infective or inflammatory processes; chronic colitis.

The outstanding feature of megacolon is obstinate constipation associated with huge, permanent distention of the abdomen. Medical treatment as a rule is unsatisfactory and is not curative, although a fair degree of health may be secured if treatment is begun early and continued without neglect. Favorable results have been reported following operative treatment. There are many surgeons who are competent to undertake the necessary procedure.

MORON.

Mrs. E. R. writes: My husband and I have had many arguments as to what a moron is. Will you settle the argument for us?

REPLY.

Webster defines a moron as follows: "A person [man or woman] belonging to that group of the feeble-minded whose mental level is that of the normal child of from 8 to 12 years of age, inclusive."

Sexual degenerates are popularly but erroneously termed "morons." This is an adaptation of the word, on the assumption that adults who exhibit traits of sexual degeneracy must be feeble-minded, that is, lacking in character and control.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died in 1926, leaving a house and a small amount of cash to three children, of which I am the youngest. Both my brother and sister have received their part of the estate as they were of age at the time or shortly afterward. I became of age in December, 1934, but have had no satisfactory accounting of the estate. My guardian, appointed by the Probate court, was public guardian until the first of this year. I have made a number of attempts to take my estate off her hands with no success. She is holding my part of the estate which she says is a bond on an apartment building in default a year and a half. 1. What can I do to have her turn everything over to me? 2. How can I acquire an accounting of this estate? 3. Is a guardian allowed to invest a juvenile's money on real estate without consent of the immediate family? 4. If not, is there any means of having the money invested returned by the guardian? 5. What fee is charged and is it taken out of the estate by the guardian, or is a public guardian paid by the county?   R. B.

1. Nothing until you are of age.
2. It seems probable that she will give you the necessary information if you ask for it.
3. Yes, with court approval.
4. Depends on the facts as to the authority for the investment.
5. The fee will be allowed by the Probate court, depending on the size of the estate and the amount of labor involved.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LOST DEEDS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Six months ago two conveyance deeds, together with fees, were delivered against receipt of a lawyer for recording. The lawyer makes all kinds of excuses, giving promises, but does not record or return the deeds. Shortly after the delivery of the deeds it was discovered that the receipt was post-dated, with the date of the following Sunday instead of Wednesday. One witness was present. What steps should be taken to obtain the deeds and what bearing has the falsifying of the date?   J. P.

Without having the surrounding circumstances before us, it is difficult to tell what inference to draw from his delay. He may have lost the instruments and other explanations are possible. If you gave us a sample of his excuses, we would be in a better position to advise you.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE HOLDER.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any way in which I could get in touch with my direct first mortgage holder? I have been paying my interest to a mortgage banker, but I would like to speak to the direct owner as I wish to make a different arrangement in paying off the mortgage. I have only the one mortgage. Any advice will be appreciated.   B. W.

It is a common practice for brokers to refuse to divulge the names. About the only way to force matters is by proceedings under the new amendments to the bankruptcy act.

DUBLIN.—An incident in connection with the visit to Cork this year of the United States training ship Empire State has now been made known. It was the presentation to the commander of the ship of rare nautical books. The full story, recorded in the latest issue of the journal of the Cork Historical and Archæological society, follows:

"Prior to the departure of the New York state training ship Empire State from Cork on July 15, 1935, Leslie Woods, American consul, presented the commander with a souvenir from an anonymous citizen who desired to commemorate the ship's visit to that city. In acknowledging the gift the commander writes:

"'We thank you most sincerely for your great kindness in presenting us with the two volumes by M. F. Maury, U. S. N., to be received by our research library. I consider these volumes very valuable and difficult to obtain nowadays.'

"The fact that Lieut. Maury autographed one of the volumes makes that volume especially valuable. We feel that we have received in our library two books which are not only appreciated by the present Cadet corps, but which will be appreciated even more by the student body of this academy as the years roll on. J. H. Tomb, Captain, U. S. N. [retired].

"The volumes, entitled 'Sailing Directions,' were published in 1858-'59 at Washington, and originally presented by Lieut. Maury with his compliments, to Richard Locke [editor of the New York Sun].

"They subsequently passed into the possession of a captain in the American mercantile marine, a County Cork man, who had a personal acquaintance with Lieut. Maury, and later to his relative, who preserved them for over fifty years. Maury's first work on navigation was adopted as a text book by the American navy in 1834.

"To his labors as astronomer of the naval observatory he added the task of determining the direction of the winds and currents of the ocean. His 'Physical Geography of the Sea,' published in 1858, was translated into the languages of France, Germany, Holland, Norway, Spain and Italy, which made the author known throughout Europe. He was the first to give a complete description of the gulf stream and to mark out specific routes to be followed in crossing the Atlantic.

"Maury also instituted the system of sea sounding and was the first to suggest the establishment of telegraphic communication between the continents by cable on the bed of the ocean, which later was laid along the line indicated by him.

"By Humbolt, Maury was declared to be the founder of a new and important science, and the governments and academies of Europe, including the Papal states, bestowed orders of knighthood and other distinctions upon him. It was, therefore, fitting that Cork, once famous for its maritime training, should add a relic to the American naval academy, which owes its foundation to Matthew Fontaine Maury."

ABOUT SHARECROPPERS.

Lawrence, Mich., Nov. 15.—"Arkansas Sharecroppers Eat Chicken," is a headline in a recent issue of an Arkansas newspaper. It seems that a New Deal propagandist was trying to make somebody believe something that is not a fact. He says that through a survey of representative plantations by the AAA the sharecroppers were found to be in fine shape, eating chicken and dumplings, fresh pork and beef, fruits and vegetables. Anybody living in the country can have an old hen or two with a brood of chicks which they can eat without it costing them one penny, and they can all have vegetables if they will grow them, without cost. Many of them don't.

But when it comes to fresh pork and beef at the present prices, not one out of forty can afford it. Not even all the landowners can afford it. I have been a landowner in the cotton country for thirty years, and have had considerable experience with sharecroppers and tenant farmers. I long ago found that throughout the cotton country there is a class of people who are improvident, shiftless, ambitionless, and care for nothing in the world but a bare existence. Very few of them want to stay at one place more than one season. They were born that way, they were raised that way, and they are going to stay that way, and they are going to raise their children that way regardless of any New Deal AAA project for their betterment.

You put the average sharecropper into a new, modern house and at the end of the year you will have a ramshackle shanty left, with a mudhole for a dooryard. The old Hoover diet of corn bread and sorghum, hog jaw and turnip top greens suits them better than anything else, and they are happy and healthy with it. This is equally true of both white and black tenants.

Since the abolition of slavery there has been a system of landlord and tenant in the south, and it was a good system for the sharecropper and tenant farmer, for 90 per cent of them were absolutely incapable of taking care of themselves and depended altogether on the "bossman" to take care of them. Under that system everybody had a home, of a sort, with either the landlord or local merchant to take care of them, and they were satisfied as a rule. But now, under the AAA curtailment of crops, the landlords cannot keep them, so a great bulk of them are on public relief at the taxpayers' expense. How can they eat pork chops and beefsteak?

Now the government has a project on foot to buy, with taxpayers' money, great quantities of land to place these sharecroppers on, and give them practically a lifetime to pay for it. Not one out of fifty would ever pay out, and if he did pay out it wouldn't be thirty days till he would have it mortgaged for all he could get and be on the road looking for a new pasture.

The best thing that could be done for the sharecropper is for the Supreme court to completely kill the entire AAA racket, so that the landowners could use their land in any way they wished; then the sharecropper would soon find his place again and would not need sympathy from any one. This would not please Roosevelt-Wallace-Tugwell & Co., but it would be a mighty fine thing for the United States in general, and the sharecropper in particular.   MURRAY ACKLIN.

AN OLD DEED.

Iowa Falls, Ia., Nov. 15.—In my possession is a warantee deed executed in Du Page county, Ill., in October, 1842. It is on a form printed by the Chicago Democrat. It was given by John Carr and Bridget Carr, his wife, to my great-grandfather, Richard S. Sargent, in conveyance of a parcel of land in Kane county, the consideration being $13.06. It contained ten and forty-five-hundredths acres. The deed was witnessed by C. B. Dodson, who was the justice of the peace that took the acknowledgment. The deed was acknowledged Jan. 24, 1843. It was recorded in both Kane and Du Page counties for some reason. In the former county the recorder was Charles B. Wells and it was placed of record Jan. 11, 1850. In the latter county it was recorded July 15, 1843, the recorder being S. M. Skinner. My great-grandfather was a veteran of the war of 1812 and is buried here. I am wondering if any of the descendants of any of the above officials, or Mr. and Mrs. Carr, are living in Chicagoland.   FRANK E. FOSTER.

FROM THE SAGE OF CŒUR D'ALENE.

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt does not seem to quote as much scripture as his famous namesake, Theodore. I recall three biblical verses that Theodore quoted: "In the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be"; "The children of Ephraim, being armed, and carrying bows, turned back in the day of battle"; "Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off." Perhaps readers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE can recall other biblical verses that Theodore quoted. Verses from the Bible that men quote furnish pretty good indexes to their characters.

I wonder if President Franklin ever quoted this verse, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Or this, "Great men are not always wise." Or this [not from the Bible], "Self-help is the best help."   CHARLES HOOPER.

FARLEY'S OWN.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—It is most humorous to read that the United States postoffice is supposed to be nonpolitical. On Friday, Nov. 15, thousands of unemployed, desiring to work for the Christmas rush, waited in line to receive application blanks. When they reached the end of the line they were asked if they had a letter of recommendation, and if they didn't have any they were refused an application.   SAM SHAPIRO.

A PUN FOR THE DAY.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 15.—Concerning George Shaffer's article in today's TRIBUNE which reports the pending divorce of Clark and Mrs. Gable, we read that "the Gables have been separated for some time." We always maintained that a house divided against itself cannot stand.

STONESIFER AND KASIK.

THE POWER OF MONEY.

East Peoria, Ill., Nov. 14.—This old age pension is going to make some of the young gals wash the rouge away and tell you they will soon be 65 years old. Money will buy a lot of things, but this is the first time it is being used to make people tell the truth.   LEN BIGGS.

WAR FEARED IN EUROPE; NATIONS LINE UP ALLIES

Conflict with Germany Is Visioned by Leaders.

BY GREGORY RUSHTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Nov. 19.—Radical changes in the European political situation can be expected during the winter. The possibility of war between Italy and Great Britain remains serious—war provoked by Italy if the league of nations sanctions become dangerously effective, war provoked by Britain if they don't.

It is my impression, however, this is not the war every one in Europe is afraid of. What is happening at Geneva is largely a dress rehersal. The machinery is being oiled up and tried out for future use against Germany. Except for the British no one in Geneva cares what the Italians do in Africa; it is a question of laying the groundwork for a continental alliance against Germany.

Jocky for Positions.

The German strategy is to break this up playing closely with the British, trying to buy their future neutrality with immediate support. Everywhere there is a great deal of jockying for position and the smallest diplomatic maneuvers have deep significance. This, combined with intensified arming in all countries, is a clear indication that a major European war is viewed as likely and imminent.

The British policy at the moment seems to be based more upon these long term preoccupations than upon the immediate issue at stake in Geneva. They are organizing themselves diplomatically and militarily in the Mediterranean rapidly, but also on a long term scale. Negotiations with the French for coördinated naval action in the Mediterranean are becoming increasingly technical and are believed to be quite far advanced.

It is not a question of academic promises of assistance, however automatic. What the British want is nothing less than to see the French fleet put on a wartime footing. One of the great stumbling blocks of the negotiation is the difficulty of mobilizing French naval reserves. It cannot be done under cover as it has been done in England. A mobilization decree is necessary and the French feel that would stir up too much excitement at the moment.

Seek Alliance with Spain.

Negotiations for an alliance with Spain are being actively pushed by the British and apparently with some success.

The return of King George II. to the Greek throne after he has been carefully groomed by the British foreign office is believed to assure Britain of bases in Greek waters for offensive action against the Italian fleet and Adriatic ports.

An important factor in the situation is the military alliance between Japan and Germany. Rumors of this have been current for some time. There is no official alliance, but there is a general staf convention which in countries where the army dominates, as it does in Germany and Japan, comes to the same thing. The convention calls for exchange of officers to serve as instructors and, what is particularly interesting, provides that even in peace time the Japanese are to maintain a stated number of divisions on the Russian frontier to keep the Red army divided.

British Prepare for Worst.

It is the belief here and in Geneva that now the British elections are out of the way negotiations for settlement of the Ethiopian war will be pushed vigorously. The British are expected to take a definitly realistic view providing Premier Mussolini can offer satisfactory evidence that he has been sufficiently impressed by the British naval and diplomatic parade to discard the prevalent Fascist idea that the British empire is "decadent." In principle it should be relatively easy to reach a settlement, but the British are preparing for the worst. They are pushing schemes for a general reconciliation and rebalancing of forces in Europe through a reorganized and weakened league supplemented by regional security pacts.

Premier Laval of France is ready to coöperate in this policy by attempting a rapprochement with Germany and easing away from the Russian-little entente [Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia] camp. There must be some definite political theory and not just "friendship" for Mussolini back of the remarkably un-French foreign policy Laval has been pursuing at Geneva. The French obviously had much to lose by definitively alienating Italy, but they had more to gain—from the viewpoint of their traditional policy—from reenforcing the security mechanism of the league.

Believe British Decadent.

I am of the opinion that, quite apart from Italy, Laval does not believe in the league theory of security which has always been one of the two bases of French foreign policy. He believes in a realistic understanding between France, Britain, Italy, and Germany to keep the little countries behaving themselves and to agree in a gentlemanly way upon how the spoils should be carved up whenever there are any spoils. He detects somewhat of a fellow feeling in the British Conservative government and he still hopes seriously to bring Mussolini around.

The unknown factor is: How much is Mussolini influenced by considerations of interest and how much by mere emotion? The Italians definitly have been working on the theory that the British are decadent and can be shoved aside by a younger and more vigorous people.

The Ethiopian war has produced a very interesting phenomenon in Italy. Last winter there was a great deal of discontent and unrest in the country and the reports sent out regarding the unpopularity of the war were unquestionably correct. Even Fascist newspaper men have admitted that. In six months the situation has completely changed. The whole country is back of Mussolini, and while there is no frantic enthusiasm about the war there is a general determination to go ahead at any cost. The reason for the change is the press campaign against Britain throughout the last few months and the league's voting sanctions.

Mussolini has been able to make the Italian people believe that they are menaced from without, that Britain is trying to strangle Italy, just as Adolf Hitler exploited the "steel ring" around Germany. Italians who were never sympathetic to the Facist régime are 100 per cent pro-Mussolini now because they regard him as Italy's champion against a foreign enemy. To give this impression was a triumph of propaganda rarely equaled.

Gets New Lease on Life.

The Ethiopian war and the British opposition to it have given the Fascist régime a new lease on life at a time when it was getting very shaky. Obviously the war even without sanctions was going to ruin what was left of Italy's finances. Thanks to sanctions everything can be blamed on the British. It is likely that if there had been no war and no sanctions Mussolini would have been forced to tell the Italian people to tighten their belts anyway this winter. This might have been a little embarrassing to explain.

Now Mussolini has an answer to everything. The war is covering up the failure of Fascism and under cover of wartime discipline Il Duce can carry out the swing to the left which has become inevitable. How long the Italian people will stand up under the strain is hard to tell, probably quite a long time. At least it has given the régime a breathing spell even if it is only to run into graver difficulties later. If Mussolini made peace with the British on terms that seemed reasonable to the Italian people he might get some foreign loans and keep on going longer.

There is no way of telling, however, how much of the Italian dictator's seemingly insane foreign policy is deliberate calculation to escape internal difficulties and how much it is authentic insanity. One man's guess is as good as another's. If it is political strategy he will stop short of war. If he really believes what he says he is quite likely to hit out in desperation when he sees the British have him licked.

Irish Free State Accepts Bid to World Naval Parley

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Irish Free State today formally accepted the British invitation to attend an international naval conference this year. An authoritative source said the Italian government also had accepted but that the official communication of acceptance had not yet been received.

BRITAIN TAKES UP QUESTION OF OLD RUSSIAN DEBT

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Experts of the foreign office and the board of trade today considered the questions of settlement of the old czarist debt and expansion of Anglo-soviet trade.

Soviet officials have not been approached yet, nor have the negotiations reached the stage for consideration of a loan and extension of credit. The British government wishes to clarify its own views and consider various suggestions for settlement of the debt before dealing directly with the soviet representatives.

The British government estimates the czarist debt at roughly £250,000,000 [about $1,250,000,000]. The Anglo-soviet trade agreement is admitted by Britain to work fairly satisfactorily, but the balance runs heavily against the British and an expansion is wanted.

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a glass of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

A Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach — Genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water.

Three Bayer Aspirin tablets, crushed and dissolved in 1/3 glass of water as a gargle. Gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back to permit this medicated gargle to reach the irritated membranes of the throat.

Your doctor will approve this treatment as perhaps the quickest, simplest way known to fight cold and sore throat.

The Bayer Aspirin taken internally will combat a cold almost instantly, and ease the usual pains that accompany one. The gargle will ease sore throat in a few minutes. For it acts like a local anesthetic in relieving pain and rawness.

When you buy, though, see that you get real BAYER ASPIRIN tablets. For they dissolve almost instantly in the stomach and thus start working almost instantly. And they dissolve completely enough to use as a gargle. Watch out for this.

JUNKETEERS SAIL FOR U. S.; FACE SUGAR SCANDAL

Fear Philippine 'Mission' Lobby Quiz.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 20 [Wednesday].—The great outpouring of love and libations attending the Philippine commonwealth's nativity is ended and the forty-three members of the American congressional delegation are sailing for home today to face the music they fear of a lobby investigation.

Word has reached here that the American farm bureau federation is indignant over the trip of Vice President John N. Garner, Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of the house of representatives, 17 senators and 24 representatives financed by the Philippine government at a cost of $200,000, because of the inescapable implications of bribery.

Sugar Lobbyists Big Worry.

The chief source of worry to the junketeers, however, is the presence of the sugar lobbyists who came over and are returning with the delegation. Several senators admit privately that the activity of these sugar lobbyists is becoming a major scandal and they cannot see how an investigation by the lobby committee of Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] can be prevented.

Two senators — Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.] and E. W. Gibson [Rep., Vt.]—find themselves in the anomalous position of being members both of the Philippine mission, so-called, and the lobby committee.

Philippine officials are confident and the visiting statesmen have assured them that congress will lay no crippling tarifs on Philippine goods.

There is every indication that the Filipinos consider their $200,000 well spent. The American farmers, however, demanded Philippine independence for the sole purpose of protecting their own products, and the visiting congressmen are worried, for some day they will be called upon to vote.

The statesmen, however, find some consolation in the fact that Senator Huey Long is dead. They shudder at the thought of what Long, coming from a sugar cane state, would do about the Philippine junket.

Other Sugar Men.

The organizer of the great junket on behalf of President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth was former Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] who led the fight for Philippine independence and later became Washington counsel for both the Philippine sugar association and the Philippine government.

Besides Hawes Carl Jacobson and J. L. Fleming, representing huge Philippine and Hawaiian sugar interests, came on the trip and several others joined the party at Manila.

These amiable gentlemen pay their own way and are not members of the official party, but this fact is not apparent at the functions and festivals.

Autograph seekers make no distinction between the "sugar daddies" and the congressmen.

Philippine and Hawaiian sugar interests have formed an alliance against Cuba, which has a lower production cost and can undersell them in the competitive market. Feeling there is a natural affinity between them, since both are under the American flag, Philippine and Hawaiian interests want a continuation of free trade even after the ten year transition period and the Tydings-McDuffie act expires and the Philippines become free.

Seek Preferential Treatment.

Failing in this, they would like preferential treatment against Cuba. Moreover, Philippine planters have received, or have coming, $30,000,000 under the Jones-Costigan AAA amendment for curtailing production, and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has the authority to continue the bounties under the Tydings-McDuffie law.

The American statesmen are returning home with headaches, but it should not be blamed upon the festive wine. They wonder why the Filipinos want "independencia" if they love Americanos as much as they say they do.

FLOODS ATTACK CANAL ZONE; RUSH FOOD BY PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Nov. 19.—The Panama canal is experiencing one of the major floods which occur about every five years. It remained open to trafic today, due largely to the Madden dam which was completed last year primarily for the control of such floods.

The Panama government has dispatched two airplanes to drop food supplies to the town of El Llano, where many homes were washed out.

Two dredges are now working in the East Lirio section of the canal's Gaillard cut removing thousands of cubic yards of dirt and rock which were loosened by the rains and fell into the channel.

ECONOMIC WAR FAILS TO HINDER TOURIST TRAFIC

Line Expands Service to Mediterranean.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Most of the powers of Europe entered into a bloodless war with Italy this week, but the economic hostilities failed to halt the tourist trafic from the new world to the old. Instead, the newspaper accounts of modern men-of-war cruising into ancient harbors and the newspaper pictures of British squadrons moving over Mediterranean waters appeared to have whetted the appetites of the adventurous.

One result is that the ban placed on Genoa and Naples by an American steamship line early in October has been lifted, and those two cities again are on the regular schedules. A second result is that, beginning today, another line flying the American flag will expand its service in the eastern Mediterranean, the Red sea, and East Africa, with Mombasa, Tanga, Dar-es-Salaam, and Zanzibar added to the ports of call. And two canceled pleasure cruises from European ports through the Suez canal have been reinstated.

Plan Business as Usual.

Reports from Europe have it that the winter resorts there are preparing to entertain their full quota of visitors. Both the French and the Italian Rivieras have scheduled an elaborate series of entertainments and are going ahead under the business-as-usual banner.

Even the anti-British outbreaks in Egypt seem to have had little effect. The coming winter's boat trips up the Nile already have been augmented by two special excursions. The hotels in Cairo have announced that their advance reservations for December and January are 27 per cent ahead of last year's. Egypt has reduced its passport and visa charges and expects this reduction to bring in the crowds.

In view of the international situation, many of the steamship and travel companies were puzzled last month as to what to do with their winter cruise programs. This month has brought a solution of the problem and a consequent return of confidence. Those travelers wishing to avoid the Mediterranean will be taken to South Africa, South America, Central America, the Caribbean, the south seas, and the orient. Those wishing to get in on the Mediterranean drama will be handled on the liners sailing regularly from New York.

Survey Shows New Record.

A survey conducted by the American Express company shows an all-time record of reservations for tours to the far east and the south seas starting in January. Honolulu, first of the stopping places, estimates that it will have 20,000 visitors from the mainland before the end of the year. For the first nine months of the year its increase over a like period in 1934 was 24 per cent.

In this country the winter resorts are recording a strong advance in hotel reservations and early attendance. The Florida tourist centers anticipate a gain of from 40 to 50 per cent over last year. With a $12,000,000 building program, including a $1,200,000 hotel, Miami is proclaiming that it has 6,100 new units in hotel and apartment accommodations.

A survey made by a representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reveals that the railroads, bus lines, and motor clubs are getting ready for a record business from Chicago to Florida.

"Our advance bookings for Pullmans and coach accommodations are fully 20 per cent ahead of what they were at this time last year," J. V. Lanigan, passenger trafic manager of the Illinois Central, told this representative. "Requests for literature have been so great that we are several days behind in our mail. Our men in the field, on publicity and contact work, say other roads are having a similar increase."

Rain and Cold Bring Results.

Officials of the Chicago Motor club said that in October, when the weather was good, there was a falling off in the number of requests for maps showing the best routes to Florida, but that this month, when the rain and cold set in, the totals jumped to nearly double those of November, 1934.

Effective Dec. 1, the western railroads will offer, for the first time, low winter round trip rates to points on the Pacific coast. These rates, comparable to those of the summer tourist season, are based on 1.8 cents a mile. Reductions from eastern and middle western points will approximate 22½ per cent, and there will be substantial cuts on both coach and tourist tickets.

Due partly to this rate slashing, and partly to the fact that the San Diego exposition will reopen Jan. 15, the west coast resorts are having the heaviest advance bookings in their history. On the east coast, Atlantic City has sent out word that its total of visitors for the year will run above the 15,000,000 mark.

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What reductions have been made by foreign countries for tourists going over there this winter? R. G.

The French railways have cut their rates by 50 per cent for groups of ten or more. This takes the place of a 30 per cent cut formerly in effect. From Dec. 1 to March 15 adult foreigners traveling in Norway will get a 50 per cent reduction in rail fares, provided the distance traveled involves at least 400 kilometers [about 250 miles].

How did Cheapside get its name? C. K. M.

Six centuries ago Cheapside was the Piccadilly and Oxford street of London. It was a great shopping district and it is still a jewelry center. Its name is derived from the word "chepe," a market.

When does the next South American cruise start aboard the Santa Lucia? E. V.

Dec. 21.

What can you tell me about the port of Barcelona? C. T.

It is modern in appearance, even though it dates to the second century and ranked with Genoa and Venice in Mediterranean trade in the middle ages. The spacious harbor into which the Phoenicians sailed in search of new business, and which Columbus entered after his return from America, now is pierced by long wharves, each accommodating several large vessels at a time.

Why is Porto Rico called one of the world's crossroads? A. F. G.

Lying at the entrance to the Caribbean region, it is on a direct line for ships plying between the east and the west, the north and the south. The island's main port, San Juan, is 1,380 miles from New York. San Juan has more than 1,800 steamship arrivals each year.

How old is Durazzo, a port in Albania? D. J.

It was founded by Corcyreans and Corinthians as a colony in the 7th century B. C.

Dr. Karl A. Meyer Wins $12,500 Injury Damages

A jury verdict awarding $12,500 to Dr. Karl A. Meyer, medical superintendent of the Cook County hospital, in a personal injury suit, was opened yesterday by Superior Judge Martin M. Gridley. The verdict was against Mrs. Ralph G. Hollingsworth, 1518 Oak avenue, Evanston, and was returned by the jury in sealed form Monday night. Dr. Meyer testified during the trial that he suffered an internal injury on May 27, 1933, when his automobile was struck in Evanston by a car driven by Mrs. Hollingsworth.

POLAND CHARGES LITHUANIA AIDS IN UKRAINE PLOT

Tries 12 in Slaying of Warsaw Minister.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 19.—The Lithuanian government was formally accused today of providing the Ukrainian terrorist organization with funds and false passports, interceding on its behalf with the American government and assisting it to obtain visas to enter the United States to collect funds for activities in Poland and to create dissension between Poles and Ukrainians in America.

This charge was made in an indictment read in the Warsaw court today. Twelve Ukrainians, including three women, are being tried for complicity in the murder of Polish Minister of Interior Bronislaw Pieracki on June 15, 1934.

Letter to Show Aid Given.

The indictment stated the Polish government intends to offer evidence to prove these charges, including a letter from the leader of the Ukrainian organization who resides abroad, Col. Konowalcev. He is said to have written at Geneva in 1932 that the Lithuanian government was giving support to the Ukrainian terrorist movement and even granting it a monthly subsidy.

Before the conclusion of the Polish-German pact of nonaggression and friendship, Col. Konowalcev made his headquarters in Berlin, but a year ago he was expelled from Germany and now is residing in Geneva.

The present Lithuanian premier, Juozas Tubelis, also was mentioned in the indictment which alleges that he has used secret funds to subsidize the Ukrainian anti-Polish organization.

Official Business Visa.

On one occasion, the indictment continued, the Lithuanian consulate in New York wrote American immigration authorities that a Ukrainian living in Winnipeg who desired an American visa was entering America upon official Lithuanian business. The American government had refused a visa unless he obtained a letter to this effect.

Another development was the allegation by the prosecutor that the Polish police succeeded in obtaining evidence linking the Ukrainian terrorists with the Croat terrorist organization Ustasha, three members of which are being tried at Aix-en-Provence, France, for complicity in the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

The prosecutor alleged both groups of assassins coöperated, using similar methods.

Refuse to Speak Polish.

The trial is expected to continue for a month. The Ukrainians have a large staf of lawyers who announced they have prepared a stiff defense for their clients.

The prisoners refuse to speak Polish, although they admit a knowledge of the Polish language, and the proceedings are obstructed by the necessity of interpreters.

The Polish press is publishing extra editions—an unusual event in Poland—and indignation against Lithuania, the conduct of which is branded as shameful, is running high.

STRANGE DRAMA HALTS TRIAL OF 3 CROATS IN FRANCE

See Move to Hide Nations in Serb King's Death Plot.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Nov. 19.—A dramatic and seemingly unaccountable row today halted the trial here of three alleged Croat terrorists, members of the secret organization Ustasha, for complicity in the assassination of King Alexander I of Jugo-Slavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France last year at Marseilles.

Following violent clashes with the judges and prosecuting attorney, the defense lawyer, Georges Desbons, was disbarred and forcibly ejected from the courtroom. The court thereupon appointed the head of the local bar association, Jacques Sandino, to defend the accused and then adjourned the trial for twenty-four hours to give him time to study the 4,000 documents included in the files of the case.

Announce Hunger Strike.

When this decision was translated to them, the defendants—Mio Kraj, Vronomir Pospisil, and Ivan Ratich—announced that they refused to be defended by Sandino and that they would go on a hunger strike until Desbons was allowed to return.

The court adjourned amid a general uproar, nobody knowing what will happen next.

Since yesterday, when the trial opened, so many extraordinary incidents have occurred that many observers are convinced that some one deliberately is trying to sabotage the trial in order to prevent the three defendants from revealing the whole truth about the Ustasha society.

In this connection, it is pointed out that the chief of the Ustasha, the mysterious Dr. Ante Pavelich, and his lieutenant, Egon Kvaternik, or Cramer, who are alleged to be the real organizers of the assassination, are still in Italy—supposedly in jail—and that Italian authorities refuse to extradite them.

Dramatic Disbarment.

The incident which led to the disbarment of Desbons, who was hired by Croats in the United States to defend the trio, was a bit of drama unprecedented in French criminal annals. In the middle of the morning session the judge announced that some one had handed the court a sealed envelope addressed to the foreman of the jury and ordered the envelope be handed over. The juror, after eying it with evident misgiving, and cautiously feeling its contents, opened it.

Desbons immediately objected, declaring that a document, the contents of which were unknown to the defense, had been introduced in court and that the whole procedure was irregular.

The court adjourned to weigh the defense's objections. When the trial was resumed, one of the jurors, disregarding warnings that he was committing a grave irregularity, announced that the document contained in the envelope had been burned by the jury and that no more closed communications would be accepted by them while the trial was in progress. Desbons repeated his objections when he was overruled by the court.

Verbal Free for All

This precipitated a verbal free for all, involving Desbons, the judge, and the prosecuting attorney. Desbons screamed that if he were a politician instead of a simple barrister the court would have given him more attention. The prosecuting attorney thereupon filed a formal complaint demanding Desbons' disbarment and the presiding magistrate, Judge de la Broize pronounced him disbarred.

Desbons' behavior since the beginning of the trial had amazed the spectators. The violence of his language yesterday drew an official reprimand from the judge and to many it seemed as if he were deliberately trying to provoke a mistrial by his tactics.

It was presumed that the furious row kicked up yesterday against the interpreters chosen by the court was intended to discredit the police interpreter employed during the long investigation of the crime, which occurred Oct. 9, 1934.

The socialist newspaper Populaire today accused Desbons of being a Fascist sympathizer who is attempting to smother the political aspects of the case—both Italy and Hungary are alleged to have backed the Ustashas against Jugo-Slavia.

SEEK WAY TO ASSIST CROATS IN CAMPAIGN TO WIN INDEPENDENCE

Means of promoting the movement for Croatian independence from Jugo-Slavia will be discussed at the National Congress of Croatian Patriots to be held in Chicago on Nov. 30.

It is expected that the congress also will discuss the defense of three Croatians on trial in France for the killing of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia. The Croat organization, National Representation for Independence of Croatia, has furnished a fund of $10,000 for the accused men.

Ante M. Doshen, supreme secretary, was critical of the action of the French court, which on Monday refused to allow Attorney Georges Desbons to appear as counsel for the accused. Doshen charged that political influence was being brought to bear for a conviction.

UNCLE ARRESTED IN SLAYING ON WOMAN'S STORY

Victim's Story of Threats Told.

Joseph Marabito, 49 years old, 1043 North Monticello avenue, was charged with the murder of his nephew, Vincent Cesare, in a warant issued yesterday by Justice of the Peace Alfred E. Watts of Du Page county at Wheaton.

The warant was sworn out by Miss Pearl Zumpf, 30 years old, 2586 Lawrence avenue, who was a close friend of Cesare.

Sherif Arthur Bennett of Du Page county said Miss Zumpf told him Monday night that Cesare, before his death, told her Marabito had threatened to kill him. Cesare was a plastering contractor, was 35 years old, and lived at 1444 North Luna avenue. He was found slain Thursday on Spring road, two miles southwest of Elmhurst in Du Page county.

A note discovered among his effects suggested that, if he came to a violent end, his estranged wife, Mrs. Jennie Cesare, 32 years old, 1456 North Keating avenue, and Marabito might know something about it.

Mrs. Cesare, Marabito, and Miss Zumpf were released after questioning last Friday. Marabito was taken into custody again on Monday. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus for his release was filed yesterday morning before Chief Justice Dennis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court.

The writ was quashed after the Du Page county murder warant was presented to the county. Marabito was turned over to the Du Page county authorities.

10,000 STUDENTS BURY VICTIM OF EGYPTIAN RIOT

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A tense crowd watched a huge funeral that student Wafdists gave today to a comrade who died from a revolver wound when British police attacked them outside the city last week.

It was estimated that 10,000 shouting, hostile students followed the body to the cemetery. They, in turn, were followed by twenty truckloads of heavily armed native police and soldiers. British police remained at the barracks, a move which helped prevent new demonstrations against the empire's domination of Egypt.

Protest to League.

GENEVA, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Egyptians in Geneva today published a protest sent to the league of nations by the president of the Wafd, Egypt's powerful Nationalist party, charging that the nominally independent kingdom was a victim of British aggression.

Authorities said the protest probably would not be published or acted upon by the league, which recognizes only petitions from governments or minority groups having the right of appeal to the league under treaties.

Dominican President Gives Up Vacation Trip to U. S.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo recently made preparations for a year's rest and holiday in the United States and Europe.

EXHUME BONES OF 400 CHINESE FOR TRIP HOME

Chicago Society Grants Their Last Request.

When a Chinese dies in a foreign land his last request most always is that his bones be returned to the fatherland and placed beside the bones of his ancestors so that his soul may be at peace.

In the Mount Auburn cemetery, 41st street and Oak Park avenue, Stickney, the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent association is now engaged in carrying out this last request of 400 of their countrymen. Exhumation of their bodies was begun on Nov. 8.

Each casket is opened, whenever possible, in the presence of a member of the family should one be in this country. From a small bottle, placed inside at the time of death, members of the association remove a scroll bearing the name of the Chinese and his life history.

Put in Metal Containers.

This paper is placed with the metal container into which is packed the bones of the oriental whose last wish is about to be granted.

Four of these metal urns, each 12 by 22 inches, are packed in a white pine box. Each is carefully documented and accompanied by the necessary death and health certificates to insure legal transfer from the country.

When the last of the boxes is filled all will be sent to Seattle, Wash., and thence by boat to the Tong Wah hospital in Hongkong, China. Authorities there then will notify the family of the deceased. The bones will be taken to their last resting place soon afterward.

Owns Section of Cemetery.

The association purchased a section of the cemetery in 1918. Since then the bodies of 1,500 Chinese have been buried there. Each had contributed annually to the fund which now carries out his last request.

The Chinese is thrifty by nature and can subsist on little food, said George Schrade, superintendent of the cemetery, but he would starve rather than forgo paying his small contribution to this fund.

In 1926 the bodies of 412 Chinese were removed from the Rosehill cemetery and returned to China.

SURVIVOR FREED IN DUEL BY OLD FARM NEIGHBORS

Decide Victim Died by Own Hand.

Mount Carroll, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Carroll county grand jury today wrote a finish to a bloody farm feud by voting a no bill in the case of John Linton, 70 years old, who on last July 10 met his neighbor, Frank Williams, 68 years old, in a pistol duel. Linton was shot four times and Williams, wounded once under the heart, killed himself by firing a shot into his brain, apparently in the belief that Linton was dead.

Friends for Years.

The two men occupied adjoining farms near Shannon, Ill., and for years had been friends. Bad blood developed, it was discovered, after Linton's hogs wandered onto Williams' land. Finally Williams had Linton arrested, but the matter was patched up.

The day of the shooting, deputy sherifs learned, Linton was leading a horse to his barn when Williams appeared from his house only a few rods away and opened fire with a revolver. Dropping the lead rope, Linton got his own weapon from his home and walked toward his lotline, firing as he approached.

Fire Across Fence.

Officers said each man stood on his own side of a low fence which separated their property and pumped lead at each other. Linton finally staggered away, led his horse into the barn, but did not appear as the horse ran out. Williams then killed himself.

While Linton recovered in a Rockford hospital a coroner's jury decided that Williams had taken his own life, although suffering from a fatal wound inflicted by Linton.

JACK BLACKBURN IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

A charge of assault against Jack Blackburn, colored, 4238 South Michigan avenue, trainer of Joe Louis, colored boxer, was changed to one of manslaughter by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday, and Blackburn's $5,000 bond was doubled. Blackburn on Oct. 20 engaged in a street gun duel with John Bowman, colored, 365 East 57th street. Bowman is under a murder charge. Blackburn will be arraigned on the manslaughter charge Dec. 5. A $100,000 damage suit against Blackburn and Bowman was filed on Monday in behalf of the Cannon girl.

THEY DIDN'T WAIT FOR THE AUTO SHOW!

YOU CAN AFFORD THE NEW BUICK
$765
to $1945 are the list prices at Flint, Mich., subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups on all models at extra cost. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout as standard equipment. Buy under the new lower cost GMAC 6% plan

Instead—they bought more than twice as many Buicks in October this year as in October 1934—swamped the country's largest single self-contained automobile factory a month before the show

YOU read in the advertisements about new cars that "are sure to sell on sight!" Come to the Auto Show this week—and see four that have!

It's all down in black and white. More than twice as many Buicks went out on the roads in October as in the same month last year.

All the bright promises of new and better things to come couldn't keep people from buying Buicks a month before the Auto Show! They stripped dealers' showrooms—walked away with demonstrators.

They had our distributors frantic, trying to serve everyone first.

They passed the good news around so freely, so enthusiastically, our salesmen were almost overwhelmed taking care of all the showroom visitors.

And to our words . . . "Buick's the buy!" . . . they added one of their own—"Now!"

We're sorry we can't deliver the cars we have on the Auto Show floor. If we could, we could satisfy a dozen or so people who hate to wait even a week to slip behind their own Buick wheel.

But after all—we have to keep a few cars on hand just so people can see what kind of cars these are that are causing so much commotion!

Look them up—the Buick Special, the Buick Century, the Buick Roadmaster, the Buick Limited. You'll find them behind that crowd that surrounds the Buick display space.

HUNDREDS MOURN AT DANISH RITES FOR DR. HENIUS

Funeral Services Held in Castle Birthplace.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

AALBORG, Jutland, Denmark, Nov. 19.—With solemn ceremony the city of Aalborg today bade farewell to its only citizen of honor, the late Dr. Max Henius, noted Chicagoan, and prominent in Danish-American activities, who died last week. The ceremony was held in Dr. Henius' birthplace, the old castle of Sohngaardholm.

An American flag was behind the coffin, which was draped with an old Danish flag. There were no wreaths. Dr. Henius had expressed a wish for only a bouquet of heather from the Danish-American National park. However, flowers were received from the king and queen and prime minister of Denmark and associations which worked with Dr. Henius in his many activities.

Hundreds Mourn in Castle.

In halls of the castle hundreds of Danes gathered, many of whom traveled overnight to pay their last homage. There were speeches by the mayor of Aalborg, the chairman of the Rebild park committee, the chairman of the Danish-American archives, and by a member of the Danish legation at Washington, Roger Nielsen.

Finally, Dr. Henius' daughter, Gerda, of the Milan Opera, expressed her thanks to Aalborg and took from the coffin the cross of Dannebrog, high Danish order presented to Dr. Henius by the king.

Will Be Buried in Rosehill.

The coffin was then taken to the border of the estate, where the flags and all the state colors of America, together with two national banners, symbolized Dr. Henius' work.

As the procession passed through the streets, trafic came to a standstill. After cremation in Aalborg, Dr. Henius' ashes will be buried in Rosehill cemetery, Chicago.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sara Ann McCabe left for New York yesterday to complete arrangements for making a musical picture for Warner Brothers. Sara Ann plans to return to sing Monday with the Northerners over W-G-N before beginning work on the film. She has been singing recently at the Edgewater Beach over CBS with Herbert Foote at the organ. Miss McCabe, you may remember, was the soloist at the Democratic convention the day Franklin Roosevelt accepted the nomination. The late Senator Tom Walsh invited her to sing.

Ethel Shutta is New York bound also. She will leave George Olsen, her husband, and his orchestra next Monday to join Ben Bernie's troupe for a guest appearance on Tuesday. Bernie is to open at the Paradise restaurant in New York on Dec. 6. Oddly enough, Nils T. Granlund [N. T. G. on the air], who is master of ceremonies there, will be on the competing network Tuesday evenings with his chorus girl revue at the same hour Bernie does his stuff.

The shakeup in the cast of Betty and Bob continues. Elizabeth Reller has replaced Beatrice Churchill as Betty. A couple of months ago Les Tremayne supplanted Don Ameche in the leading male rôle. . . . Grace Moore is regaining her strength rapidly following the signing of a contract to appear at the Metropolitan Opera this season. It will be her first appearance in four years. She'll return to the air next Monday. . . . Richard Crooks, who sings over NBC Monday evenings, will sing at a benefit performance for La Rabida sanatorium at the Auditorium Friday evening.

Convicts themselves are footing the bill for "The Big House revue" which had its premiere from the state prison at Joliet Monday over WCLS, Medford Maxwell, manager of the station, announced yesterday after State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg had stated that he was determined to find out from what appropriation funds were taken for these broadcasts.

"The only cost, except for the time which the station is donating," Mr. Maxwell stated, "is $10.50 per month for telephone line charges. This is taken from the prisoners' entertainment fund, which is raised by the convicts from the sale of candy, cigarets and so on among themselves."

Al Pearce and his gang, including Tizzie Lish, Lord Bilgewater, Mabel Todd, Arlene Francis and others, are to move to Chicago studios from New York, Dec. 15. Their three a week series is presented before audiences now so it is likely the practice will be continued here.

On the Pearce broadcast at 4 p. m. today over WMAQ-NBC a special arrangement of Allan Grant's "Gramercy Square" is to be presented by Irving Miller's orchestra. Pianist Grant wrote it originally for "The Story of Mary Marlin" which is aired from Chicago CBS studios.

Bandleader Art Kassel is laid up at Michael Reese hospital with arthritis. . . . Russell Pratt, the funny man, is joining the NBC Breakfast club series. . . . Fred Waring and other band leaders are giving a luncheon today in compliment to Abe Lyman, the former cab driver, who has presided over the "Waltz-time" and "Melodiana" series for four years this week.

CHINA CALLS UP CONSCRIPT ARMY TO FACE JAPAN

Able to Mobilize Largest Force in World.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Nov. 20 (Wednesday).—(AP)—The Japanese government denies responsibility for separatist tendencies in north China and insists the projected autonomy for five provinces will not mean their detachment from sovereignty of the Chinese government, a foreign office spokesman said today.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20.—[Wednesday.]—"The rise or decline of China's sovereign power will necessarily have an important bearing on world peace and the welfare of humanity, a fact which must be fully realized by all wise statesmen," Dictator Chiang Kai-shek declared in a speech to the Kuomintang [People's party] congress at Nanking yesterday.

Afterward leaders of the national government ordered nationwide military conscription to prepare for Japan's promotion of a five province autonomous government in north China. The conscription law, which has not been enforced since it was adopted in 1933, can draw from China's hundreds of millions, an army far beyond the numbers of any in the world.

Japan, particularly, should be deeply concerned with the peace of the orient and the common good of both countries, Dictator Chiang continued in giving a lengthy review of the north China crisis.

"What we seek is simple self-preservation and co-existence with other members of the family of nations."

Ultimatum to North China.

Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, head of the "special service department" of army controling Manchukuo, gave Chinese authorities at Peiping until noon today to make a favorable reply to the Japanese army's proposal for creation of the "North China Autonomous Government." The government would include the provinces of Shantung, Hopei, Shansi, Chahar, and Suiyuan.

Gen. Doihara in a press interview stated:

"Chinese authorities were given until noon today to return a favorable reply to my suggestions for the formation of an autonomous administration in north China. In view of the fact that Japanese troops are mobilized in readiness to invade north China through all passes of the great wall, we are confident China's reply will be favorable on the autonomy issue."

Later Doihara further informed the press:

"The Japanese military told Chinese military authorities that armed intervention in north China may be expected as a certainty if the Chinese do not immediately proceed with the formation of an autonomous government."

However, north China leaders today were showing reluctance to knuckle to Doihara. Shang Chen, Hopei province governor, had not reached the city today as expected, reputedly because of a disagreement on details of the autonomy plan.

Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, commander of the Peiping-Tientsin garrison, hurried to Tientsin to discuss the program with leaders there and to meet Han Fu-chu, war lord of Shantung province. But Han, expected at Tientsin for several days, had not reached there, reputedly "because of mist" which held up the plane sent for him.

Han Fu-chu occupies a key position in Chinese politics due to his location astride the most important railway connecting north and central China.

Anfu Clique Reappears.

Reports giving detailed information of the personnel concerned in the formation of the North China government became known here today. The Japanese are putting strong pressure on members of the defunct "Anfu" political clique to assume direction of the new state. The Anfu clique of militarists and politicians had control of the old Peking government during the course of the world war. They negotiated more than $300,000,000 of loans from Japan, in exchange for which they gave the Japanese numerous economic concessions in various parts of the country, most of which were not workable, due to the opposition by the Chinese people. Nanking recently has been repaying and refunding the Anfu loans.

Britain in Touch with U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The supposedly imminent seizure by Japan of control over north China, a matter of growing administration concern, today precipitated a joint Anglo-American canvas of the crisis. For half an hour Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to Washington, discussed the Sino-Japanese developments with the undersecretary of state, William Phillips.

CROWDS RUSH MOSCOW STORES FOR LAST LEGAL USE OF FOREIGN MONEY

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Torgsin, or foreign currency shops, were packed throughout the day today by excited crowds seeking to make purchases before valuta [foreign exchange value] ceases to be a medium of exchange. The rushes came on the heels of a government order to liquidate the torgsin stores and make the ruble the only currency for practical use in the soviet union. Foreigners estimate their living expenses will be five times higher.

Stocks were rapidly emptied, most customers being Russians. Women's fur coats and shoes were in special demands. Crowds formed before cashiers' boxes to hand over foreign money received from relatives abroad or earned by working for foreigners.

After Feb. 1 all valuta intended for purchases will have to be converted into rubles at the rate of five rubles to the dollar, thus the advantage of specially fixed prices in valuta will be lost. Torgsins will remain open until that date, but the public is buying now on the theory that choice stocks will soon give out. Similar scenes were enacted in the state bank, where people have been flocking to withdraw foreign currency accounts. Prospects for the permanent "valuta class," which includes foreigners, appeared particularly dismal in the absence of any indication that special provisions will be made for them.

BISHOP OF BERLIN TAKES STAND IN NAZI MONEY CASE

Seeks to Free Colleague of 'Smuggling' Charge.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—With a gold cross glittering with diamonds on his chest and an episcopal ring on his violet gloved hand, Count Conrad von Preysing-Lichtenegg-Moos, Roman Catholic bishop of Berlin, appeared in a Berlin court today. He gave testimony as an expert in the trial of Bishop Peter Legge of Meissen and his two collaborators. The three are charged with violating the foreign exchange regulations by sending $56,000 out of Germany into Holland.

The devout knelt as Bishop Preysing entered the thronged court, while others arose and greeted him with the Hitler salute. Immediately called to the witness box, he testified that administrative affairs are not the primary duties of a bishop. Bishop Legge had previously testified that he had known nothing of the financial transactions in question, which had to do with repayment of a diocesan loan.

Office Primarily Spiritual.

"The office of bishop is especially a spiritual office," Bishop Preysing said. "The bishop has functions more or less distant from his spiritual duties and financial affairs are most distant of all from them."

Recalling early church history, Bishop Preysing pointed out that the apostles devoted themselves to teaching. Similarly from earliest days bishops have concentrated on spiritual work, leaving administrative work to others, he said.

Explains Calling of Experts.

It is impossible for any bishop to handle all questions arising in his diocese, Bishop Preysing asserted. As an example he mentioned how, as a matter of course, bishops called to their assistance experts for such things as church music and church art.

The prosecuting counsel refrained from questioning the bishop, who left the court followed by many Catholics.

At the request of the defense, two Dutch bankers and a Dutch auditor were heard respecting the Universum Bank of Amsterdam which carried out the transfers of the Catholic money from Germany. The auditor declared that an examination of the books of the bank satisfied him that the transactions in this case occurred before the date on which the German law against economic treason was enforced.

WARSAW UNIVERSITY CLOSED ON RENEWAL OF ANTI-JEWISH FIGHTS

WARSAW, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Warsaw university and its agricultural school were closed for an indefinite period today after a renewal of anti-Jewish excesses by student adherents of both sexes of the anti-Semitic Endek party.

An authoritative survey reported order had been restored after anti-Jewish disorders at Lwow, with about 25 Jews injured. All are expected to recover.

15 Hurt at Budapest.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Authorities ordered the closing for an indefinite period of Budapest university today because of anti-Jewish rioting in which 15 Jews were injured. Minor rioting started yesterday in the Polytechnic institute and spread to other divisions of the university today.

Religious Row in University.

WURZBURG, Germany, Nov. 19.—(AP)—President Johann Albert Reinmoeller of Wurzburg university closed the theology department of the institution today.

Although secrecy was maintained as to reasons for the unusual action, students generally agreed a conflict had broken out between Reinmoeller and a Catholic bishop, Mathias Ehrenfried, over the appointment of a student leader for the theological department.

The appointee was a Protestant Nazi who, it was reported, was not acceptable to Catholic divinity students and to the bishop.

GERMAN LEADER REFUSES TO HEAD MEMEL CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL, Lithuania, Nov. 19.—Following the refusal of the leader of the German party, August Baldschlus, to form a cabinet today the German party suggested to the Lithuanian governor of Memel, Vladas Kurkauskas, that he delegate a nonmember of the landtag to form a cabinet.

The Germans are requesting Gov. Kurkauskas to name either Dr. Schreiber or former Oberburgemeister Brunninger, whose names were removed from the list of candidates in the recent election and who were deprived of Memel citizenship by Lithuania.

With twenty-four Germans out of twenty-nine deputies, the landtag is unwilling to form a cabinet until citizenship rights have been restored to Schreiber and Brunninger.

POLICE GUARD HOTEL DURING LUTHER SPEECH

Nazi Ambassador Pleads for Free Trade.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Police guarded the banquet hall of a downtown hotel today as Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, advocated expansion of free trade between nations.

He declared also that private enterprise and initiative in Germany are not dead.

"Private business life can and should be influenced to a certain extent by public authorities," Dr. Luther told 400 business men who listened to him at a luncheon, held over protests from Jewish organizations and fourth degree Knights of Columbus here.

Asks Free Trade.

"Germany has controled the trusts, but it is wrong to believe we have departed from private enterprise and initiative," he said. "There has been a change, but the change is the difference of degree rather than of principle."

Viewing free intercourse of commerce between nations as "one of the most important developments to be made if we are to have world-wide prosperity," Dr. Luther said Germany's tendency has been to lower tariff walls to encourage free exchange of goods.

"We are looking toward the historical moment the whole system of free exchange of goods will return. Every nation, we are convinced, then will be richer."

Pickets Parade at Hotel.

The ambassador explained Germany would "like to purchase United State agricultural products and cotton, but we can't pay for it. We have been compelled to develop our own field."

After reviewing the financial crises of Germany since 1925 Dr. Luther, escorted by the policemen, left for the University of Minnesota. Before the luncheon meeting began about a score of men and women picketed the hotel.

REVIVED BY INHALATOR SQUAD.

Found unconscious in his apartment with the gas jets of the kitchen stove turned on, G. D. Benson, 56 years old, 6580 Normal boulevard, a metal plater, was revived by a fire department inhalator squad yesterday.

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

I Measure-out a cleansing dose of liquid laxative, regulating the amount to suit the age, condition and individual need.

II Tomorrow, take less; let the regular muscular action of bowels do part of the work—

III Reduce the dose each time, until regularity is completely restored.

You can find no safer advice than this, to find the solution to your bowel worries.

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

You can use a liquid laxative at home. And if you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never go back to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need!

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit, even in children. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation. It is the very nicest tasting, nicest acting preparation you can buy. So, try Syrup Pepsin, taking regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

Face Reading Can Be Carried On Anywhere

Expert Holds It a Good Habit to Cultivate.

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

GERALDINE FARRAR.

The three chronological types, the child, the youth, and the adult, seldom are found in perfect forms; most of us are mixtures. This makes the observation of facial features a complicated but an interesting thing. It can be carried on everywhere and it is a good habit to establish. When it is clear to you that your subject has a long upper lip or a protruding chin, for instance, you have taken the first step in character reading. At this point you can make use of your knowledge for deciding natural likes and dislikes.

A new student of physiognomy had been having trouble with his wife about his choice of secretary. He recently had lost a very good and efficient one after his wife's visit to the office but neither of the women would explain it. He loved his wife, and his feelings in regard to the secretary were that she was a very comfortable person to work with.

It seemed that in the wife's opinion this was wrong, instead of a credit to the husband's judgment of qualities needed in an office assistant. At this time the man was becoming capable of observing features quickly and accurately, but for some reason had not applied it to these two particular women. When he did he found the way to convince his wife that she had interfered unwarantedly. By counting opposing points it appeared that the wife had seven favorable traits in reference to her husband while the secretary had only five. Therefore she did not need to worry about any attraction between her husband and his secretary.

Geraldine Farrar has the open direct eyes that indicate faith and truthfulness in responsive expression of feelings. Her short upper lip may demonstrate a capricious disposition, a changeable sentimental attitude; in connection with the upward slanting nose it provides a delightful combination of antagonistic impulses and simple, spontaneous friendliness. The broadness of the lower part of her nose permits intimate imaginative experiences with the rhythmic flow of innate life forces. The roundness of the nose tip leaves a lyric note amongst her naturally logical thoughts, which are indicated by her straight up forehead.

Party Dresses in All White Cheer Shopper

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Does the somber procession of browns, deep garnet red, and the equally dark creations in black and blue give you the shudders as you plan a round of parties?

Try the opposite and go out of nights in white. Not the startling dead whites or the infantile whites with pink or blue sashes, but the new white parade of evening clothes that are just about the most sophisticated clothes you can wear. Long graceful streamlines, floating draperies from shoulder lines, the kind of white gowns that will make your best beau quote poetry in proper appreciation.

Literally yards of white chiffon in sunburst plaiting with just the right kind of a simple draped bodice top and the same sort of a sunburst plaited skirt with a shimmering beaded top are combines that take your breath away with their charm and loveliness and make the most graceful dance dress yet designed.

Long slinky white crêpes with subtle drapery and long streamlines are exquisitely classical creations that make short girls tall and tall girls even taller and more picturesque. Gold and silver sequins are spectacular band trim, with some of the frosty silver white beads trimming other all white gowns.

One lovely net dance dress in white is sprinkled sparingly with clusters of dull silver sequins. This dress is tied with a silver belt and shouldered with shimmering silver straps. Another has a shoulder cape of yard long fringe.

If you are sick of pastels, of colors, of metallics, these new all white creations will be the answer to your wails for something new, distinctive, and highly decorative.

Fashion photograph. . . . dress parade blouse of sky blue metallic moire brocade, made with short sleeves, a fitted silhouette, and a tailored streamline. Twinkling rhinestone buttons trim the front and belt. It is available in a Chicago shop.

Leisureliness Is Quality of Being Charming

Extravagance with Energy Is Lack of Poise.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's a certain leisurely quality to persons of great charm, both men and women. It isn't laziness. It isn't drawliness. It's just leisureliness. The impression of time to spare to do what they're doing or say what they're saying at the moment.

The thought recurred the other evening on meeting a woman of national importance and a woman who accomplishes a terrific amount of work. The sense of ease is the most outstanding thing about the woman. Flutterbudgets surrounding the famous one made her great gift doubly effective and, indeed, served to explain how the busy one got so much done in the course of a day. She has her whole system "roped," to borrow a suggestion from the rodeo show. They're bound and tied securely within her efficient looking person. No superlative gestures. No extravagant gushes. A supreme and beautiful quiet, instead, and by that is not meant that the woman wasn't warm and gracious, full of laughter and cheering words. Nevertheless, she was completely controled every minute. I suppose it's just another word for poise. Sureness. Confidence. Conserving energy instead of wasting it in hysterical giggles, exclamations, and all the other gawkish mannerisms of the blustery one.

Not knowing the poised one well, we don't know her program of care. But we know that one of that sure, impressive caliber reckons into her program some rest periods. And these, we think, the great body of our women need more than any other need that can be expressed at the moment. We have become the greatest emotion wasters on earth. We've so trained ourselves, most of us, that is, that we can work up a case of flutters over the most trifling thing. Anything to keep us keyed up is grist to our mill.

Hageman Gets Opera Medal at Luncheon

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The fountain room at the Casino echoed with applause yesterday noon as Richard Hageman urged opera in English at the luncheon of the American Opera society. He was responding to the award to him of the David Bispham memorial medal for his opera, "Caponsacchi. Mr. Hageman is the 48th artist in 15 years to have received the medal. He is connected with the Chicago City opera at the moment. His attractive wife was among the guests.

During the morning a musical program was presented with William Miller singing in the place of Emery Darcy who was ill. Mr. Miller, whose accompanist was William Sumner, had but 24 hours in which to prepare his program which was exceptionally well received. Among those complimenting his singing were Mrs. James Winston, acting president of the society in the absence of Miss Emily Larned, and the guests at her table. They included besides the Hagemans Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Charles Deering, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Ralph James, Mrs. William Burry, Mrs. Thomas W. Grover, and Mrs. Grover Tagmose.

Among those present was Mrs. Archibald Freer, founder and first president of the society, who told of a new film company which is going to produce opera in English.

Mr. Miller will sing with the Symphony at Orchestra hall tomorrow night and Friday afternoon, and Monday night and Tuesday afternoon of next week in four concert presentations of "Tristan and Isolde."

IF YOU ARE WEAK PALE RUNDOWN AND SKINNY, MAKE THIS SIMPLE TEST!

It's GLANDS STARVING for IODINE That Keep You Tired, Nervous and Worn-out

Natural Iodine in Kelpamalt, New Mineral Concentrate, Must Correct Trouble With Tired, Careworn, Haggard-Looking Folks the First Week and Add 5 lbs., Or the Trial Is Free!

As the result of tests covering thousands of weakened, run-down, nervous, skinny folks, science now claims that it is GLANDS STARVING FOR IODINE that keep you pale, tired-out, underweight and ailing. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into "stay-there" flesh, new strength and energy.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls body weight—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time—NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested foods into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get this vital mineral in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance. It contains 1300 times more iodine than oysters, once considered the best source. 6 tablets alone contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach or 1387 lbs. of lettuce.

Make this test with Kelpamalt. First weigh yourself and see how long you can work or how far you can walk without tiring. Then take 3 Kelpamalt Tablets with each meal for 2 weeks and again weigh yourself and notice how much longer you can work without tiring, how much farther you can walk. Notice how much better you feel, sleep and eat. Watch flattering extra lbs. appear in place of scrawny hollows. And if you don't gain 5 lbs. the very first week the trial is free, Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Try it today.

Party to Open Woman's A. C. Squash Courts

Dinner-Dance and Matches on Program.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Woman's Athletic club, usually dark after about 5 o'clock, will come to life Tuesday evening, Dec. 10, with a dinner-dance followed by exhibition squash matches that will mark the opening of the club's new squash courts. Tables will be cleared away from the center of the dining room to make room for the dancers, and many members are making plans to take their friends to the club on this gay evening.

Mrs. Stanley Zaring is chairman of the athletics committee of the club, and she will be one of the most interested spectators on the 10th. She has arranged two professional matches, and four amateur ones, two played by men and two by women.

Miss Jean Armstrong, a member of the junior committee of the club, will be another one present. She left for New York yesterday to attend the Princeton-Dartmouth game Saturday and the Yale-Princeton game the following week-end. Her sister, Miss Mary Armstrong, at the moment is pursuing the most unusual course of any debutante of the current season. She is in Arkansas, shooting ducks and geese with some St. Louis friends, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, and will be away for two weeks. The Misses Armstrong are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong of Winnetka.

Cancel Dinner-Dance for Nancy Forgan.

Miss Nancy Forgan, debutante daughter of the James B. Forgans, is not coming home for the brief Thanksgiving holidays from Bennington college, as planned, because her debut dinner-dance has been canceled owing to the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Forgan Sr., The party was to have been given the night after Thanksgiving.

Miss Forgan will be here for the long Christmas vacation that Bennington students have, however, arriving on Dec. 20 and not leaving to return to Vermont until Feb. 20. Her relatives, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer [Mary Meeker] are planning to entertain for her in January.

Another party planned for the debutantes and their beaux is one which Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGibeney will give for her niece, Miss Eleanore Thompson, and two other debutantes, Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly, and Miss Adele Proxmire.

Mr. and Mrs. McGibeney will entertain at a luncheon on Sunday, Dec. 29, in their Lake Forest home. The 50 young people invited will not have a dull moment between 1 and 4 o'clock, for the McGibeneys are having professional entertainment. Miss Kelly is the daughter of the George A. Kellys and Miss Proxmire is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire.

Alexander-Babcock Nuptials on Dec. 14.

Miss Betty Alexander and Orville Elias Babcock Jr. have chosen Dec. 14 as the date of their marriage. The wedding will be a large one at 4:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, with a reception following at Winwood, home of Miss Alexander's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alexander.

Mrs. Sidney D. Johnson [Josephine Templeton] is coming on from New York a few days before the wedding to be matron of honor for Miss Alexander, who was a bridesmaid at her wedding last September.

Mrs. Newton C. King, Miss Myrtle and Miss Lillian Lampert, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Suzanne Morris, and Miss Margaret Taylor of Pittsburgh, Pa., who also was in the former "Dodie" Templeton's wedding party, will be bridesmaids.

Bruce Babcock will be his brother's best man, and ushering will be Fred-

Here's a Suggestion for Santa Claus

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

There wasn't a more satisfied person in the whole city yesterday than 2 year old Nanette Cochran when she found the doll she wants Santa Claus to bring her at the annual Christmas sale of the Woman's Exchange in the ballroom of the Blackstone. She wasn't the only one there who found just what she wanted either, for there were several hundred shoppers who did some of their Christmas shopping at the sale. It was such a success that the women of the board of directors, who assisted, said at the close that they felt sure that the depression was over. Nanette isn't the daughter of the acting president of the board, although both their names are Cochran, for her mother and father are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Cochran and the president is Mrs. John L. Cochran.

Mrs. Cushman Traces Rapid Y. W. Growth

BY BETTY BROWNING.

The growth of the Y. W. C. A. from a home for nurses in London to an agency of international good will active in fifty-two countries was pictured by Mrs. James Stewart Cushman of New York at a tea given by Mrs. Silas H. Strawn yesterday in her Lake Shore drive apartment for members of the national board of the association who are meeting here.

A vivid figure in a crimson velvet dress and matching turban against the Chinese green and gold of Mrs. Strawn's drawing room, Mrs. Cushman told several score members of the Chicago board and their guests how Florence Nightingale came to found the Y. W. C. A. eighty years ago. The former Vera Scott of Chicago, Mrs. Cushman is vice president of the World Service council.

"People always associate Florence Nightingale with the Red Cross, but few know that she also is responsible for the Y. W. C. A.," Mrs. Cushman said. "She opened the home for some of her nurses after the Crimean war."

Miss Charlotte Niven spoke from the standpoint of the executive head of the World's Y. W. C. A. at Geneva, Switzerland, a post she held for twelve years. She and Mrs. Cushman were in the receiving line with Mrs. Strawn, and Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, Mrs. Charles W. Gilkey, Mrs. William A. Vawter III. and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. assisted Mrs. Strawn as hostesses.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Another new lipstick for the ladies who have winter difficulties! This one has a lovely texture, being creamy and smooth. And its maker tells us that there's menthol product in it, which should serve to keep the lip chapping in a properly subdued state.

This rouge is quite "indelible," though of course you know by this time that that word attached to lipstick is just a figure of speech. This sticks quite a long time and the colors hold up beautifully. There are five shades, of which our favorite is the ruby, a bright, warm and true ruby red that was perfectly slick when we tried it out on the dark eyed, dark haired young woman who is absolutely at our mercy as a tryer-outer. It's not too wickedly red, thank heaven, and while it's dramatic on the dark brunette, it's in good taste.

Among the five shades there is one dark one that's most unusual, with a hint of brown that could be very nice on the right girl in the right costume colors. In all five sticks we think the darker shades are far more successful than the two lighter ones.

So many girls and women are asking about lipsticks that stay creamy and keep the lip surface smooth we're beginning to think there is an epidemic of some sort.

Could you gals be gnawing at your lips in absent minded moments? Or running your tongues over them? Don't do either, for Heaven's sake. The creamiest, most healing lipstick couldn't fight the results of that.

But if you're on the hunt for a lip rouge of good texture consider this. The sticks aren't expensive and if among the shades there is one that suits you take a try at one. There isn't any stiffness about this liprouge. It's so creamy it slides on easily—and even the fact that you don't have to pull even slightly to put it on helps keep the lip surface smooth.

There's Finish to Repetition of 'Rigoletto'

Conductor—Dino Bigalli.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago City Opera company gave "Rigoletto" a thorough dress rehearsal in public Saturday and performed it with smoothness and finish last night.

Although this opera classifies as a repetition, an important change in cast gives me a much desired opportunity to write another little review. The change of cast was in the title rôle itself, for Carlo Morelli sang the jester last evening instead of John Charles Thomas.

His handling of the part was a great deal less realistic than Thomas', but more in the tradition of old Italian opera. Gilda's father was neither as terrifyingly deformed nor as movingly tragic as John Charles Thomas made him. Morelli's rich voice and general competence make him completely acceptable to a city that has seen a great many Rigolettos in its time.

Mila Kocova, who made her debut in American opera only four days ago, repeated her Gilda with much more authority and confidence than on Saturday. Her voice has a considerable range, with a greater difference in texture between high and low than is usual in a soprano. This comely visitor from Prague displayed a velvety middle register and a light, ethereal upper octave. The "Caro Nome" drew a nice ovation from the house.

The duke of Mantua [if such a person ever lived] was no more handsome and persuasive than the tenor who impersonated him. Joseph Bentonelli will go very far in opera. He has voice and appearance and a generous measure of both.

Dino Bigalli, chorus master of the company, conducted. Under his baton the gay George Gershwin music of the first act had great flash and vigor. The setting and staging of that act demand a bow from Defrere and Beatty too.

The opera company is anxious that the public should not forget tonight's "Turandot," and inserted a leaflet in the program book repeating its cast. Rosa Raisa and Marion Claire are the principal sopranos, and Clement Laskowsky and Armand Tokatyan take the male leads.

Another announcement dealt with the new ballet "Love Song" to be given Saturday night after "Gale" and "Pagliacci." The evening will open and close with a world première.

Northwestern university's "History and Enjoyment of Music" course brought the Chicago Symphony orchestra back to its old home last night, when the Auditorium was turned into a vast classroom. The school wisely divides the parts of the evening devoted to commentary and music, so that the second section makes a pleasant full length concert for those who are not enrolled in the regular course.

Dr. Stock chose his music from the orchestra's regular répertoire. The Third "Leonore" Overture and the Fifth Symphony of Tschaikowsky comprised the first half of the program; after the intermission came two symphonic poems, Glière's "Less Sirenes" and Liszt's "Les Preludes."

CELEBRITY note. Henry Weber Jr. is three years old today, and, as has happened on every anniversary, his mother, Marion Claire, is busy rehersing an important rôle to be sung tonight. On his first anniversary she was appearing in "Bittersweet" in Chicago; last year, when he was two, she was singing in "The Great Waltz" in New York; tonight she is singing in "Turandot" with the City Opera company. The only birthday they have been together so far was his actual birthday.

CHARLIE O'GALLAGHER, the Irish gentleman we occasionally quote, made another remark recently that his friends are repeating. It seems he was a pallbearer at the funeral of an old friend last week. When the pallbearers were leaving the grave he turned to them and said in a voice of solemn dignity: "Gentlemen, we have done a bad day's work."

IF you've been to see Colleen Moore's dollhouse at the Fair Store you've seen the dining hall of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. It seems that in Hollywood a group of movie children, including Harold Lloyd Jr., Shirley Temple, Anne Harding's little daughter, Anne Bannister, Carol Ann Beery, and some others, went to see the dollhouse, and when they saw the dining room little Miss Beery shouted excitedly, "O, see King Arthur's last round-up table."

IN the morning mail:

"The recent item about the old Marshall Field mansion in Prairie avenue prompts me to ask whether any of your readers can tell me the story connected with another old house a few blocks away on the northeast corner of Prairie avenue and 22d street? This tremendous dwelling has excited my curiosity ever since I first gazed at it through the high palings of its iron fence. Obviously untenanted except for servants' quarters in the basement, its windows are kept washed and the lawn trimmed. The old stable in the back is now a garage with the coachman's quarters also occupied, and through occasionally opened doors the passers-by can see two large and expensive cars of comparatively recent models bearing Lake Forest vehicle tags.

"What Lake Forest family, whose Victorian forbears lived here, still owns this house, and why are the shiny family limousines kept so far from home?

Lord Decies' Daughter Heiress to Gould Fortune, Engaged

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The engagement of the Hon. Moya Beresford, 22, daughter of Lord Decies and granddaughter of George Jay Gould, to the Hon. Patrick Bellew, 30, brother of Lord Bellew, was announced today.

The Hon. Catherine Moya Beresford inherited a trust fund of $364,043 from her mother, Lady Decies, the former Helen Vivien Gould, who died in 1931.

In January, 1934, the Beresford minor children, Moya and her brother, Arthur, now 20, were granted an annual allowance of $17,700 each, an increase of $2,250 because of the depreciation of the American dollar.

Lady Decies, who married John Graham Hope de la Poer Beresford in 1911, was one of the heirs of the $75,000,000 Gould fortune over which battles raged for years.

Thousand at N. Y. Dinner to Celebrate Twain Centennial

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—In a Mississippi river atmosphere which would have been familiar to Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer a thousand leaders of the arts and social circles gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain.

Twain, or Samuel Clemens, was represented at the celebration by his granddaughter, Nina Gabrilowitsch, of Detroit, who is on the way to capturing for herself in drawings a portion of the fame in the world of arts tendered so generously to her humorist grandfather.

Clemens' daughter, Clara, the wife of Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the pianist and head of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, was unable to leave her husband, who is ill.

The New York centennial dinner was the center of a virtual round-the-world observance.

Hawaiian Girl in 'Bounty' Cast to Quit Films

Returns to Studies Despite Her Success.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mamo Clark, college girl from Hawaii who is three-quarters Kanaka and one-fourth Saxon, thinks it's fun to be Clark Gable's leading woman and it's great to draw a movie salary, but not quite exciting or remunerative enough to change her life plans, which do not include a movie career.

Consequently Miss Clark, who played the Tahiti belle, Mamaiti, native wife of Fletcher Christian [Gable] in "Mutiny on the Bounty," is retiring from movies after one picture, and is devoting her movie earnings to resumption of her college work in the pre-legal course at the University of Southern California.

Born in Hawaii and educated partly at Sacred Heart academy in Honolulu, she was taken from the University of Southern California campus for the screen tests that sent her to the south seas in "Mutiny on the Bounty." Her companion on that cruise was Movita Castaneda, 20 year old Mexican girl, who played the other native girl rôle, the sweetheart of Roger Byam [Franchot Tone].

Miss Clark had never been in a studio nor seen a film actor face to face before called to M. G. M. for the tests for "Bounty." She always has wanted to be an attorney and handle cases for members of her own race in Honolulu. She still wants to do this, she informed Metro studio this week. "I couldn't see much of a film future for myself," she said, "although I might be wrong. But I find it more interesting to get back to my college work."

Her father, retired from a little business in Honolulu, is making his home with the daughter while she stays in Hollywood. Her mother is dead. The girl is 5 feet 7 inches and weighs 125 pounds, which is a bit tall and heavy for movie girls.

John Boles received an early Christmas present from Twentieth Century-Fox studio. His contract, first to come up for renewal of all the big stars of the former Fox organization following the Twentieth Century-Fox merger, was due for action by the studio Dec. 24. The studio notified him today it was renewing, with higher salary as of this date.

When the Atlantic ocean lobsters which were ordered from Maine for scenes in Shirley Temple's film, "Captain January," arrived by plane they were found to have been boiled before shipping. The studio wanted live lobsters. So the property department had to assign Bill Burgen, studio painter, to paint the boiled ones green so they could be used in the scene.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse Siwash, which she had taken from Thwaite's Riding academy for an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, happens on the scene of the tragedy, where she meets her friend, Inspector Piper. In a small adjacent pool they uncover an old garden hoe with an unrusted horseshoe attached to it. Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, finds no wounds on the body, though murder is suspected. After the body is removed Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Miss Withers and Piper let the horse lead, and he gallops back to Thwaite's. There they interview Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, owners of the stable, and Latigo Wells, the manager. They learn the victim's identity and that she lived at the Hotel Harthorn. Also that Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash.

INSTALMENT IX.

THE BILLBOARD GIRL.

It was still early morning—particularly early for a Sunday morning—when they reached the Hotel Harthorn. To Miss Withers the place seemed a typical apartment hotel, identical with half a hundred others which lined Broadway and the crosstown streets of the neighborhood.

But the inspector was more closely in touch with the city. "Hotel Harthorn," he observed, as they stood outside the near-marble entrance. "Average monthly record—one racketeer arrested, two suicides of girls diving from high windows, one dope peddler picked up and turned over to the federals, two complaints a week on noise or disorderly conduct charges . . . nice place."

They found a dapper desk clerk hidden behind a Sunday newspaper scandal section. "Miss Feverel's apartment," said Piper.

The clerk shook his head and turned a page. "She's out," he informed them.

But the inspector and Miss Withers were not so easily discouraged. "Pry yourself out of that chair," Piper snapped. "And bring your pass-key."

The clerk's eyes widened as he saw a gold badge in the inspector's hand. "O—an accident?"

"There will be one if you don't get going," Piper told him.

The dapper man led them down a hall to a somewhat old fashioned automatic elevator. He pressed the button and they rode creakily upward to the sixth floor. Then they went down the hall and the clerk took out his key in front of 607. By now he was thoroughly worried. "This is a respectable place, officer—I hope there won't be any publicity."

The inspector reached out and took the pass-key. "You just trot back to your desk and everything will be just dandy," he told the clerk.

The man lingered dubiously. "If you're going in I'm supposed to go with you . . ."

Piper shook his head. "There may be shooting," he hinted.

"Shooting? O—But——" He edged away and then suddenly turned and made for the elevator.

"But Oscar," began Miss Withers. The inspector hushed her.

"Mostly a bluff," he whispered as he inserted the key. "But I didn't want him around. And—I think I hear somebody inside the place. . . ."

As he opened the door an odor of mingled perfume, stale tobacco smoke, mixed liquors, and massed humanity eddied against them. Yet light enough poured through the Venetian blinds at the windows to show that the long living room was empty.

It was a typical hotel apartment, with almost no evidences of the personality of the tenant, except for a battered piano. Everywhere, Miss Withers noticed, were the usual flotsam and jetsam of a party's aftermath—bottles in the wastebaskets, glasses broken in the gas-log fireplace and marking rings on the furniture, rugs piled against the wall, and a large hole burned in one of the cushions of the davenport.

There was no sound of any one in the place, though the face of the dead girl looked down from dozens of photograph frames. The intruders moved softly forward across the living room. Piper opened a further door and stepped into a very frilly and feminine bedroom. This was in better order, in spite of the spilled powder and a silver evening dress tossed casually across a chair. The bed had not been slept in and here, too, the walls were covered with photographs of Violet Feverel.

Now Miss Withers realized why the dead girl's face had seemed so familiar. The photographs showed her lighting a cigaret of a popular brand, inspecting an electric icebox, and smiling brightly at a tube of tooth paste. "Lord," exclaimed Piper, "it's the Billboard girl!"

Miss Withers peered gingerly into the bathroom, but that, too, was empty. Further investigation showed a tiny kitchen, with more bottles and glasses. But that was the total. Miss Withers and the inspector moved back to the living room, and Piper went over to the window and drew up the blinds.

"We might as well have some light . . ." he began. Then both he and Miss Withers were startled half out of their wits by a hoarse cry from behind them.

"Hello, Eddie!"

The inspector whirled and one hand snapped to his pocket.

"Nuts to you, Eddie!" came the voice again. Miss Withers discovered the speaker in a neat gilt cage under the piano—a tiny green-red parrakeet, far smaller than his voice.

He swung head downward from a trapeze, his beak clicking rhythmically.

"Get out the handcuffs, Oscar!" Miss Withers suggested. They joined in nervous laughter—it was no pleasant task wandering among the belongings of the young woman whose body they had just seen laid roughly in a wicker basket.

Just then a key rattled in the door, and quick as a flash the inspector dragged Miss Withers down behind the davenport. They waited, hardly daring even to breath, as a girl and a man in evening clothes came into the apartment.

". . . because we've got less than no time at all! Just throw some things into a suitcase," he was saying, in a gay and flippant tone.

"Yes, Eddie," said the girl. They kissed in the doorway. As she moved with a little nervous laugh out of his arms the girl saw Miss Withers and the inspector rising up over the top of the davenport, and her face froze.

"What . . . what do you want?" she demanded.

Miss Withers was as yet unable to speak, for the girl across the room was fearfully like, in face and figure, the victim on the bridle path. This seemed to be Violet Feverel come back to life—Violet Feverel as she had been ten years ago.

"I'm asking the questions here," Piper cut in. "I'm from the bureau of homicides."

"Yeah?" began the young man known as Eddie. But the girl at his side cut him short.

"I'm Barbara, Violet's sister," she said evenly. "Has something happened?"

The inspector nodded. "Something has. Your sister met with an accident on the bridle path this morning."

The girl nodded mechanically. "Yes . . . yes? She's dead, isn't she?" Barbara caught her breath and her teeth bit into her lip. "I . . . I can tell by your faces."

She sat down suddenly in a chair, but she refused Miss Withers' well meant ministrations. After a moment she looked up at the inspector. "You'll want to ask questions?"

"Plenty," said Piper. He motioned Eddie into a chair. "You, too," he ordered. He lit a cigar. "You're both dressed up for eight a. m.," he continued. "Where you been?"

"Harlem," said Barbara.

"You made a night of it," Piper suggested. "I never heard of any place open there after sunrise."

"Well——" said Eddie thoughtfully.

"For the last few hours we've been riding up and down Riverside drive in a taxi," Barbara said, her voice even and expressionless.

"Why?"

"Because I had to make up my mind," Barbara admitted. "About something private."

eric L. Macfarlane, Newton C. King, Alexis Thompson, Aldis J. Browne Jr., Edson Cook, and Nelson L. Barnes Jr.

Mr. Babcock and his bride plan to take a short wedding trip in the south, and expect to return just before Christmas to Lake Forest, where they will reside.

Mrs. Rodman Hooker Will Visit Mother.

Mrs. Rodman Lent Hooker is arriving today from San Mateo, Cal., to spend two weeks with her mother, Mrs. George A. Richardson, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Richardson is having a luncheon for some of Mrs. Hooker's old friends tomorrow.

Among those who will entertain for Mrs. Hooker are the Robert Hixons who are giving a dinner before the Bachelors and Benedicts' ball a week from tonight, and Mrs. Robert Macdonald, who will have a dinner before the Pooch ball Saturday. Since both Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Hooker are ardent hocky fans, Mrs. Richardson is planning a number of small, informal dinners before the games.

Mrs. Hooker will be paying a call on her new nephew, Peter Morse, the infant son of the John Morses, who is just a little younger than Mrs. Hooker's own young son, Michael, whom she left in California with his father. The Morses are living this winter at the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Eli Bates Sale to Be Tomorrow.

Every year Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen opens her stately home for a Christmas sale of articles made at the Eli Bates Settlement house, and tomorrow is the day this year's sale will be held. From 10 to 6 o'clock members of the board will be at the Bowen residence, 1430 Astor street, to assist the shop staf in selling the attractive gifts. Among the novelties this year are bags for hunting boots which many discriminating shoppers will find are the ideal things to give to their friends of "the horsey set."

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. James C. Hutchins, and Mrs. George R. Nichols will be among the saleswomen, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. De Koven Phelps and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey will be among those who will give luncheons and later take their guests to the sale.

Mrs. Fowler McCormick, chairman of the women's committee for the Olivet institute benefit Friday night, received word from Max Reinhardt yesterday that he would be unable to attend the première of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The première is expected to be a brilliant affair and committee members report a splendid demand for seats at the Apollo theater. Dozens of dinner parties have been planned to precede the performance. The board of trustees and directors of the institute are giving a coffee party for the women's committee in the French room of the Blackstone this afternoon.

Miss Gwethalyn Jones entertaining at 8:30 o'clock tonight in her Astor street apartment for Miss Margaret Adams of Boston, daughter of Mrs. Louis Perry, wife of the headmaster of Phillips-Exeter academy. Miss Adams is a clever monologuist.

"La Rondine" Subject of Opera Morning.

"La Rondiné" will be the subject of Miss Anna Fitzu's and Miss Edna Kellogg's intimate opera morning at the Blackstone today. Several stars from the opera company will be guests. The program will start at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Patrick Geraghty has secured a group of young women to take part in one of the scenes—they will not sing, just look attractive as they sit at tables while Veloz and Yolanda dance—of "La Rondiné" when it is given by the Chicago City Opera company a week from Saturday afternoon. They are Miss Deborah Butler, Mrs. Stephen H. Harrington Jr., Miss Frances Weary, Mrs. John H. Noyes, Miss Katherine Daniels, Miss Louise Conway, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, Mrs. Cecil I. Crouse, Miss Jean Milsted, Mrs. Harry McLeod, Mrs. Robert White Jr., Mrs. Louise Skidmore and Miss Helen Bell.

Those who have heard "La Rondiné" as lovely Mme. Bori sang it at Ravinia as well as at the Metropolitan in New York are looking forward to its first presentation by the Chicago company with keen anticipation.

Apropos of Ravinia, have you heard that there is a strong probability that we will have a season there next summer? Louis Eckstein, Ravinia's generous and able impresario, is making plans to reopen the park next summer for five weeks of opera.

A musical event of interest that will take place next week is a lecture on "The Instruments of the Orchestra," which Anne Faulkner Oberndorfer will give at Orchestra hall on Friday evening. The talk will be informal and will serve to introduce the 18 principals of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

The Italy America society has issued invitations to the American première of Ottorino Respighi's "La Fiamma," which will be presented a week from tonight at the Civic Opera house. Singing in the opera will be Rosa Raisa, Eleanor La Mance, Sharnova, Giuseppi Bentonelli, Morelli and Cordon. Members of the society will meet for dinner at the Electric club before the performance.

Toscanini Denies Reports That He Plans to Retire

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Arturo Toscanini announced tonight he would sail for New York Jan. 8 "with no idea of retiring from work, quitting the Philharmonic, or breaking engagements." The director of the New York Philharmonic Symphony society, after leading an opera concert attended by a capacity crowd, denied New York reports he would retire next spring.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This lovely black silk crêpe dress will appeal especially to the younger woman with a mature figure. An effective contrast is the flattering white satin vestee, the soft jabot collar, and bias bodice lines. The paneled skirt gives the preferred long lines. The plaits at the bottom of the skirt in front swing gracefully when in motion, and the dart tucks at the waistline in the back make the dress fit perfectly.

The pattern, No. 2633, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires a 4⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅛ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Boys Like Role of Providing Entertainment

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She bought a couple of tickets for a dance. When she asked the young man, whom she hadn't known long, to go with her, he said he would, only on condition that he could pay for the tickets. He added: "Count me out on any future affairs for which a girl buys the tickets!" Instead of appreciating the gentlemanly motive, the girl became angry and they didn't go to the dance at all.

True, the girl was put in the embarrassing position of being reproached for her ticket buying. But that was coming to her. She has no case whatever against the youth. He may have felt he was being coerced into a date that had no flavor for him. Or, he may have the stamina that real men have about this business of being entertainer.

An invitation affair is an entirely different matter. The young man is free to excuse himself on "another engagement" plea. The same holds true of the other invitation, too, but there's something challenging about it at which men balk, unless they prefer the girl's company under any circumstances.

With the girl of whom the man is fond, he wants her to see him in the light of provider as far as entertainment is concerned.

Broiled Pork Sausages and Peaches
Baked Sweet Potatoes

Shredded Lettuce with French Dressing
Cranberry Ice Marguerites
Coffee

BY MARY MEADE.

By now you're fairly well accustomed to the idea of combining fruit and meat, even to tucking dried apricots into a beef stew or putting mashed bananas into a meat loaf. But, if you haven't tried pork sausages with golden, broiled, peach halves, you've missed out on a sparkling number that belongs in your every day repertoire.

Pork sausage is, naturally, coming into its own about now, because of its spicy fragrance and tenderness. You can purchase it either in bulk, or in neat little pig links [they come about 12 or 16 to the pound]. Or, if you like, you can choose the newer rectangular patties, packed with paper between each one. These last named come about 12 to the pound, and have the advantage of having no casing.

With or without sage seasoning is the way these tasty little sausages are sold. If you were brought up to relish the pungency of that seasoning, you can find your pet kind of sausage on the market, but if not, you probably will prefer the milder, more delicate flavor of the sageless variety.

But, to get back to the cooking of that sausage and peach combination: Start your sausages in a cold skillet, if you decide to fry them, and cook them slowly, pouring off the fat as it accumulates. If broiling is a more appealing method, simply lay the little sausages on the broiler rack along with the peaches, something like this:

Broiled Pork Sausages and Peaches.

- 1 pound small pork sausages
- 1 No. 2½ can peach halves
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley

Prick the casing of each sausage with a fork, and place the links on the rack of a broiler. On the same rack place drained peach halves, cut side up. Dot each half with a little butter. Set the rack 4 inches below a moderately hot broiler unit, and broil for 10 to 12 minutes, turning the sausages once. The peaches are removed as soon as their edges are browned. Serve sprinkled with parsley.

Fried bananas, dipped in seasoned flour and browned in sausage fat, make another excellent side-kick for the little porkers. Or you may like baked pear halves which have been filled with a mixture of mayonnaise and chopped almonds before baking.

Complete Plans for Party to Benefit New Church

Plans for a card party in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house on Friday evening, Dec. 6, for the benefit of the Santa Maria Del Popolo Roman Catholic church in Mundelein were completed last night at a meeting of the arrangements committee. The committee is made up of women who are members of the parishes formerly served by the Rev. T. J. Burke, newly appointed pastor of the new Santa Maria church. B. F. McGuire, an official of the Commonwealth Edison company, is chairman of the committee.

According to CULBERTSON

THE A-K LEAD.

Once upon a time, when I was preaching my theories to only a small circle of friends, I feared being considered a bridge bolshevist. Then, any departure from time-honored principles was stark heresy. It was not only frowned upon but vigorously resisted.

No department of the game was being more ineptly treated than the opening lead. I, in keeping with other neophytes who were not blinded by tradition, noticed the tricks lost by the defenders on hand after hand, and had the temerity to ask myself "Why?" And I didn't have to hire a detective to find the culprit—Mr. Opening Lead practically stood up and accused himself.

It is not an easy task, nor one quickly done, to tear down superstition and shibboleth. It took me years to convince the millions of players throughout the world that leading away from a king was not necessarily suicidal, and that, against no trump, "the fourth best of the longest and strongest" was not sacrosanct.

More recently, I have given thought and study to such standard opening leads as K Q x, K Q 10, and even A K x. Today, I shall discuss only the last named.

The one virtue of the lead of the king from A K x is immediacy. Many players, whose knowledge of tempo is extremely hazy, have an idea that they gain tempo by this lead. They do not—they often lose it. They gain a "look at the dummy," but too frequently at double cost—loss of tempo and "placing" high cards for the declarer's guidance.

Take this typical hand:
South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

♣ Q 8 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3♥	Pass	4♥ [final bid]

Here it is clearly a question of tempo, or trick establishment. West should visualize a North hand much like the one actually held. In the absence of a suit bid by North, no long, established suit is to be feared. But surely, for his two no trump response, he should have had the spade queen, and in that case, only a doubleton spade in East, with North and South holding three each, would mean a third round ruff.

The diamond jack is an infinitely better lead. It combines the virtue of attack with that of conservation of position. And I am not basing this opinion on the mere fact that, on the hand shown, this lead defeats the contract by establishing a diamond trick for East before declarer can establish the spade queen and discard a diamond on it.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: As declarer I led a card from the wrong hand. The opponents made me lead the same suit from the right hand and claimed my first card had to be played on that trick. Is this correct?

Answer: Opponents may legally make you play the same suit from proper hand, but the card originally led may be replaced in your hand without further penalty.

Chariot Wheels.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The original quilt block, "Chariot Wheels," came from a medieval pattern which was used for the decoration of anything from walls to manuscripts. On a dark green block patches of light green and rose applique are arranged according to the above illustration. Thirty applique blocks, each measuring 16 inches square are sufficient for an entire coverlet. With a 4 inch border of dark green, and a half inch binding of light green, the finished quilt measures 88 by 104 inches.

For a period of 30 days, ending Dec. 2, Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower.

Teachers' Book on 'Slow' Child Aid to Parents

Gives Special Educational Program for Him.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There are many teachers who come to their work with high purposes. For them the little book called "The Retarded Child—How to Help Him" will be of great interest. It is written by Arnold Gesell, professor of child hygiene and director of the Yale psycho-clinic at Yale university.

This small book is a revision of a larger one. He says: "There is no excuse for neglecting a mentally deficient child, whether he is in a crowded classroom in a large city or in some village or country school.

"We may wish we could send him to a special class where he would have expert attention. But how often is this altogether impossible!

"Fortunately, however, one thing remains which we can do. We can devise a special program for the deficient child. Every deficient child in our public schools is entitled to such a program. It is the duty of the teacher to establish such a special program."

In the latter half of the book Dr. Gesell explains how this can be done, in a way that is a definite guide to teachers. The first part of the book will be equally helpful to teachers, but in a different way, because it describes the nature and signs of mental deficiency.

This is a most enlightening book of only one hundred small pages and would, I believe, be as significant for parents as for teachers. The publishers are the Public School Publishing company of Bloomington, Ill. The price is 60 cents.

Teachers have found especially valuable a booklet called "Mental Hygiene in the Classroom." We are distributing it at cost, which is 15 cents.

WITNESSES TELL OF BEATING GIVEN TRIBUNE WRITER

Agree Reporter Used No Club in Attack.

Five prosecution witnesses testified yesterday in Judge Eugene L. McGarry's Municipal court, where Attorney John E. Owens, who has a law office with his brother, Thomas L. Owens, at 160 North La Salle street, is on trial before a jury charged with assault and battery on Charles Purvis, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE.

Thomas Owens is charged with assaulting Charles Tyler another TRIBUNE reporter, at the same time and he will be tried as soon as the case of his brother is finished. Under the Municipal court rules the cases must be tried separately.

Purvis testified that on June 29, when he was driving his automobile north in Sheridan road near Belmont avenue, with Tyler, an automobile driven by John Owens cut him off and forced him into the south bound trafic lane. Purvis said he remonstrated with Owens and a short distance further on the Owens car curbed him. John Owens came back to his car.

Blow Breaks Glasses.

"If you didn't have glasses on I'd hit you in the eye," Purvis testified John Owens said to him. He said a moment later Owens did so strike him breaking his glasses and cutting his eye and face.

Purvis said that John Owens struck him several times more and that he then grabbed Owens and "tussled with him" in an effort to hold him until the police arrived. On cross-examination by Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington, Purvis denied that he had a horse shoe stake as a weapon, although he admitted he had a set of horse shoes and stakes for quoit pitching in the rear of the automobile.

Eugene G. Melin, 3260 Lake Shore drive, testified he saw the cars stop and saw Thomas Owens run toward the Purvis automobile. He said he saw Purvis on the ground twice and saw him finally grab Owens in "an effort to stop Owens from hitting him."

Tells of Seeing Beating.

"Most of the time the men were on the ground John Owens was on top striking at Purvis," testified Melin. "Thomas Owens was trying to keep back bystanders who sought to separate the men."

"I talked to John Owens after it was over and I told him I thought he was pretty rough," continued Mr. Melin. I volunteered my name as a witness to Mr. Purvis."

Melin on cross-examination said, "I know he [Purvis] did not have a club in his hand."

John H. Tigerman, 5830 Kenmore avenue, an electrical engineer, testified he saw John Owens strike Purvis in the eye. "I saw Purvis then stumble out of his car," he said, "trying to take off the remnants of his glasses."

No Weapon Seen.

He said when the policeman arrived there was some talk of arresting all the combatants. "I told the officer what I saw and it would be unfair to arrest Purvis and Tyler," testified Mr. Tigerman.

In response to a question on cross-examination, Mr. Tigerman said he did not see any weapon in Purvis' hand, "but if he did have something he should have used it."

O. R. Palmiter, 519 Brompton place, testified that Purvis was cut and bleeding and that he did not have any weapon.

Tyler was the last witness of the day and he testified that Thomas Owens struck him in the jaw and then pulled him out of the automobile. He said he ran and called a policeman.

PARK BOARD ASKS BIDS FOR WORK ON OUTER BRIDGE

Two steps toward completion of the outer drive bridge and the construction of an extension to link the span with East Randolph street were taken by the Chicago park district yesterday when it sought bids for sub-structure of the north and south approaches and asked permission of the city council to extend a part of the Randolph street viaduct as a trafic outlet from the loop.

Robert Black, chief civil engineer for the district, advertised for bids on the construction of caissons for the approaches and for the Wacker drive portion of the bridge. The caisson construction cost has been estimated at $1,000,000.

Mr. Black explained that because the park district is seeking federal funds for the work, two bids should be submitted, one as a federal project, and one as a city project. Because of red tape involved, it is expected that federal project bids will be higher.

The railway terminals committee of the city council approved the park district's plan to complete the south half of the Randolph street viaduct to Field boulevard as a means of linking the loop with the new bridge.

Under this arrangement, the council would permit the Illinois Central and Michigan Central railroads, which are to share the cost of the viaduct, two more years in which to build the north half.

The cost of the viaduct is estimated at $1,172,400, of which the federal Public Works administration is expected to furnish $351,720 as a grant. The total bridge construction cost will be $6,574,960. Of this amount, $1,962,480 is sought from the Works Progress administration.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cardinals came close to gaining the lead in the western division of the National Professional Football league tonight but saw their hopes fade as the Brooklyn Dodgers scored a touchdown in the last two minutes to win, 14 to 12.

The game was played under the arc light in Ebbets field before 12,000. As a result of their victory tonight the Dodgers move within a half game of the New York Giants, eastern leaders, while the loss drops the Cardinals out of first place which they shared with Green Bay.

Dodgers March 82 Yards.

The Dodgers were pushed all over the field in the first half and for most of the second. It was only the brilliant kicking of Ralph Kercheval which got them out of many embarrassing positions.

Trailing 12 to 7 late in the last quarter, the Dodgers started on their own 18 yard line, and the Cardinals were powerless to stop their desperate offensive. The telling blow was a 45 yard pass from Ike Franklin to Paul Riblett, putting the ball on the Cardinal 5 yard line.

The Cardinal line repulsed two efforts to score, but on the third play Franklin crashed through for the touchdown, putting the Dodgers in the lead, 13 to 12. After Grossman kicked goal, with not much more than a minute to play, the Cardinals strove mightily with tricky laterals to salvage the game, but to no avail.

Cardinals Take Lead.

Bill Smith sent the westerners into an early lead with a field goal in the first quarter after Peterson had put the ball in position with an end run of 15 yards.

The Cardinals increased their lead in the second quarter. Franklin, returning a kick, was spilled hard by Chicago tacklers and the Dodgers lost the ball. Dave Cook, on the first play, found an opening at his own left tackle and sped the remaining 20 yards for the touchdown. The attempt for the point was blocked.

Jack Grossman was mainly responsible for Brooklyn's first score. Carrying the ball five times in a row, he advanced the ball to the Cardinals' 22 yard line and then behind nice blocking, went through his own right tackle to score standing up. Kercheval kicked goal.

Smith Makes Long Kick.

With time for only one play before the half ended, Phil Sarboe ran 40 yards after faking a pass. It looked like a sure touchdown but he was pulled down from behind on the Dodgers' 7 yard line. The whistle ending the half sounded before a play could be run off.

Chicago extended its lead in the third quarter when Smith kicked a field goal from his own 45 yard line.

For a while it looked as if Peterson would score again. Peterson took the ball to the Dodgers' 1 yard line on three tricky reverses. The Dodgers put up a brilliant goal line stand to take the ball on downs as the third quarter ended.

Brooklyn dominated the play almost entirely in the last period, with the Cardinals electing to play a defensive game. They were getting away with it, too, until Grossman began to go to town. Then came the final heartbreaking pass from Franklin to Riblett.

Levinsky's Sunday Punch Fails; Steele Throws Him

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Ray Steele, Glendale, Cal., wrestler, pinned King Levinsky, Chicago fighter, in 35 seconds of their mixed match here tonight. Levinsky swung only one solid blow before he was clamped to the mat with a body block, but it was a right-handed haymaker to Steele's chin. All the blow did was momentarily stun the wrestler.

BRIGGS, NAVIN'S PARTNER, TAKES OVER TIGER CLUB

Exercises Option to Buy All of Stock.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Full ownership of the world's champion Detroit Tigers will be acquired by Walter O. Briggs, Detroit industrialist and sportsman who for 15 years was the silent partner of the late Frank J. Navin in control of the club.

The 58 year old manufacturer whose career carried him from benchworker in a factory to millions as head of the automobile body concern that bears his name, disclosed his plans in a statement issued today through Charles F. Navin, club secretary and nephew of Frank Navin.

Old Agreement In Effect.

Briggs' decision to place himself at the helm of one of the most valuable properties in the American league was based on an option agreement with Navin, whose frictionless conduct of the front office during his three decades as club president was the envy of other owners.

"For some years Mr. Navin and I have been partners in the Detroit baseball club," said the statement, "each of us owning one half interest on it. According to an agreement of long standing between us, it was agreed that in the event of the death of one, the remaining partner would have an option on the other's interest."

Cochrane Will Stick.

No announcement was made of the value of the Navin holdings, which were estimated at far over $1,000,000 before the pennant campaigns of the last two seasons were climaxed by the winning of the world series. Navin left the use of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Grace S. Navin, with provision for a distribution after her death.

Mickey Cochrane, manager whose purchase for $100,000 two years ago Briggs strongly advocated, apparently is certain to remain in active charge of the team. Briggs said today in Miami Beach, Fla., where he is spending the winter, that he regarded Cochrane as "the greatest manager" in baseball. But he did not discuss his plans regarding the presidency of the club.

No Trades Yet.

Cochrane and Charles Navin said they would go to Miami Beach to confer with Briggs.

"There will be no trades or purchases of ball players until after our conference," Cochrane said.

BIG DEALS IN AIR

Dayton, O., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Rumors, given impetus by speculation over recent developments of Cleveland and Detroit, reverberated through hotel corridors tonight as baseball leaders moved into Dayton for the annual minor league meeting.

Most of the rumors were met with half hearted denials, shoulder shrugs, and strong language, but on the old theory there must be fire where there's smoke. Here are some of them:

Walter O. Briggs, who said he would take control of the world's championship Detroit Tigers today, will name Billy Evans, former Cleveland general manager, as president to succeed the late Frank J. Navin.

Evans Rumor Hot.

The Evans connection gained credence by the fact Briggs has said he personally has neither the time nor the health to devote to the task left open by Navin's death.

Evans also was reported in line for the presidency of the American association, although Thomas J. Hickey, present head, claimed to hold four out of a possible eight club owner votes.

The St. Louis Cardinals may get Carl Hubbell from the New York Giants in return for Second Baseman Burgess Whitehead. This report

SHELDON BEISE, Minnesota's candidate for All-American full back honors, has surrendered the eating championship of the squad to Bob Weld, sophomore guard. . . . On the return trip from the Iowa game Weld ordered the full menu—turkey, lamb chops, fish, and ham—and downed it all. . . . Chicago football fans and players will get a break when the city adopts eastern time, especially in late November games. . . . The professional games will benefit particularly. . . . Next year they will begin at what now is 1:15 o'clock. . . . The last quarter of Sunday's contest between the Bears and Giants was played in more than semidarkness. . . . But what about the radio announcers and newspaper reporters who like to tell about the gathering dusk and the lengthening shadows? . . . Moray Eby, football coach at Coe college, is wearing the same monogram sweater he won at Iowa thirty-five years ago. . . . Ozzie Simmons, the Hawkeyes' colored half back, eats a quart of ice cream after every game. . . . Jim Kelly of De Paul is angling for a football game on Illinois' schedule next fall. . . . Illinois wanted to meet Ohio university, the team that won a surprise victory at Champaign this fall, but schedule complications prevented.

Postmaster General James A. Farley has not missed a home game of the New York Giants this fall. . . . Rumors have it around Milwaukee that Johnny Revolta, national professional golf champion, will leave the Tripoli Country club, where he has been stationed for the last two years. His contract, which he has already signed, contains a clause whereby he can accept a better offer and he is seriously contemplating the same.

C. C. Slapnicka, who was appointed assistant to the president of the Cleveland Indians after the resignation of Billy Evans Monday, has been connected with baseball continuously since he pitched for the Washington High school team in Cedar Rapids, Ia., thirty years ago. Among the clubs he has been associated with are Cedar Rapids, Burlington, Marshalltown, Olewein, Rockford, Milwaukee, Vicksburg, and Pittsburgh. . . . Lafayette alumni are boosting Charlie Berry, former White Sox catcher, for head football coach. . . . There are reports, probably without foundation, that Jimmy Crowley of Fordham will move to Lafayette next fall and that Harry Stuhldreher, now at Villanova, will handle the Penn State eleven. . . . Harry C. Watts, a member of the Illinois A. "We found his 6 feet 5 inches helpful in the shallow end of our pool, where he could pick up a man under each arm while we scored," Watts writes.

There will be no Red Sox-Braves exhibition games in the south next spring. . . . Eddie Collins believes they take the edge off the annual preseason series in Boston. . . . Goose Goslin of the Tigers is reported to own the finest home among major league ball players. . . . Davenport, Ia., is the leading candidate for the 1936 western open golf tournament. . . . Northwestern next fall will meet the same opponents as in 1935 except that Michigan will replace Purdue. . . . One open date remains to be filled.

Minnesota, Ohio State Fans Get Ready to Cheer Champions

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Football predictions, like most guesses on future events, have a habit of embarrassing the prognosticator. However, on Saturday a three months old prediction that Ohio State and Minnesota would share the 1935 Western conference football championship seems likely to come true. It is difficult to see how Wisconsin can defeat Minnesota, and Ohio State, despite indifferent play since its loss to Notre Dame, must be rated superior to Michigan.

Chance for Maroon.

Indiana will entertain Purdue at Bloomington in resumption of a rivalry which has seen the under dog win frequently. Indiana has spurted in recent games, but the Boilermakers, good enough to hand Fordham's Rams their only licking of the year and who then went into a tail spin for three consecutive defeats, seem to have regained top form. This revival at Lafayette may be due to return of injured players, but no matter the reasons, Purdue undoubtedly realizes it must whip Indiana to hold third place without a dispute.

For three years Illinois has maintained mastery over Chicago and for the last two years has won although outgained. The Illini qualified against Ohio State as a rugged defensive team which refused to yield a touchdown in the closing minutes although already definitly beaten, 6 to 0. Illinois lacks an attack with Spurgeon out for the year and Lindberg still bothered by injury. The game suggests a struggle by Illinois to hold Jay Berwanger to midfield gains. The Maroons are in better physical condition for Illinois than they were for Indiana.

Chicago, playing as it did against Ohio State, should win.

Here's a Battle!

The best game in the Big Ten should be the Iowa-Northwestern battle at Dyche stadium. Iowa's battle against Minnesota was superb and the Hawkeyes gave the Gophers more trouble than any other eleven, unless it be Northwestern. A first division bearth in the final standings is the stake. Victory will be a fitting climax to the season. If Iowa wins from the Sands Beats Worters in Third Period.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Boston opened its National Hocky league home season with a 1 to 0 victory over the New York Americans tonight before 10,000.

Exactly 45 minutes of aggressive play were needed to give the Bruins their goal, the first they have scored this season. It came off the stick of Charlie Sands, with Eddie Shore and Max Kaminsky assisting.

Shore started this only successful move of the game by going down center ice and passing left to Kaminsky as he barged into the Americans' defense men. Kaminsky drove the puck at Goalie Roy Worters, and then Sands batted it home to clinch the game.

DETROIT, RANGERS TIE

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Detroit played its third straight tie game tonight, coming from behind twice to earn a 2 to 2 draw with the reinforced New York Rangers. About 7,000 saw the rough and tumble contest. It was the second tie between the teams.

The Rangers, with three rookies recalled from their Philadelphia farm to replace injured regulars, had the edge in passing, but every time they went ahead Detroit was fast enough to catch up. Three of the four goals were scored with men in the penalty box, the last while each team was short handed. Lineup:

KING OF CUEISTS

Welker Cochran of San Francisco is the new three cushion billiard champion. Last night he defeated Willie Hoppe of New York, 50-46, to annex the title in final match at Sherman hotel. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Before the Chicago fire of 1871 John McDevitt conducted a billiard parlor in the Masonic temple on the east side of Dearborn, north of Randolph. He was world champion, winning the title in a tournament against Joe Dion of Canada, Garner of England, Ubassy of France, and Rudolph of Germany. In a 2,000 point match against Goldwaite of New York he ran 1,930 with the balls crotched in the corner of the table.

Monday after the fire they found McDevitt's body lying on the sidewalk on the south side of Madison, east of Dearborn.

Billiards were popular here both before and after the fire. Tom Foley had a room of 30 tables, largest in the country, on Clark, where the Opera house now stands. Bensinger's on Washington, near La Salle, had 22 tables. There were numerous other rooms. Pin-pool was the gambling game of the time. "Pigeon hole," played on three-quarter size tables with pockets in the far end, also attracted many followers. These tables were mostly in cigar and candy stores. John S. Burke.

Eleven girls formed a luncheon club in 1895 before graduation from old West Division High school. On Oct. 26 last, more than 40 years later, they were guests of the class prophet at the post-vacation luncheon of the Geographic society of Chicago, where Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon entertained us with pictures and stories of their recent world flight. Among the 900 guests were six of those original eleven girls at one table. Souvenirs were 1895 editions of the Voice, high school paper. Lasting friendships from school days are very rare and precious.

You Can't Grow Old.

Keep your ideals and you can't grow old,
Youth is not years but a young state of mind;
Keep on creating, new channels unfold,
Work for the right—there's a treasure to find.
Many a man who is 50 years young
Discovers he's just beginning to live
For the joy of the race and the song that is sung,
And years fade away when he learns how to give.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The new champion of the world at three cushion billiards is Welker Cochran, who was born in Iowa, who got his first lessons in cue skill in Chicago, and who now resides in San Francisco.

He came from behind and captured the title when he defeated Willie Hoppe of New York in a sensational match at the Sherman hotel last night. The score was 50 to 46. Cochran went out with an unfinished run of seven in the 45th inning.

Crowd Is for Willie.

The crowd was one sided in its sentiment—one sided because it wanted to see a victory by Hoppe, who has ruled supreme for a greater number of years then any champion in any other branch of sport. But finally, after Cochran had made his last brilliant shot at the end of his run of seven in the 45th inning, the fans warmed up to the new champion and tendered him a real cheer.

The crowd was so anti-Cochran and so pro-Hoppe early in the evening that at times it appeared to be unfair in its attitude.

The two players did not seem to know what the crowd was saying or doing. It was their first clash in a match in which the world three cushion title was at stake. Yet it wasn't their first encounter, by any means, with a world crown as the prize. They had clashed three times previously when a balkline title was to be won or lost. On all three occasions Hoppe had been the victor.

Cochran's Average 1.123.

Cochran won his title in the most spectacular three cushion tournament ever conducted. Five of the ten players averaged better than a point an inning. Cochran's average was high. It was 1.123 an inning.

To beat Hoppe he had to come from behind a half dozen times. Hoppe was red hot in this game. The only trouble was that he had too much on the ball.

Hoppe missed a dozen shots—most of them title winning shots—because he asked the ivories to perform too nobly for him. No shot was too difficult for him to tackle. Draw shots all around the table were his favorites.

Cochran Plays Carefully.

Orthodox three cushions were easy for him. They were easy for Cochran, too. That's the game Cochran played most of the way, and it proved to be a winning game.

The title match was lacking in color except for the great rally Cochran put on in the last inning. Cochran and Hoppe missed too many of their difficult shots to make it a sensational match. Yet the lead changed so often the fortunate 700 who were able to get tickets thoroughly enjoyed it. At least they acted as if they were having a good time.

At the end of the first ten innings Cochran enjoyed a lead of 9 to 4. At the end of the 20th inning he was in front, 14 to 13. In the 30th inning Hoppe had forged ahead 25 to 23, and his shots made it seem he was to be an easy winner.

Hoppe Sets Pace.

After that the lead see-sawed on game rallies by Cochran, but when the 40th inning ended Hoppe still was in front, 41 to 39. He scored five billiards in the next four innings and then was making the pace by a margin of 46 to 41. The Hoppe fans were jubilant by this time and the former boy wizard of the cue also was confident. He was too confident.

He missed a shot in the 45th inning that should have been easy for him. That miss cost him the world championship. He left Cochran in perfect position. All Cochran had to do to reel off the final seven points was to nurse the ivories along. He did that chore as only a champion could do it.

Kinrey Matsuyama, from Japan, who also switched from balkline to three cushions almost overnight, clinched fourth place in the tournament when he whipped Jay Bozeman of California, 50 to 47, late yesterday afternoon.

The other two afternoon matches didn't mean much. Johnny Layton lost to Allen Hall, 50 to 39 and dropped into seventh place. Bozeman established himself in fifth place when he defeated Hall, 50 to 42, in 42 innings.

Score by innings:

WILDCATS SEE CHANCE TO MAKE SEASON SUCCESS

Victory Would Earn Even Break in Big Ten.

A victory over Iowa and the first even break in conference competition since 1931 will be the objective of Northwestern's football team when it meets the Hawkeyes at Dyche stadium Saturday.

The Wildcats come up to the season's final game with a record of two Big Ten victories against three defeats. A victory over the Hawkeyes would boost them into the 500 per cent class and at least a fourth place standing in the conference race. Such a termination of affairs would be quite an achievement for Coach Lynn Waldorf in his first year at Northwestern.

Northwestern will also be out to atone for two straight lickings at the hands of the Hawkeyes. Coach Ossie Solem's young men set the Purple back, 7 to 0, at Soldiers' field two years ago and last year rolled up a 20 to 7 victory when Ozzie Simmons ran wild.

Last Game for Nine Players.

Saturday's game will mark the last college appearance of nine members of the Wildcat team, seven of whom have been playing regularly this year. Co-captain Wally Cruice, right half back, and Hugh Duvall, full back, who have been fixtures in Northwestern's back field for three years, are the senior ball carriers on the squad.

Co-captain Al Lind, center, heads a group of seven senior linemen. The others are Henry Longfellow and Fred Linnsteadt, ends; Joe Chambers and Sam Papich, tackles; Paul Tangora and Andrew Jordan, guards. All except Linnsteadt and Jordan are regulars.

SIMMONS TAKES REST.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Although Dr. William Hayne, team physician, reaffirmed his statement that Ozzie Simmons will be available for the final game against Northwestern, the colored full back was unable to work with the University of Iowa football team today.

Before sending the Hawkeyes through a hard secret drill, Coach Solem said he did not intend to alter the starting team although he planned to revamp both the offense and defense for the Wildcat encounter.

The first string ball carriers will include Paul Akin and Capt. Dick Crayne. It is likely that Simmons will be at full back with either Dick Bowlin or Bush Lamb at quarter back.

A heavy field slowed today's practice. Scrimmage was the chief order of theday, but what was accomplished inside the canvas fence remained a secret between the coach and players.

SOPH RELIEVES DAVIS.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Alarmed because a freshman team, using Purdue plays, made gains through the varsity, Coach Bo McMillin stressed defense again today as he drilled the Indiana university football team to defend the old oaken bucket against Purdue here Saturday.

Bob Briggs of Eldorado, Kas., joined the growing ranks of sophomores appearing in the Crimson lineup when he replaced Corby Davis, injured full back.

Bob Keck, senior guard and back, alternated with Briggs. Davis' injured shoulder continued to respond to treatment, but it is doubtful if he will see much action against Purdue.

PURDUE DRILLS INDOORS.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Forced indoors after a brief workout, Purdue's football squad drilled in its stocking feet on the gymnasium floor today as preparations were pushed forward for the Indiana game at Bloomington Saturday.

Although some players still bore bumps and bruises as a result of the victorious battle with Iowa, no injuries of consequence have developed and Coach Noble Kizer hopes to have full strength available by Saturday.

MUD AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Weather conditions, always a problem in this part of the country, will be a major factor in the Minnesota-Wisconsin game at Memorial stadium Saturday. The Gophers will be after their seventeenth straight victory and their twenty-fourth game without defeat.

Although a protesting cover has been on the field since the Purdue game two weeks ago, the ground is not in the best of condition. Heavy rains and the absence of sun for the past seven days has made the gridiron heavy, and it may be that way Saturday. Zero temperatures were promised today for later in the week. This will force the use of straw in order to prevent the field from freezing.

Sheldon Beise, full back, and Tuffy Thompson, sophomore half back, were kept on the sidelines in today's workout because of injuries in the Michigan game, but Trainer Lloyd Stein declared that they would be ready Saturday. Because of the cold and mud the practice was split up between Northrop field and the field house.

BADGER CRIPPLES REST.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—With nearly all the regulars back in action after a day's rest, Coach C. W. A. Spears this afternoon sent the Badgers through what probably will be their only lengthy scrimmage of the week as they prepared for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday.

Paul Jensen was running at right tackle in place of the injured Ed Christiansen, and both Henry Kromraj and big Bob Grinde, a sophomore, were used at left tackle in place of the veteran, John Golemgeske, who also was hurt in the Northwestern game.

Trainer Bill Fallon reported, however, that he expected both Christiansen and Golemgeske to be ready for Minnesota.

Lindblom Star Solves Prep Title Problem

There are two games left in the brilliant prep career of Ted Hennis, captain and quarter back on the Lindblom High school eleven, if you ask his opinion regarding the outcome of Lindblom's game with Parker for the Chicago Public High School league championship at Stagg field Saturday.

TED HENNIS.

According to Hennis' plans, Lindblom first will shatter Parker's title dreams and then will march on to Soldiers' field where it will oppose the Catholic league's champion, either St. Mel or Leo, in the city championship game for Mayor Edward J. Kelly's Christmas benefit fund on Nov. 30.

Hennis is rated by Coach E. Lansford Moore as the greatest quarter back at Lindblom since he began coaching at the south side school in 1918. It was Hennis who led Lindblom to victory over Fenger in the finals last year and later helped the team triumph over Leo, 6 to 0, in the city title contest.

Ted Is Natural Player.

"Hennis is a mighty fine blocker and a quarter back who is always alert," remarked Coach Moore. "I have never had to tell him about a play twice. He seems to have every play we have down pat."

Hennis has been on the squad for three years, but began playing regularly last season. He is 19 years old, weighs 170 pounds and has never been injured although he has participated in every league contest. The star quarter back is a member of the senior boys' council, an honorary organization at Lindblom.

The principals in the Catholic league's finale at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon, St. Mel and Leo, continued their preparations for the title contest yesterday. Coach Paddy Driscoll of St. Mel, west section champion, sent his squad through a long workout and Coach Whitey Cronin of Leo watched his team go through another lengthy session.

They've Met Before.

It will be the second meeting of the teams this season. Earlier in the year they played a scoreless tie, but both squads have shown considerable improvement since that contest. St. Mel is undefeated in league competition, while Leo won five games and was tied by Loyola in winning the east division title.

A crowd of 75,000 will watch the two championship teams in the city title game at Soldiers' field on Nov. 30. According to Harry O'Rourke and Chuck Duval of Mayor Kelly's Christmas benefit fund, the advance sale already has passed the $40,000 mark.

Wolverines Go Through Defense Drill

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—With the exception of Cedric Sweet, full back, and Ernie Johnson, right end, the Michigan squad was intact for practice this afternoon. The ability of the injured boys to get around demonstrated to Coach Harry Kipke that he would have the whole squad available for Saturday's game with Ohio State.

The workout, confined to running of plays against a reserve team and practice on defense against Ohio plays, was carried on in rain.

Sweet's Ankle Improves.

On the first team were Patanelli and Valpey at end; Luby and Kramer, tackles; Bissell and Pederson, guards; Rinaldi, center, and Cap Bill Renner, Campbell, Smithers, and Remias in the back field. The reserve team was made up of Meyer and Savage, ends; Greenwald and Lincoln, tackles; Garber and Sobsey, guards; Schuman, center, and Barclay, Everhardus, Aug, and Farmer in the back field.

Sweet said the swelling in his injured ankle had gone down considerably. Trainers said he would be able to play Saturday.

BUCKEYES STUDY PICTURES.

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Ohio State regulars viewed pictures of last Saturday's Illinois game today and after a light limbering up session was excused.

The second stringers, however, were sent against the freshmen. A long period of defensive work against the Michigan plays demonstrated by the yearlings was ordered. These were stopped with little trouble by the second stringers. A drizzling rain fell throughout the session.

The team and coaches will leave Columbus Friday morning for Dearborn, Mich., where they will work out in the afternoon.

FEAR HUTSON OF PACKERS IS ILL OF APPENDICITIS

Green Bay, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Apparently suffering from appendicitis, Don Hutson, star left end of the Green Bay Packers and leading scorer in the National Professional Football league, was in St. Vincent's hospital tonight for observation. The club physician indicated that Hutson might be ready for action against Pittsburgh Sunday unless his condition becomes worse.

Hutson said he had a temperature of 100 when playing against the Detroit Lions Sunday, but said nothing to Coach Curly Lambeau. He will remain at the hospital several days.

Trojans Send 33 to Battle at Notre Dame

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Reinforced at the last minute by Glenn Thompson, 190 pound hard driving sophomore quarter back, Southern California's football squad left tonight for Notre Dame and Saturday's game.

Thirty-three players, five coaches, two physicians and a small group of fans departed over the Southern Pacific. Thompson joined the squad when Dr. Packard Thurber decided the youngster would be ready for some action against Notre Dame. Glenn was hurt in the second quarter of last Saturday's Washington State game and spent the week-end in a hospital.

Coach Howard Jones put the boys through a long workout prior to their getaway and paid particular attention to 215 pound Jim Henderson, shifted from end and full back to quarter back. Henderson proved he can pass and run with the ball.

Pick Starting Lineup.

Jones plans to open against the Irish with Bill Gaisford or Gene Hibbs and Chuck Williams as ends; Max Belko and Bruce Hull as tackles; Ed Shuey and Joe Wilensky at the guard berths and Gil Kuhn at center. The backfield will have Davis, Owen Hansen, Bud Langley and Cliff Propst.

Practice is scheduled at Tucson, Ariz., tomorrow; at Hutchinson, Kas., Thursday, and Stagg field, Chicago, on Friday. Those making the trip are:

ENDS—Hibbs, Gaisford, Thurlow, Williams, and Bettinger.

TACKLES—Hull, Belko, Dittberner, Roberts, and Rorison.

GUARDS—Preinninger, MacMoore, Wilensky, Brosseau, Shuey, and Sanders.

CENTERS—Kuhn, Radovich, and McNeish.

QUARTER BACKS—Davis, Pappas, Thompson, and Henderson.

HALF BACKS—Hansen, Langley, Clark, Kidder, Sutherland, and Beatty.

FULL BACKS—Propst, Howard, Lynch, and Keller.

IRISH EXPECT BATTLE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Handicapped by an all-day rain which sent them to the gymnasium, Notre Dame's first and second teams returned to practice today to start preparations for their annual game with Southern California here Saturday.

Notre Dame's last minute finishes against Pittsburgh, Ohio State and Army, and Southern California's victory over Washington State apparently have whetted the appetites of midwestern fans for the Notre Dame finale, and the largest home crowd of the season is in prospect, if the weather is good.

Dick Pfefferle, left tackle who has not played since he was hurt in the Ohio State game, was with the first team in today's workout and will start Saturday. The status of Andy Pilney remained doubtful, however, with only an outside chance of the star of the Ohio State game seeing action.

SCHMIDT NAMES FIVE BUCKEYES ON ALL BIG 10 TEAM

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Five Ohio State and four Minnesota players were named on the first teams. Coach Francis Schmidt named in an all Big Ten selection today.

"This team has all the power and deception any coach could ask," Schmidt said. "I believe it could take any team in the country."

He paid special tribute to Stanley Pincura, Ohio State quarter back, who finishes his college career this year.

"Pincura is a quarter back without a peer in the country," Schmidt says. "I'm certainly sorry to see him leave." Schmidt's teams are:

MAROONS FORGET PAST; POINT FOR ILLINOIS BATTLE

Regardless of Records It's Chicago's Big Game.

Saturday's contest at Champaign between Chicago and Illinois, one of those traditional affairs where past performance counts for little, is the game of the season, so far as the Maroons are concerned. They want very badly to win it, for a number of reasons.

One reason is that the Midway squad would like to see Jay Berwanger finish his collegiate career in a blaze of glory. Another reason is that the loser at Champaign will probably share the Big Ten cellar with Wisconsin, which, like Chicago and Illinois, has won one and lost three thus far, and which meets Minnesota. Another reason is that the Maroons figure the all-time Chicago-Illinois series is a dead heat.

Differ on Record.

There is a difference of opinion between Champaign and the Midway as to the outcome of the 39 previous games played between the two institutions. Champaign figures that the Illini have won 19, the Maroons have won 16, and 4 games have ended in ties. The Midway figures that each won 17 games, 3 have resulted in ties, and 2 have been unofficial.

Senior members of the present Maroon squad have watch Chicago suffer one touchdown defeats by Illinois in each of the last three seasons.

All this served to spur the Maroons to spirited effort yesterday as they ran through an offensive scrimmage against freshmen. Coach Shaughnessy put a quick whistle on the frosh in order to avoid injuries. The Maroons are in the best shape since midseason, but Berwanger and Omar Fareed were kept out of most of the scrimmage.

LINDBERG IN LINEUP.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Les Lindberg, Illinois' triple-threat star, whose injury in the first game of the season wrecked what seemed certain to be a fitting close to a brilliant gridiron career, is buoyed by hope that he will be able to flash his old form in the closing game against Chicago.

Lindberg today replaced Jewett Cole at left half back as the Illini began preparations for the Maroons. Lindberg's speed should help the Illini a great deal Saturday.

JACOBUS TURNS DOWN PLACE AS PRO GOLF CZAR

Elect Next Year's Officers at Meeting Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Twenty years ago come Jan. 17, Rodman Wanamaker invited a number of eastern golf professionals to a dinner at the Taplow club in New York. Out of that little gathering grew the Professional Golfers' Association of America, one of the currently dominant forces in sport, which now is holding its nineteenth national meeting at the Morrison hotel.

Following a sustained huddle by the executive committee of the organization on Monday, all of the sectional delegates to the annual assembly rallied yesterday for one of the most interesting conclaves in the history of the group.

The meeting will be continued today, with the annual election of officers for the 1936 season, not to mention a deal of new business which may prove of exceptional note, dominating the proceedings.

Declines to Be Czar.

Outstanding development of yesterday's session was the spirited and well received refusal of George Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., national president of the P. G. A. to accept a post which, in the scope of its authority, would have been tantamount to the position of Judge Landis in baseball.

Three sectional members of the P. G. A.—the Midwest, the Philadelphia, and the New Jersey groups—had submitted proposed amendments to the constitution whereby Jacobus would, under varying terms, become the virtual dictator of the association. The Midwest section advocated that he would devote his entire time to association affairs, with a contract for six years calling for a salary of $15,000 annually for the first two years, $17,500 for the second two, and $20,000 for the final two years. The Philadelphia group suggested a five year contract carrying a salary of not less than $15,000 per year, and the New Jersey bloc provided an entire time basis, salary to be determined by the association delegates, empowering him to approve or disapprove of any committee rulings.

After these motions had been proposed by their respective delegates, Jack Mackie of New York, a charter member of the association, and present treasurer, arose to suggest that the motions be tabled indefinitly. Jacobus withdrew from the chair to make a personal refusal of the offer, and to second the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Harlow Reports on Earnings.

The morning minutes were devoted to a reading of reports by the various officers and chairmen of committees, including the president, secretary, treasurer, and chairmen of the publicity, manufacturers' relations, tournament, unemployment, and educational committees. The report of Robert E. Harlow, energetic manager of the P. G. A. tournament bureau, showed that members of the organization had competed for a total of $134,700 in 35 events embraced by the winter and summer seasons of the last year.

The publicity committee, headed by Elmer F. Biggs of Peoria, stressed the need of more open minded contact with the press, and the efficacy of radio broadcasting by professionals. The educational report pointed out the value of the work done by A. W. Tillinghast, who recently signed a year's contract as consultant-architect of the P. G. A., a post in which he already has given excellent advice to clubs in the matter of course structure.

The Illinois section brought up resolutions involving by-law changes, the most notable of which was that the association request the United States Golf association for representation on its championship committee by two P. G. A. members. The motive back of this, of course, was the fact that professionals have been the backbone of the U. S. G. A.'s big show, the national open. This motion was withdrawn temporarily for further discussion by the officers and executive committee.

Bernard Gets Here Today for Battle Friday

The momentous puzzle—When will Roger Bernard arrive for his ten round lightweight bout with Davey Day at Guyon's Paradise Friday night? — was solved yesterday by Roger Bernard, who serves as his own manager.

In a telegram dispatched from his home in Flint, Mich., Bernard said:

"Sorry unable to arrive today [yesterday]. Will be in town tomorrow noon [today]."

Well, That's Settled.

Thus Bernard appears to have ended a controversy along the Chicago boxing rialto which got its start Monday when a New York newspaper published the supposition that Roger is booked to clash with Pedro Montanez of Porto Rico in that city tonight. A representative of Carl Stockholm, who is making his debut as a promoter, displayed the wire from Bernard to refute the item published in New York.

So fans are awaiting Bernard's arrival here, eager to get a look at one of the few boxers able to defeat Barney Ross, welterweight champion. Bernard whipped Ross in eight rounds at Chicago Stadium in 1931 by using the champion's body for a punching bag.

Erjavec Meets Vogel.

Johnny Erjavec, Duluth, Minn., heavyweight, who made a success of his Chicago debut Monday by scoring a knockout over George Bittner, will clash with Frank Vogel, Rockford, at six rounds. Billy Miller, Milwaukee, and Ernie Kulasik, Chicago, will be opponents in another match at this distance. Harold Brown is matched against Danny Milillo and Lorenzo Lovings will hook up with Lou Vine.

Henry Feuerstein, Toledo, O., light heavyweight, will meet Steve Roberts, Chicago, in a six round supporting match to the Billy Celebron-Lou Halper ten round headliner at 124th field artillery armory Saturday night. Feuerstein will return today from a visit with relatives at Rockford to finish preparations. Mickey O'Shea, north side welterweight, will meet Pat Murphy, Danville, Ill., in another encounter at six rounds. O'Shea watched Murphy spar yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium and then said, "My worries are over."

An amateur boxing and wrestling show will be held tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory featuring a double windup. Leo Pilia, Gary, will meet Johnny McVey, Chicago, and Eddie Rite, Gary, will oppose Russ Nyberg, Chicago, at five rounds. Johnny Bove, light heavyweight wrestler, will clash with Walter Pellmer, Crane college.

Ceferino Garcia, Los Angeles, Cal., Filipino welterweight, will arrive Sunday from Vancouver, B. C., for his ten round return match with Barney Ross, division champion, at the Stadium one week from Friday. Garcia, who hit the limelight with two knockdowns he scored against Ross in their match at San Francisco a few weeks ago, is scheduled to fight Gordon Wallace tonight at Vancouver, B. C. Garcia will do his training here at Madison Square loop gymnasium. Ross dazzled spectators at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday with his skill in a three round workout. Barney landed a left to the body and a right to the jaw in quick succession which almost knocked his sparmate out of the ring. F. M.

Wildcats, it will have five victories, two defeats [Minnesota and Purdue] and one tie [Indiana]. If Northwestern wins, the record will be three defeats [Purdue, Ohio State, and Minnesota] and five victories in which list is the all important triumph over Notre Dame.

Notre Dame concludes its nine game schedule against Southern California and is in the unenviable position of favorite. Illinois' 19 to 0 conquest of the Trojans and Southern California's lowly position in the Pacific coast standing serves to make the Irish the choice in public estimation. However, Southern California has come along rapidly in the last two games, holding Stanford to a 3 to 0 victory and whipping Washington State, 20 to 10. On a slow, muddy gridiron the Trojans will be difficult to whip. They may be difficult to beat on any kind of a field.

Marquette Faces Creighton.

Marquette winds up the year's business against Creighton and undoubtedly will win despite possible letdown after losing to Temple, a defeat which burst the Marquette bubble of possible invitation to the Rose Bowl game.

Eastern sports writers this year have named Princeton as the nation's best team, although now some of them have switched to Southern Methodist. Minnesota is highly regarded, but since the Gophers have confined activity to midwestern territory, they have not received their due. Last year when Minnesota went east to whip Pitt [it was Pitt's only licking] the east naturally applauded.

Nonconference victories this year have been recorded over North Dakota State, Nebraska, and Tulane. The Nebraska score was close, 12 to 7, but the Minnesota line threw back Nebraska after a fumble had given the Cornhuskers possession on the two yard line and a touchdown meant victory. Tulane was outclassed.

24 Games Without Defeat.

Minnesota has beaten Northwestern, Purdue, Iowa, and Michigan, and needs only to add Wisconsin to the list to win the championship and record its seventeenth consecutive victory and twenty-fourth game without defeat. In 1933 Minnesota won four games and tied four. The last game in 1933 was a 6 to 3 victory over Wisconsin.

More will be known about Princeton [which whipped Pennsylvania by only 7 to 6 in the opening game] after this week's battle with undefeated and untied Dartmouth.

HE'S HEAD MAN OF TIGERS NOW

Walter O. Briggs, Detroit manufacturer and part owner of the Detroit Tigers, will assume full control of the team by acquiring the other half interest from the estate of Frank J. Navin. Briggs said Mickey Cochrane could remain as manager as long as he liked. This photograph was taken at Miami, Fla., yesterday. [Associated Press Photo.]

Briggs Will Take Over Tiger Club

smacked of accuracy. Manager Bill Terry of the Giants was around making desperate search for a second baseman—and the Cards need a pitcher like Hubbell badly.

Three Way Deal Rumored.

A three cornered deal among the New York Yankees, Washington, and Boston Red Sox was rumored widely. If it proves true, the Red Sox will get Outfielder Heinie Manush and Pitcher Jack Russell from Washington; the Yanks will get Roy Johnson, slugging outfielder, from Boston, together Pitcher Bump Hadley and Outfielder Johnathan Stone from Washington; Washington will get Outfielder Ben Chapman and Pitchers Johnny Murphy and Jimmy Deshong from the Yankees.

Manager Charles Grimm of the Chicago Cubs announced today Woody English, veteran infielder, had been named to captain the team again next year. This indicated rumors of English being traded or sold were unfounded and that he would be back with the Cubs next year.

30 CARDS ON BLOCK

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Retribution is facing all but eight of the thirty-eight Cardinals who weakened last fall and permitted the Chicago Cubs to win the National league pennant.

Branch Rickey, vice president, made clear his stand today before he departed for the minor league baseball meeting in Dayton, O. The Cardinals may not do much trading in Dayton, but deals are certain to be sought.

Jerome and Paul Dean and Jess Haines, pitchers; Joe Medwick and Terry Moore, outfielders, and Leo Durocher and James [Ripper] Collins, infielders, were named by Rickey as players sure of 1936 berths.

Manager Frank Frisch, a second baseman, nearing the end of his playing days, already is under contract.

Martin May Go.

But, in the words of Rickey, "it would be risky to wager" where the other players will be next season.

Among the players Rickey did not name as fixtures with the 5 time pennant winning club were Pepper Martin, hero of the 1931 world series; Charley Gelbert, infielder who made a comeback last year after a gunshot wound received in hunting nearly ended his playing days; Bill Delancey, young catcher recovering from a serious illness, and Bill Hallahan, left handed pitcher who brought the Cards back into the pennant race in midsummer this year, then lost his effectiveness.

COMBS IS THROUGH

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Earle Combs, veteran New York Yankee outfielder, is through as an active player, but will be retained as coach, replacing Joe Sewell, Manager Joe McCarthy announced today.

McCarthy said Sewell would sign to manage some minor league club. Reports have had it that Sewell will take Bob Shawkey's place at Newark, a Yankee farm.

De Paul Builds Pass Attack for St. Louis

De Paul university's football team stressed passes in its practice yesterday for the St. Louis game Saturday at Soldiers' field, in which Walt Loess and Co-Capt. Ray Durkin will be playing their last game for De Paul. Four other starters also will end their careers.

Co-Capt. Joe Sullivan, Gene Cowhey, center; George Schwarz, and Joe Wosik are the other graduating regulars. They want to insure themselves of playing on the best team De Paul has ever put out, and a victory over St. Louis is all that is needed to attain this goal.

Sullivan is still hampered with a knee injury suffered earlier in the season, but he will start.

St. Louis comes to Chicago with a line that averages over 200 pounds from tackle to tackle and a powerful offense. In eight home games St. Louis has piled up 1,860 yards to 889 for its opponents. It has made 114 first downs to 64.

But its pass record hasn't been as good. St. Louis has completed 28 tosses for 468 yards while the opposition has completed 40 for 626 yards. Coach Muellerleile will start a veteran back field composed of Capt. Harold Hudson at left half, Carl Wood at right half, Lou Drone at quarter, and Norman Kloepper at full.

MONARCHS MEET HIGH LIFES IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The fourth place Miller High Life Beers will bowl the leading Monarch Beers at the Gold Coast recreation, 1213 North Clark street, in a Classic league match tonight. The Moulding-Brownells will face the Baby Ruth Candies at the Harding, 2701 Milwaukee avenue; the Oak Leaf Motors will be pitted against the Pabst Blue Ribbons Beers at Logan Square, 2552 Milwaukee avenue, and the Edelweiss Beers and Ben Bey Cigars will meet at Louie Petersen's, 2055 West 35th street. All matches start at 8:45 o'clock. Standings:

CHICAGO TABLE TENNIS TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

Play in all events except men's singles gets under way tonight in the seventh annual Chicago district table tennis tournament at the Stay and Play club, 168 West Monroe street.

Jay Purves, western champion, will attempt to add the Chicago title to her long list of victories. She is expected to be the chief obstacle before Helen Ovenden, defending champion.

Bill Condy will desert his studies long enough to defend his title in the men's singles, which starts tomorrow night. Having played with Jimmy McClure at DePauw, Condy is reported to be in top form, but will receive stiff competition from Mort Ladin, western champion, and Herb Arronson, winner of the recent membership tournament.

2 Great Texas Teams Out for 10th Straight

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Southern Methodist and Texas Christian universities, both unbeaten and untied, are traveling through the football air lanes in a wild fight to give the southwest its first Rose Bowl team.

On campuses little more than a whoop and a holler apart—the Methodist Mustangs at Dallas and the Christian Frogs at Fort Worth—the squads leveled off today in practices that injected more pass puzzles into their play.

Both have nine games and nine victories behind them. Both used aerial deception to reach this point undefeated. And both will shower lether Nov. 30 in their game to prove which is the southwest's best.

Records About Even.

Both have played the North Texas Teachers, Tulsa university, University of Texas, and University of Arkansas. The Mustangs trimmed the North Texas Teachers 39-0, Tulsa 14-0, Texas 20-0, and Arkansas 17-6. Texas Christian subdued North Texas 28-11, Tulsa 13-0, Texas 28-0, and Arkansas 13-7. In the comparative games the Methodists scored 90 points to 6, the Christians 82 to 18.

Standouts sprinkle the Methodist and Christian lineups.

Twisting, slippery Bobby Wilson, 150 pound half back, who also kicks and passes in dull moments, leads the Methodist offensive. To match him Texas Christian has its Sammy Bauch, regarded as the best passer the southwest has ever known.

Wilson and Bauch have backfield playmates skilled in blocking and running. Big Harry Shuford, Methodist full back and "front man" for Wilson, called signals, blocked and averaged nearly four yards on line thrusts before wrenching a knee in the U. C. L. A. game Armistice day.

The Christians face powerful Rice institute, toast of the southwest in 1934, and beaten only by Southern Methodist this season, in a game Saturday at Fort Worth. The Methodists must conquer their old jinx—Baylor university.

TEXANS ELIGIBLE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—While the annual California-Stanford game at Palo Alto Saturday in all probability will decide which team represents the west in the Rose Bowl game, official announcement will not come until Nov. 29.

This was the statement today from the office of Prof. Hugh C. Willett, chairman of the Pacific coast conference.

At the same time, the faculty representative from Southern California made it plain that there was no rule of any sort which bound the team selected to confine its search for a suitable opponent to given geographical boundaries.

Asked whether Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, two undefeated teams in the southwest conference, were eligible because of their location, Prof. Willett said:

"Certainly Southern Methodist or any other team in the southwest conference could be selected if the team awarded the Rose Bowl right by the Pacific coast conference so decided."

Bears Go Back to ABC's in Daily Drill

If lessons in forward passing and charging are fundamentals the Bears are back in school.

Although blaming no individual for the poor showing in the muddy contest with the Giants Sunday, Coach George Halas minced no words yesterday in telling the Bears they resembled a prairie ball club.

"One can't expect the best football on the field like the one Sunday, but the Giants were up against the same handicap and made us look bad. They didn't fumble. But we couldn't hold the ball.

"The Bear line was outcharged and if it hadn't been for Musso and Karr there is no telling how bad we would have been licked. We'll get back to fundamentals this week. Our tackling and blocking were pitiful."

Shepherd, Clark Coming.

The Bears anticipate trouble at Wrigley field Sunday when the Detroit Lions move in with Bill Shepherd thoroughly acclimated to Patsy Clark's style.

Shepherd started the season with Boston and was bought by Detroit several weeks ago. It is Dutch Clark, the Detroit captain, the Bears fear most. Clark's running was responsible for Detroit's victory over Green Bay Sunday.

Shepherd is leading the National league in ground gaining, though his average is not the highest. The former Western Maryland back, who led the nation in scoring for two years and star of the All-American game against the Bears last August, has carried the ball 111 times for an aggregate gain of 360 yards. His average gain is 3.2. Ernie Caddel, also of Detroit, has dropped to second place with a total of 344 yards, but Caddel's average is six yards in 57 attempts. Clark has gained 320 yards in 93 attempts.

Hutson Best Receiver.

Don Hutson, the Packers' end, still leads individual scorers with 43 points official statistics released by the league yesterday indicate.

Charlie Malone of Boston, has caught 19 passes to make him the outstanding pass receiver. Ed Danowski of the New York Giants is still the best forward passer, with 31 completions out of 66 attempts for an average of 46 per cent.

C. Y. O. TO HOLD SOUTH SECTION BOUTS TONIGHT

Quarter-final matches in the north section of the 1935 C. Y. O. amateur boxing tournament were held last night at Loyola university gymnasium. Eight class A and eight class B bouts composed the card.

Tonight activity will switch to the south side, where the quarter-final round of the south and suburban sections will be held at St. Bernard's gymnasium, 6550 Harvard avenue. Tomorrow night the last of the quarter-finals will be held at the 132d Infantry armory for west section boxers. Last night's results:

Blind Girl and Her Dog Will Appear at Show

One of the features of the Western Specialty Clubs association dog show, which will be held at the Coliseum next Saturday and Sunday, will be an exhibition by Miss Ruth Hoefer, a blind girl, and her German shepherd dog—Junker V. D. Wolfshalde. The dog has acted as Miss Hoefer's "eyes" for more than four years.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower.

Miss Hoefer is a graduate of the Michigan School for the Blind and also of the Michigan Agricultural school, where she was an honor student.

She says that she has perfect confidence in her dog, which leads her through the streets, signaling to her by means of a stiff handling leash when there is danger of any kind. The dog stops her mistress at curbings, stops for red trafic lights, and leads her around any sort of barrier.

HAWKS CANCEL SCRIMMAGE TO REST CRIPPLES

Karakas Gets Long Drill in Net.

Too many limping players was Manager Clem Loughlin's reason for canceling the scrimmage he had planned for the Blackhawks yesterday as preparation for their first game of the season with the Toronto Maple Leafs tomorrow night at the Stadium.

Instead the squad's shotmakers, Locking, Morenz, Thompson, Gottselig, March, and Romnes, bombarded Goalie Mike Karakas from al langes.

The freshman goal tender, whose record to date is the best in the league, is undoubtedly in for his most trying experience since he became a pro five seasons ago, for not only will he face in Forwards Charley Conacher and Harvey Jackson of the Maple Leafs two of the greatest scorers the game has known, but in the former he will be confronted with a 200 pound forward who fires the hardest shot in the league.

Coulter, Trudell, Cook and Levinsky were excused from yesterday's drill, but the Hawks' boss stated after the morning's session that regardless of wrenched joints, bruises and other sore spots all hands would be sent through a scrimmage this morning.

Goalie Lorne Chabot, whose left knee has been in a cast since Oct. 17, was in uniform yesterday. The club's physicians say it will take at least two weeks of skating before the knee will be strong enough to permit his playing.

KEEP OPEN DOOR POLICY, CHINESE LEADERS URGE

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.—Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinese finance minister, and Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, ambassador to France, declared here tonight that maintenance of the American open door doctrin is the most essential element for the continuance of the expansion of trade between China and the United States.

Koo declared this doctrin and the resulting benefits would be seriously disturbed in the event that monopolies are established in certain parts of Chinese territory which would seriously check international trade. His remarks were interpreted as an unmistakable reference to Japanese activity.

The addresses were delivered at a banquet celebrating the opening of Sino-American trade, given by the American Chamber of Commerce and the Sino-American trade council.

GROWING MONEY FEARS WEAKEN FRANC FUTURES

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Increasing fear of developments in the French financial situation today brought new heaviness in the futures quotations for francs, although the spot franc improved ⅛ point to 6.58⅞ cents. The dollar was worth $1.00.68, against $1.0070 yesterday.

Ninety day francs were offered today at a discount of 16¾ points under the spot rate, compared with 15 yesterday. Other gold currencies, however, showed a contrasting movement.

A total of $12,726,000 in gold was engaged in France today for shipment to this country, bringing to $338,400,000 the metal lost by France since Sept. 9. Total engagements from abroad are thus increased to $602,400,000.

PWA TO ENLARGE HOUSING GROUP ON NORTH SIDE

Pays $85,000 for 2 Acres —Highest Price Here.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase by the government of two additional acres from the International Harvester company at the southwest corner of Diversey parkway and Clybourn avenue, at the intersection of North Damen avenue, to extend the scope of the Public Works administration Diversey housing project, was disclosed yesterday at the recorder's office.

The PWA paid $85,000 for the property, according to the deeds filed for record. This is the highest price paid so far for any PWA housing project site in Chicago.

Cost of Other Acreage.

For the adjoining 16.94 acres purchased from Mary Jane Seng of Wilfette, $269,000 was paid, or at the rate of $15,879 per acre. For the 19 acres purchased from the International Harvester company, on the south side of Diversey parkway fronting on the river, $278,705 was paid, or at the rate of $14,668 per acre, as reported for the first time in THE TRIBUNE on Nov. 3. This transfer also was filed for record yesterday.

With the purchase of the 2 acres yesterday, the PWA now has approximately 38 acres available for its Diversey housing project. There will be 1,119 dwelling units, according to the latest tentative plans. The Midwest Construction company of Chicago, was low bidder for the foundation work, with a price of $169,500.

Open Bids on Another Unit.

Bids for the 700 residential units to comprise the Trumbull park PWA housing project in South Chicago were opened yesterday. The Henry Ericsson company of Chicago, had the low bid of $114,600.

The second lowest was the B.-W. Construction company, which is now building the foundations for the Jane Addams houses on the west side, with a bid of $117,000. Third lowest was the S. N. Neilson company, with a bid of $127,400. Contracts will be let in about two weeks, it was stated.

COURT TO ACCEPT 208 S. LA SALLE BUILDING PLAN

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan said yesterday that he would confirm the proposed 208 S. La Salle Street Building corporation reorganization plan on Nov. 26 provided a minor change is made. This followed the elimination of the last major obstacle to approval of the plan under section 77B of the bandruptcy act yesterday morning—the compromise of the federal government's $2,000,000 tax claim with payment of $38,000.

The plan provides for transfer of assets to a new corporation which will have 150,400 shares of capital stock outstanding. First mortgage bondholders will receive 95 per cent of outstanding stock and the former equity owner, the Utilities Power and Light Realty Trust, will receive 5 per cent.

The plan further provides that no mortgage or debenture may be placed against the property without the consent of 66 2-3 per cent of the stock; Judge Sullivan asked the committee to raise the figure to 70 per cent by Nov. 26, when he will confirm the plan. He instructed the attorneys to present their petition for fees within 20 or 30 days.

"I would advise you attorneys to sharpen your pencils," he said. "Fees must be reasonable."

The building will be the largest property to be organized under the new law.

CONTAINER CORP. WILL OFFER PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE

Directors of the Container Corporation of America have voted to submit to stockholders a plan of recapitalization which would replace the present three classes of stock with a single issue of $1,00,0000 shares of $20 par value common stock. Carrying out the plan would require the immediate issuance of approximately 667,000 of the authorized shares.

Under the plan, each present share of preferred is to be exchanged for five shares of new common. Class A common would be exchanged share for share for new common. Class B common would be exchanged at the rate of two new common for each five present shares. It is understood a special stockholders' meeting to vote on the proposals will be called in the immediate future.

Two Elected to Board of Chicago Mail Order

Lawrence K. Schnadig, treasurer of the Pullman Couch company, and Richard Uhlmann, secretary of the Uhlmann Grain company, were elected directors of the Chicago Mail Order company yesterday to fill vacancies on the board.

PEOPLES GAS MANAGEMENT TO BE INDEPENDENT

JAMES SIMPSON.
[Blank & Stoller Photo.]

Management of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was divorced from that of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday in the first move to break up the union of the three big Chicago utilities which has existed for 15 years, both during and since the Insull régime.

James Simpson, chairman of all three concerns since June, 1932, after the fall of the Insull empire, resigned his post with Peoples Gas. George A. Ranney, vice chairman of all three, was elected chairman of Peoples Gas to succeed Simpson and resigned his positions with the other two companies.

Samuel Insull Jr., who has been assisting Simpson and Ranney in the management of all three utilities, will confine his activities to Edison and Public Service.

Delay Other Segregations.

Denial was made that separation of Edison and Public Service is being considered at present. Edison being the sole distributor of electricity in Chicago and Peoples Gas covering the same area in the gas field, the separation of the two was considered advisable from a competitive standpoint, it was said. Public Service operates outside of Chicago in northern Illinois counties.

Simpson and Ranney, the only men who are directors of all three companies, said any changes in the directorship will not be acted upon until the coming annual stockholders' meetings. It is assumed they will confine their board memberships to the respective companies they direct.

Sewell L. Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., the only other director who is a member of both the Edison and Peoples Gas boards, was uncertain as to his future course.

"I might retire from both boards," he said.

Simpson Explains Action.

"I have been of the opinion for some time that the management of the gas and electric utilities in Chicago should be separate and distinct," said Simpson in tendering his resignation as chairman of Peoples Gas and its subsidiary.

"Furthermore, the industrial and other fields of activity in the gas industry offer such opportunities for development that the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company requires and should have the undivided attention of its chief executive."

Ranney said he will recommend abolishing the office of vice chairman of Peoples Gas, a step which was taken yesterday by directors of Edison. The retirements of Simpson and Ranney apply to the Peoples Gas Subsidiary corporation and Commonwealth Edison Subsidiary corporation, as well as the parent concerns.

Seek Exemption From U. S. Act.

Directors of the two companies, taking separate action, authorized their respective officers to prepare and file with the Securities and Exchange commission applications for the companies and their subsidiaries for exemption from operations of the public utility holding company act of 1935.

Both companies do an almost wholly intra-state business and are regarded as typical big operating companies, despite their having subsidiaries. Also, Edison owns nearly one-third of the common stock of Public Service.

EXPECT RULING ON MIDDLE WEST PLAN TOMORROW

A "showdown" on the proposed reorganization of Middle West Utilities company under section 77B of the bankruptcy laws is set for tomorrow morning. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson indicated yesterday he expects either to approve or disapprove a plan of reorganization at that time, and in any event, plans to wind up the drawn out case this week.

The court's special committee, named to iron out differences between creditors and the court's suggestions, reported making "some progress yesterday. No indication was given as to the extent of the "progress" and it was said that no information will be forthcoming until tomorrow in open court.

While Judge Wilkerson is apparently standing pat that he will not approve any plan not affording stockholders a chance to share in the future of the company, some of the creditors were reported ready to give up the reorganization and seek liquidation rather than make further concessions to stockholders.

Jewel Tea Sales Climb 5.45% in October Period

Jewel Tea Company, Inc., yesterday reported sales of $1,466,986 for the four weeks ended Nov. 2, compared with $1,391,137 in the corresponding weeks of last year, an increase of 5.45 per cent. In the first forty-four weeks of this year sales totaled $15,644,315, against $14,259,319 in the 1934 period, a gain of 9.64 per cent.

Trade Treaty Hurts Farmer, Aids Industry

BY HOWARD WOOD.

If the comments of business and agricultural leaders afford a trust worthy preview of the effects of the new reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada, the most important result of the pact will be to give manufacturing industries a greater advantage in this country's export trade at the expense of agricultural producers.

According to press dispatches, news of the signing of the treaty was received enthusiastically by delegates to the national foreign trade council convention at Houston. James A. Farrell, chairman of the council, was quoted as saying that "the agreement will be hailed with general satisfaction."

James D. Mooney, president of the American Manufacturers' Export association, said in New York that there was "not the slightest doubt" that trade would broaden and that "even the people who think they will be hurt will benefit."

* *

In Detroit, Robert C. Graham, chairman of the export committee of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, telegraphed President Roosevelt that the agreement "represents effective government coöperation with industry and agriculture in stimulating world trade."

Farm groups, on the other hand, bitterly attacked the treaty. By unanimous vote the National Grange urged the administration to rescind the pact, predicting that it would prove "injurious rather than beneficial." In Denver officials of the American National Live Stock association predicted that the Canadian treaty would "tremendously strengthen the move already clearly in evidence for repeal of the entire reciprocal trade act." Live stock men coming to the Chicago stock yards found the treaty distasteful.

Despite numerous exceptions, manufacturing industries on the whole thought the treaty would be helpful and farm representatives in general thought it would be harmful.

* *

In view of this division of opinion, it is interesting to see what previous New Deal steps have done to this country's foreign trade. During the first six months of this year the dollar volume of exports of the United States was practically the same as during the first half of last year. Exports of leading agricultural products, however, fell off materially, whereas exports of manufacturing industries rose enough to offset this drop.

In other words, the farmer was getting a smaller slice of the nation's foreign trade and manufacturing industries were getting more.

During the first half of 1935 the dollar value of raw cotton exports was 21.2 per cent less than in the first half of 1934; leaf tobacco exports were off 10.7 per cent; lard exports were down 47.2 per cent. In the same period exports of automobile parts and accessories were up 15.7 per cent.

* *

Other increases in exports of manufacturing industries included electrical machinery, 17.8 per cent; agricultural machinery and implements, 43 per cent; iron and steel scrap, 63.6 per cent; power driven metal working machinery, 5.4 per cent; photographic and projection goods, 10.4 per cent, and well and refinery machinery, 46.4 per cent.

This was not all, however. Some of the biggest increases in imports occurred in farm crops and foreign products poured into the United States to offset domestic shortages. Imports of meat and meat products increased 54 per cent; wheat imports, 156.8 per cent; corn, 10,432.9 per cent; molasses, 70.7 per cent; cattle, 893.6 per cent; barley malt, 120.9 per cent; wheat by-product feeds, 322 per cent.

Whether the policy of the administration is to increase exports of manufactured goods at the expense of the farmer is not clear, but there is little doubt that is what is happening.

APPROVAL SEEN FOR FAIRBANKS, MORSE PROGRAM

Stockholders of Fairbanks, Morse & Co. are expected to approve this morning the plan of recapitalization proposed by directors to wipe out accumulated preferred dividends, return the preferred stock to a dividend basis, and bring nearer the possibility of common stock dividends. The plan requires assent of two thirds of both common and preferred shares.

For each present 7 per cent preferred share the plan proposes issuance of 1 new convertible 6 per cent preferred share plus one common share and $2 cash in settlement of back dividends which will amount to $25 a share on Dec. 1.

There are 68,642½ preferred shares outstanding. The 368,871 common shares would remain undisturbed. Plans call for payment of the first dividend on the new preferred on March 1, 1936, for the quarter ended on that date.

U. S. REVENUES FALL IN OCTOBER; PROCESS TAX SUITS BLAMED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—October internal revenue collections of $192,218,490 were $17,478,720 smaller than in the same month a year ago, due to a shrinkage in the collection of processing taxes, according to the treasury department. For the four months' period of the fiscal year from July 1 to Oct. 31, however, total receipts were $1,037,689,743, or $23,114,368 greater than in the same 1934 period. Collections in all major groups except processing taxes were substantially higher, including income and excess profits taxes, liquor taxes, and other miscellaneous internal revenue.

For October collections of income and excess profits taxes were $23,576,682 compared with $19,311,106 in October, 1934, an increase of $9,265,575. Liquor tax collections were $44,330,823, compared with $35,154,103, an increase of $9,176,720. Other miscellaneous internal revenue totaled $108,843,937, compared with $100,517,011, an increase of $8,326,926. This was a total increase for these groups in the month of $26,779,222.

Processing tax collections in October totaled $10,467,049, compared with $54,714,990 in October, 1934, a decrease of $44,247,942, which accounted for the net decrease in collections of all types.

17TH SHIPMENT OF SOY BEANS LEAVES CHICAGO

BY HARRY LAIRD.

[Trafic Manager of The Tribune.]

The clearance yesterday from Chicago of the S. S. Shelter Bay with a cargo of soy beans, destined for Denmark, marked the 17th such shipment to leave here in recent weeks for Europe. The latest departure brought the total of such shipments above a million bushels.

The Shelter Bay took on her cargo yesterday at the Wabash elevator at 33d street and the Chicago river. The exact destination was not disclosed by D. Sullivan & Co., which arranged the shipment. It was explained that disclosure of the information might disturb market conditions.

The first export shipment of soy beans from Chicago in three years left Chicago last month when the S. S. Barrie cleared for Montreal with 70,000 bushels. Since then several vessels have loaded cargoes bound for central Europe. The new business is regarded as particularly important to elevator and shipping men because of the drastic curtailment in the last two years of eastbound grain trafic from Chicago.

LAZARD FRERES TO OPEN CHICAGO OFFICE TODAY

Lazard Freres & Co., Inc., New York investment house, will open today a Chicago office in the Field building, 135 South La Salle street, the company announced yesterday. First reports of entrance of the firm in the Chicago field were printed recently in THE TRIBUNE.

The present company, formed a year ago to underwrite and conduct a general investment securities business, is an outgrowth of the old banking firm of Lazard Freres, New York. The firm, which is one of the leading financial houses in the United States and Europe, is maintaining its relationships with associated firms in London and Paris. This is the first time in its history that Lazard Freres has had a middle western office. The company now has an office in Boston and contemplates opening one in Philadelphia.

Sidney L. Castle, formerly in charge of the middle western organization of the National City company and recently with Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., will be in charge of the office here.

Discuss New Plan to Refund County Bonds

Efforts to refund the $48,000,000 bonded debt of Cook county entered a third phase yesterday when a group of county officials met in the offices of Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, with Norman S. Taber, eastern municipal finance consultant, and discussed an entirely new refunding plan.

At the meeting Smith announced that the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which holds more than one-fourth of the county's bonds and whose coöperation is necessary to effect a plan, had advised him that it is ready to go along under a refunding program. A letter from Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, stated that the corporation would agree to a plan if it did not involve expenses for the agency.

Agreement Follows Conferences.

The letter was the result of a series of conferences in Washington several weeks ago between county and RFC officials. The RFC holds over $12,000,000 county relief bonds. Chairman Jones suggested that the board "deal with bankers able to consummate the transaction."

Taber was called into the county bond situation at the suggestion of a local investment house after more than six months of discussion and negotiations with local banks and dealers, during which one plan, approved by the county board, was vetoed by Smith and other proposals encountered objections from various quarters. For the last two months the board has been considering four plans submitted by local banks and bond houses.

May Adjust Maturities.

As in practically all of the previous plans, Taber's proposal, which was discussed only in general outline, provides for reduction of the heavy bond maturities of the next seven years and the retirement of approximately $10,000,000 past due bond principal and interest through the sale of new obligations bearing interest of 4 per cent or less.

Of the $38,000,000 unmatured county bonds falling due between 1936 and 1952, Taber proposes a sufficient amount be refunded into later maturities to make possible a uniform annual levy for bond and interest requirements in the neighborhood of $4,500,000.

Taber said that if he is authorized to proceed with the plan he will do so only with the coöperation of local banks. Under his proposal the county board would be empowered to rescind the contract with him at the end of three weeks unless he is able to give satisfactory assurance that the program can be completed. It provides a fee of $50,000 to Taber.

HOLC ASSAILED ORALLY BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A plea for preservation of states' rights by Joseph P. Brazy, representing the Wisconsin banking commission, completed oral arguments before the Supreme court today in a case involving validity of one section of the home owners' loan act of 1933.

Supporting state officials and courts who prohibited conversion of three Milwaukee building and loan associations from state to federal control, Brazy said, "If the federal government can take away these corporations which were created under state charters, there is a possibility it can take away all corporations."

If this were done, the Wisconsin lawyer asked, "whence will come the revenue to support the state?"

An opinion in the case, first New Deal law to be debated orally before the highest court in its new building, is expected within the next few weeks.

Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Whiting corporation, has been selected to head the Illinois Manufacturers' association in 1936, the nominating association of the body announced yesterday. The election will be held at the annual meeting Dec. 10 in the Stevens hotel, at which E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, will be the principal speaker.

G. P. Torrence, Link-Belt company, was picked by the committee as first vice president for the next year. Other nominees are B. C. Heacock, Caterpillar Tractor company, second vice president, and Paul Schulze, Paul Schulze Biscuit company, treasurer.

Gen. Hammond served as president of the association for several months in 1933. LINCOLN PRINTING OFFERS STOCK ON BACK DIVIDENDS

Directors of the Lincoln Printing company yesterday called a special meeting of stockholders for Dec. 5 to approve a plan to wipe out dividend arrears on the preferred stock through distribution of preference shares now in the treasury of the company on the basis of one additional share for each five shares now held.

The proposal also provides for changing the present 7 per cent cumulative preference stock of $50 par value into no par 7 per cent cumulative stock with a stated value of $10 a share, but with the dividend rate remaining at $3.50 annually.

Arrears stood at $12.25 a share on Nov. 1. The last previous preferred distribution was 87½ cents on May 2, 1932. The common has received nothing since a 50 cent payment on Feb. 1, 1932.

Contingent upon approval of the plan and continuance of the company's present condition, directors yesterday voted an 87½ cent dividend on the preferred, payable Feb. 1, 1936, both on shares now held and those to be issued under the plan.

Change in capitalization through change in stated value of the preferred stock will result in transfer of $1,260,000 to paid-in surplus. "Good will" and "organization expense" will be eliminated from the company accounts, with a corresponding charge to surplus.

In the balance sheet of last Dec. 31, good will was carried at $629,825 and organization expenses at $222,137.

CUMMINGS LISTS HIS SECURITIES IN RAIL PETITION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Seeking interstate commerce commission ratification of his appointment as trustee in the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railway reorganization, Walter J. Cummings of Chicago, today filed a supplemental application listing his holdings of various securities.

Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental, Illinois National Bank and Trust company, informed the commission he holds bonds and notes of 46 municipalities and corporations and the stock of 21 companies. He also said he is one of three endorsers on a $75,000 note of the Grinnell Washing Machine company, but that his contingent liability is limited to $25,000.

Railroad Will Ignore Ruling on Guffey Act

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Louisville and Nashville railroad will disregard the bituminous coal commission's recent order that mail carrying railroads shall purchase only coal, mined in accordance with the Guffey act, President James B. Hill, announced today.

Pending a conference between carrier representatives and postoffice department officials, the railroad president said, his road denied authority of the commission to enforce the order.

Hill explained his position was based on an opinion prepared at his request by R. V. Fletcher, general counsel for the Association of America Railroads, Washington.

"The question is whether the transportation of mails is a contract such as the law refers to in that section of the act prohibiting the government from making contracts with people who buy from a noncode coal mine," Fletcher asserted.

"The railroad opinion is that carrying mails is a public service and hence the railroads do not come within that provision of the law."

Noncompliers Sue U. S.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Four large West Virginia coal companies filed suits in federal court today to restrain the government from collection of penalties imposed on noncompliers by the Guffey coal bill. The companies are the Island Creek Coal company, Mallory Coal company, the Cabin Creek Coal company, and the Pond Creek Pocahontas company. They charged imposition of the penalties is to force them to surrender constitutional rights.

Holding the law is unconstitutional the companies contended imposition of the penalties will cause them to operate at "substantial losses" and will put them "in an intolerable position" in competition with producers who have accepted the pact.

Denies Fear of Price Rise.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Coal consumers have no reason to be apprehensive that higher coal prices will follow the enforcement of the new bituminous coal conservation law, C. F. Hosford Jr., chairman of the bituminous coal commission, declared today. Referring to a more or less widespread fear that higher bituminous prices are coming, he pointed out that the law vests authority in the commisison to "establish minimum prices for coal in order to protect the consumer against unreasonably high prices." That the commission will do, he said.

"While it is not anticipated that the establishment of maximum prices will be necessary, the powers of the commission in this district are specific. Such maximum prices would be, of course, on the basis of a uniform increase above the minimum prices in effect within a district. Due regard would be given to wage stabilization and working conditions, and provision is made for prices on the basis of a return cost to the producer plus a reasonable profit."

REED ILLINOIS CHAIRMAN.

G. W. Reed, vice president of the Peabody Coal company, was elected chairman of the executive committee of the Illinois district board to administer the Guffey coal control act at a meeting held here yesterday. Other officers named were: H. E. Howard, vice chairman; G. D. Cowin, secretary-treasurer, and J. R. Henderson, executive secretary. The state executive board was chosen ten days ago by vote of coal producers.

GEN'L HOUSEHOLD FILES PETITION TO REORGANIZE

General Household Utilities company, radio manufacturing concern with plants in Chicago and Marion, Ind., yesterday filed a petition in the federal district court seeking permission to reorganize under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

The company set forth in its bill that its assets amounted to approximately $3,000,000, against liabilities of $2,000,000. Reorganization is necessitated by the "frozen" condition of part of the company's assets, particularly inventories, the bill asserted.

William C. Grunow, one time head of the Grigsby-Grunow company, now in process of liquidation, is president of the General Household.

The company last year obtained a $300,000 loan from the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. The loan was one of the largest approved by the bank here under the authority voted by congress for "direct loans to industry."

Last July the company was forced to make an arrangement with its creditors whereby they took part cash and granted extensions on the balance of the claims. Extensions were obtained on $832,000 of bills payable.

STOCKS RALLY AS BULL FORCES REGAIN CONTROL

Earning, Dividend News Aid Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—Bull forces regained control of the stock market today and the close of the trading session found most issues from fractions to 3 points above their previous price levels. Investment issues and low priced industrials were favored. A handful of preferred issues scored sharp gains.

Industrial fields were rather barren of worthwhile news, but the rank and file of traders seemed to feel that yesterday's setback was nothing more than a technical correction and that the bulk of corporation shares was entitled to still better price ratings, all things considered.

Better earnings reports, special dividend predictions and the like were made the occasion for a little extra demand in some of the stock beneficiaries of the day's doings.

Copper Shares Spurt.

Copper shares were stimulated by anticipation of higher prices for the metal and the increase in Kennecott's dividend. It is reported prices will be shoved up to 10 cents a pound before long.

Radio was again extremely active, a long succession of thousand share blocks coming out on the tape, with the price rising steadily to a new high of 11½, a gain of $1.50 a share on the day.

American Can came to life in the late trading and rose more than 4 points for no particular reason that the rank and file could make out.

News of an extra $5 dividend voted by Lord & Taylor caused a spurt in Associated Dry Goods, which will get the larger slice of the melon. Macy, McCrory, and some of the other store stocks were better.

Wire Shares Are Strong.

Demand for the communications was sturdy. American Telephone rose to a new high, International Telephone stepped up a point on larger volume, and Postal Telegraph preferred climbed two points, but eased from its high a bit in the later trading.

Measured by points gained, a few prizes were won by Congoleum, Diamond Match, Fairbanks, Asphalt, Warren preferred, General Cigar, Glidden, International Paper, and Liquid Carbonic.

Whisky and alcohol stocks forgot their sulks over the new Canadian treaty and rallied briskly. Schenley showed the way with a price betterment of $3 a share.

Building shares again were good. Radiator and Thompson-Starrett were the features. Otis rose to a new top. Utilities were strong, especially the tractions. Great Northern set a good pace for the rails, some of which gained 1 to 3 points. Rail equipments were not slow to follow. Motors were narrow, but the accessories turned buoyant.

SEVERAL ROADS SHOW GAINS IN OCTOBER INCOME

Sharp improvement in net operating income during October was reported yesterday by some of the nation's leading railroads. This was in line with the heavy freight movement during October, when during each week the total trafic exceeded 700,000 cars.

The Erie had the best net operating income for October since 1929. The total was $2,039,217, compared with $1,392,755 in the preceding month and $1,290,762 a year ago. Gross income for October totaled $7,503,893, against $6,630,310 in September and $6,725,767 in October, last year.

Other roads reporting October operating income yesterday included the Chesapeake & Ohio with $4,945,917, against $3,513,840 a year ago; the Union Pacific with $3,976,639, against $2,888,282 and the Kansas City Southern with $188,162, against $111,735.

Matthew S. Sloan, chairman and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, said yesterday that October revenue was the largest since October, 1931. Earnings in the first two weeks of November, he added, show an increase of 24 per cent over the same period last year. He expressed the opinion that the favorable trend would be sustained for the remainder of the year.

LOSS OF FOREIGN COTTON MARKETS BLAMED ON AAA

New Deal Crop Tinkering Flailed at Export Parley.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The sensational shrinkage in the nation's cotton exports is probably the most disquieting single event in our recent economic history, George P. Auld, member of Haskins & Sells, accountants, said today in an attack on the methods of the Agricultural Adjustment administration before the National Foreign Trade convention.

Auld asserted that from an export level during the crop year ended July 31, 1934 of 7,500,000 bales, valued at $421,000,000, a drop occurred in the year ended July, 1935 to 4,800,000 bales, valued at $326,000,000. At the same time the percentage of American cotton used in total world consumption fell from 58.3 per cent in 1933 to 53.7 per cent in 1934 and 44.4 per cent in 1935.

Terms Experiment Costly.

"The more major policy," he said, "of holding millions of bales of cotton off an unregulated world market through government loans made at an uneconomically high price stands as one of the most costly attempts ever made to prove that the law of supply and demand has been abolished."

"The calamitous government loan scheme was wholly unnecessary. Taxpayers were to furnish the cash, and they did so, but why this was done directly instead of through a foredoomed scheme of price maintenance on the world market is not explainable on any rational basis."

Messages were read at the world trade banquet tonight from President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, secretary of state, declaring the United States stands ready to take the lead in abolishing injurious trade barriers throughout the world.

U. S. to Aid Exporters.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—American exporters whose payments on sales to Brazil have been delayed because of Brazilian currency restrictions, were promised assistance today by the Export-Import bank.

*New 1935 high.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Low priced railroad, utility, and industrial bonds were the center of attention today. While the market failed to produce a great volume of dealings, substantially higher prices were marked up for many favorites. Some bettered their old 1935 highs.

Coincident with a rise in International Telephone stock, the three series of bonds advanced sharply on large transactions. Postal Telegraph 5s, another international security, but not an obligation of the parent company, were taken in substantial blocks at steadily rising prices.

New Highs Recorded.

New high prices for the year were established for International Paper 5s and 6s. New York Railways income 6s topped the old high.

Advances of a point or more were recorded in Abitibi Power 5s, Atlantic Coast Line 4s of 1952, Chicago and North Western general 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Federal Light and Traction 5s and 6s, Interborough 6s, "Katy" 4s of 1962, most of the Missouri Pacific refunding issues, "Soo Line" 6s, Rio Grande Western first 4s and consolidated 4s, Western Pacific first 5s, and several Southern Railway bonds.

High Grade Liens Quiet.

The market for high grade bonds was quiet and little changed. Treasury issues were dull. According to most views they are likely to remain so until the government makes known its plans for Dec. 15 financing. This will be done Dec. 2, according to an official treasury announcement. Closing prices were 2-32ds lower to 5-32ds higher.

Procter & Gamble Co.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly advise me on Procter & Gamble?—R. A. J.

Answer: Procter & Gamble company is the leading soap producer in the United States [Ivory, Camay]. Although known primarily as a soap producer, manufacture of edible products, such as shortenings [Crisco], and salad and margarine oils, normally accounts for almost half of normal dollar sales.

At the stockholders' meeting in October, 1935, President R. R. Deupree said that tonnage sales of soap were running somewhat under 1934, but that sales of vegetable shortenings had increased materially, due to the lard shortage. Taxes, he said, have shown a decided increase. In the year ended June 30, 1935, the company paid $11,300,000, including processing levies, to the federal government, against $3,800,000 the year before.

He said that the outlook for the company is "good."

Net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1935, dropped to $3,605,000, or 53 cents per common share, against $4,085,000, or 61 cents per common share, for the corresponding 1934 period.

The four year record of earnings follows:

Yr. ended June 30.	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per com. shr.
1935 ..	$148,153,000	$15,120,000	$2.22
1934 ..	108,463,000	14,367,000	2.11
1933 ..	94,212,000	10,808,000	1.52
1932 ..	128,392,000	9,129,000	1.26

The company has no funded debt, but there is about $19,000,000 of preferred stock ahead of the 6,325,087 shares of no par common.

Current position on June 30, 1935, was strong. Cash assets alone were about 50 per cent greater than total current liabilities.

The stock pays regular dividends of 37½ cents a quarter. An extra of 25 cents a share was paid Sept. 25. In 1934 an extra of 20 cents a share was paid. Dividends on the stock have been paid without interruption since 1891.

The company demonstrated in the last fiscal year that it was able to increase prices commensurately with increased costs, but results for the first quarter of the current fiscal year show approximately a 10 per cent decline in earnings.

All classes of stock are high grade.

SHORT COVERING LIFTS CORN PRICE CENT A BUSHEL

Wheat, Other Grains Quiet; Changes Small.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A rise of a cent a bushel in corn prices featured trading in the Chicago grain market yesterday. Covering of early short sales by speculators represented a large share of the buying which came into the corn market. The May future was bid up 1⅛ cents a bushel to 60⅞. Trading in wheat and other grains was slow. May wheat closed at 97 cents a bushel, ⅝ cent above Monday's last price.

A continuation of unfavorable weather conditions over a large part of the corn belt and the approach of deliveries under the December contract apparently caused uneasiness among traders who have short commitments in the market. An open interest of 17,212,000 bushels remains in the December contract. Deliveries begin in another ten days.

Cold, Dry Weather Needed.

Cold and dry weather is needed to dry the new corn, but over a large section of the belt rains and showers were reported yesterday. The forecast yesterday promised more wet weather. At the same time complaints are being made that corn now coming to market is not of good quality. The movement of the crop to market is later than usual.

In recent weeks there has been extensive short selling of corn by traders who hedged such sales by purchases of wheat.

Normally the marketing period is one of declining prices, but the lateness of the corn crop movement this year has injected another factor into the situation. As a result some of the traders have been short in the corn markets are beginning to even up their positions.

Corn Helps Wheat Prices.

Strength in corn yesterday tended to bolster wheat prices, which were lower at the opening. Heavy transactions in the cash wheat market likewise lent some strength to the futures market.

Closing price on May grain futures, with comparative quotations, were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	$ .97	$ .96⅜	$ .95¼
Corn	.60⅞	.59¾	.59⅛
Oats	.28½	.28⅜	.28½
Rye	.51½	.51½	.51

Wheat prices in the Winnipeg market yesterday were a trifle below Monday's level. In Liverpool the market closed with a slight gain.

North Shore Line Names R. S. Amis Trafic Manager

Richard S. Amis yesterday was appointed general trafic manager of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad.

BUTTER RISES IN ACTIVE TRADING; EGGS IMPROVE

Active buying of butter futures developed yesterday and the close was ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, with November and December at 31⅝ cents per pound. Egg futures were ½ cent higher on a better movement of the spot article from cold storage. November closed at 23 cents per dozen.

Sales of butter were 126 cars, eggs 161 cars, and potatoes 1 car. Prices:

NEW CROP HOGS FLOOD MARKET; PRICES DECLINE

The heaviest Tuesday hog receipts since January, 24,000 head, depressed prices at the stockyards yesterday. Bulk of the run consisted of new crop stock and these declined 5 to 15 cents, closing at the low of the day. The limited number of extremely heavy butchers and packing sows cleared quickly at steady to strong prices. The top was $11.85 and the average of $11.65 showed only 5 cents decline.

There was a two-way trend to the cattle market yesterday. A limited number of steers good enough to bring more than $12.50 showed strength, while others sold weak to lower with some of the poorest grades below $8.50. Nothing in the run was good enough to sell over $13.25, paid for selected 1,080 pound yearlings, a new seasonal high for this weight.

Packers bought the bulk of slaughter lambs at steady prices, paying $10.50 to $10.60 for most of the closely sorted ewe and wether natives and the bulk of the tops from the supply of fed westerns. One lot reached $10.75.

"REPEATEDLY PROVED"

—ROY D. CHAPIN
President
Hudson Motor Car Company

"The major portion of our advertising appropriation is, and for years has been, invested in newspaper advertising. This is justified by the fact, repeatedly proved in our experience, that advertising in newspapers produces immediate action at the point of sale. It supplies the final punch in a well-rounded campaign."

— — — EX-CONVICT. — — —

Two years' experience in a penal institution of high national standing. Contrary to Lombroso's theories, I am minus the underslung jaw, taking ways and baby-killing ambitions. My references [jail included] describe me as young, traveled, an excellent secretary-stenographer-correspondent, and possessed of business judgment [apologies to press agents]. While the market for penal alumni is admittedly in a slump, here's an "Ex" who believes his value to an employer is enhanced BECAUSE of the experience, and, for a good judge of human nature, I am and will be a good investment. Anywhere and anything—with reservations.
